By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Mexican Mafia, a gang active in prisons and on the streets, may be behind numerous murders and thefts of public funds in East Los Angeles, officials said Friday.

Although officials would not confirm any direct link of gang activity, a prison spokesman said it is "a real possibility" that the Mexican Mafia — by threats or physical force — has diverted dollars going into community projects.

"It's very possible that guys out in East Los Angeles are affiliated with the Mexican Mafia."

It's a real possibility," said Philip Guthrie, deputy director of the State Department of Corrections.

Meanwhile, the Sacramento Bee reported that a rivalry between two prison-spawned gangs, the Mexican Mafia and La Nuestra Familia, has produced as many as 20 murders which Los Angeles police earlier said may be related to the recent slaying of a woman in Sacramento.

These competing gangs use old-style protection rackets, siphon off methadone used in heroin-treatment clinics, and are forcing their way into federal and state antipoverty, welfare and health programs, unnamed sources told the Bee.

State officials estimate that $2.7 million goes into the East Los Angeles area for drug rehabilitation and related programs funded by the state and federal governments.

A South Pasadena woman was slain, gangland style, Feb. 17, after she flew to Sacramento to meet with state officials, reportedly to document charges that public funds were misused in a state and federally funded East Los Angeles program for ex-inmates, sources have said.

Uganda: Carter's first crisis

Amin holding 250 Americans; U.S. fleet near

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — President Carter, suddenly involved in his first international crisis, expressed concern Friday about the fate of the 250 Americans in Uganda and set in motion the machinery to deal with any deterioration in the situation.

White House officials were under instructions to avoid saying anything that might inflame the situation and imperil the lives of the Americans, mostly missionaries.

These Americans were ordered Friday to come to the Uganda capital of Kampala on Monday to meet with President Idi Amin and were forbidden to leave Uganda before then.

Carter conferred with Zbigniew

Brzezinski, his national security affairs adviser; Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, and Andrew Young, the chief delegate to the United Nations.

A working group was set up at the State Department to monitor developments, and the Pentagon considered possible orders to the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, which with six other ships was in the Indian Ocean off the East African coast.

(The San Diego Union reported that the Enterprise was sailing under Carter's orders because of the detention of the Americans in Uganda.)

Diplomatically, word was sent to Amin that the United States would not tolerate any attempt to use the estimated 250 Americans as hostages. William E. Schaefe, assistant secretary for African affairs, summoned the senior Ugandan diplomat to the State Department to express "the strongest possible U.S. concern about the implications of Uganda's announcement that all Americans were summoned to Kampala," the department spokesman said.

The Uganda diplomat, Paul C. Chepkwuri, later told reporters that no harm was meant the Americans, but that Amin merely wanted to talk to them.

Fire rips Moscow hotel

MOSCOW (AP) — An army of fire fighters early today brought under control a fire that roared up an elevator shaft and quickly spread through the upper floors of the Hotel Rossiya, the world's largest.

Witnesses said a large number of guests appeared to be injured and some may have died. Soviet officials confirmed there were injuries but gave no figures.

The north wing of the hotel burned for more than three hours Friday night and early today, sending hundreds of guests fleeing into the winter night. Others, trapped by the flames, slid down knotted bed-sheets or jumped from windows.

U.S. officials said about 170 Americans were at the Rossiya, a seven-year-old, 3,200-room hotel that can accommodate more than 5,000 guests. The hotel is just a block from Red Square in the heart of Moscow.

There were no reports of any Americans being hurt.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the fire broke out about 9 p.m. Moscow time after being touched off by "technical trouble" in elevator motors.

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Construction of the proposed $80-million Sohio oil terminal in Long Beach still depends on the solution of two key pollution problems, California Air Resources Board Chairman Tom Quinn said Friday.

However, Quinn told the California congressional delegation the terminal will be approved if oil industry officials, the Coast Guard and legislators can arrive at workable plans to minimize environmental damage from oil spills and smog emissions.

QUINN'S message to the state delegation was probably the most optimistic statement the state air chief has made concerning construction of the facility since it was proposed two years ago.

His statements, however, contained a built-in warning that the spectre of the two pollution problems — the possibility of oil spills from the giant ships and the emission of hydrocarbons from the ships' tanks — still could make construction of the project "impossible."

Quinn told the lawmakers that the Coast Guard is "anxious to solve" the probable pollution problems, but added that the federal Department of Transportation favors combatting pollution dangers with legislation.

Quinn has long been a vocal critic of the project, which is planned by Standard Oil of Ohio as the major continental U.S. reception point for millions of barrels of oil from Alaska's North Slope.

"If all other problems are solved, except the tanker problem, then my feeling is that we should grant a permit for the project conditional on solving the tanker problem," Quinn told the lawmakers.

Some officials favor legislation requiring segregated ballast tanks — a measure that could avert oil contamination of seawater — but oil companies traditionally have opposed that requirement because it would reduce a ship's oil-carrying capacity by one-third, Quinn said.

He added that Sohio officials say their firm already has tankers with segregated ballast tanks.

Sohio officials also plan to submit proposals for curbing air pollution that would be generated by the tanker facility, Quinn said.

He previously has vehemently disagreed with oil industry spokesmen who have minimized the amount of smog a large oil tanker terminal would bring to the Southland.

QUINN HAS said reports estimate the unloading of oil-laden tankers could bring pollution equal to that created by four million cars. A great deal of that pollution would be created by "purging" ships' holds, a process that expels hydrocarbons into the atmosphere.

Oil officials have argued that the purging would be done on the high seas, far away from civilization, but Quinn has countered that the fumes could still drift back to the Southland.

In his presentation Friday, Quinn also told the lawmakers that public opposition to construction of the tanker facility at Avila Beach in Central California "makes that site not a practical possibility."

He concluded that approval of the Long Beach terminal "depends on Sohio and, to some extent, the Coast Guard."

State earmarks water to parched Bay Area

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state announced Friday that it will reserve a 10-day supply of water for San Francisco and East Bay cities, but the cities can't use it next summer unless they ration water.

It also earmarked 3.5-trillion gallons for San Francisco's northern suburbs in Marin County, where rationing is already in effect.

The actions came as the state divided up 320,000 acre-feet of water which the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California agreed not to take from its 750,000 acre-foot entitlement from the state water project. An acre-foot is 325,900 gallons.

Grand Prix 'solution' forecast

By LARRY LARUE

A court order delaying preparations for the Long Beach Grand Prix until Wednesday — at least — has not yet endangered the race itself, Chris Pook said Friday.

And, said Pook, president of the Long Beach Grand Prix Association, his organization is "working to see if some resolution can be reached" with the State Coastal Commission, which sought and received a Superior Court restraining order this week to stop construction of bleachers and other temporary work.

That order, handed down Thursday by Los Angeles Judge Charles Phillips, was mandated by law when it was learned that the coastal commission permit allowing Grand Prix construction had been appealed by a group opposing the race.

The appeal, by the Long Beach Area Citizens Involved, is scheduled to be heard March 15 before the State Coastal Commission. But Pook, the city of Long Beach and the coastal commission will all be represented in Superior Court Wednesday in a 9 a.m. hearing to determine whether the order halting work will remain in effect until the March 15 meeting.

At Wednesday's hearing the judge will rule whether a preliminary injunction should be granted against further work readying the course until the appeal is heard. Robert Keeler, the deputy state attorney general on the case, maintained Thursday that coastal commission enabling legislation allows the judge no alternative but to halt work until the appeal is resolved.

Pook said it was "inappropriate to comment" on the status of the race — scheduled in Long Beach April 3 — should the restraining order stand until the 15th.

Deputy City Attorney Ken Williams, however, had said earlier such a delay could "kill the race."

Pook said Friday he had no ill feelings toward the citizens group which had appealed the regional coastal commission permit — but that "we're extremely upset about the paperwork bureaucracy of the state, which has penalized us."

Pook explained that on Nov. 19 last year the city, on behalf of the race, filed a permit application stressing the necessity to a speedy process because of the obvious deadlines of preparing for the April 3 race.

INSTEAD, however, the permit request was not heard until this month. The regional commission granted the association and city of Long Beach a permit to stage the Grand Prix, but it was appealed.

"Our contention is that the matter should have been resolved — one way or the other — months ago. If we're not going to have a race, we should have known about it long before now," Pook said.

The commission's court action, aside from stopping construction, requests that the city pay a penalty of $10,000 for allowing preparatory work to continue this month and an additional fine of $5,000 per day for each day the work went on.

CITY Councilman Wallace Edgerton entered the legal melee as "a third party, a liason," and said he hoped a reasonable decision could be made in the best interests of the city.

Pook, too, remained "guardedly optimistic," adding that "it's presumptuous of me to suppose what the court may do Wednesday."

$500,000 boys want what's left

By GREG THOMPSON

WACO, Tex. (AP) — When the two teen-age boys left their Texas home they had only the clothes on their backs, two ounces of marijuana and two suitcases — stuffed with nearly $500,000 in cash.

Thus equipped for a trip to Chicago, they launched a two-day spending spree that ended in the Waco jail drunk tank, where a prostitute offered to marry them.

The Alice, Tex., high school sophomores, Dean Bridges, 15, and Percy Garcia, 16, say they dug up the cash from a hiding place on Bridges' father's ranch and found that with $500,000 you can:

- Pay a bellboy $3,000 to buy a 1977 Thunderbird for $8,000 in cash and drive it off a Dallas showroom floor.
- Give $100 gifts to winos and $20 tips to waiters.
- Stay at a downtown Dallas hotel and go on shopping sprees to buy cameras, clothes and stereo equipment.
- The remaining money, in $20, $50 and $100 bills, now sits in a Waco bank while a grand jury investigates its source. The car, with less than 500 miles on it, is gathering dust in the McLennan County garage.

Bridges' father, James Hiroms (Bridges uses his stepfather's name), a welder and racehorse owner, went to jail in Alice on Thursday rather than testify about the origin of the money, which officers believe is related to drug smuggling.

Anita Bryant

A spokesman for homosexual rights groups in Miami denied Anita Bryant's charge that pressure from gay activists caused her to lose a chance to launch a television series. Miss Bryant, a leader of the current campaign to have Dade County's recently-adopted homosexual rights ordinance revoked, said that "the blacklisting of Anita Bryant has begun."

But Bob Kunst, the homosexuals' spokesman, saw things a different way. "She wants to cause gays to lose their jobs and she complains because she lost a job," he said. "The lady is a hypocrite. She took the chance of people, mainly straight people, disagreeing with her when she began her campaign. She's the one who decided to begin the witchhunt."

Blood donor

President Carter rolled up his left sleeve on Friday and became one of five million Americans who will give blood this year to the American Red Cross.

He not only gave presidential blood, but it was also a type — A-negative — that flows through the veins of only six per cent of all Americans.

Red Cross officials said it was the first time within memory — or perhaps ever — that a President has donated blood.

Reporters were not allowed to see the presidential needle-sticking but were allowed to watch for a few minutes while the blood flowed into a bottle. "Fellas," Carter shouted to the reporters, "go downstairs and get in line." There were no takers.

'Stomper' held

The man arrested as Atlanta's "foot-stomper" used to be the "foot-stomper" of Nashville, Tenn., authorities say.

Atlanta police filed 12 charges of simple battery against George Mitchell on Friday, but aggravated assault charges may be brought because some victims suffered severe injuries, including broken toes.

Mitchell was arrested Thursday by officer G.K. Tyler, who said he saw Mitchell stare into a woman's eyes and then crash the heel of his platform shoe onto her foot. Atlanta police said at least 20 women have reported similar attacks.

Nashville police said Mitchell was arrested several times for similar offenses.

President Carter became a grandfather for the second time when daughter-in-law Caron Carter gave birth Friday night to a seven-pound boy who the family said would be named James Earl Carter IV.

The father, Chip Carter, 26, was in the delivery room at Bethesda Naval Medical Center in suburban Maryland to watch the birth. He described it as "probably the best experience of my life — including Dad winning the presidency."

No execution

The U.S. Supreme Court on Friday postponed the execution of a condemned Georgia murderer less than 24 hours before he was scheduled to die in the electric chair.

The high court told Georgia officials to call off the planned execution this morning of Wilburn W. Dobbs pending his formal appeal.

Dobbs was sentenced to death in 1974 for the Dec. 14, 1973 shotgun murder of William Austin, a rural storekeeper.

In granting a request by Dobbs' attorneys to allow them time to file a formal appeal of the convict's sentencing, the court imposed a March 9 deadline for the appeal.

If the court votes not to review the appeal, the execution postponement will be lifted.

Hunt alleges plot

Convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt said in Boston Friday that he believed the White House "Plumbers" once plotted to assassinate the head of the Panama government.

Hunt, who was released from prison Wednesday, said the Central Intelligence Agency was unhappy with Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's head of government, because he allegedly allowed illegal drugs to move through his country.

Hunt did not say when the alleged plot occurred, which members of the Plumbers were involved or how far the plans had progressed.

Marxist mayor

The Communist mayor of Florence, Italy, said Friday he was delighted with the invitation he received to visit Detroit and hopes no obstacles will be posed by the U.S. government. The case tests President Carter's criticism of entry restrictions on foreign visitors "who disagree with us politically."

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young extended an invitation for Mayor Elio Gabbugiani of Florence to participate in the dedication of Detroit's $337-million riverfront Renaissance Center.

Currently, Communists or those belonging to Communist-affiliated organizations are barred entry into the United States without a special waiver from the attorney general.

This is Young's second attempt to play host to the Florence mayor. The first, in October, was reportedly blocked by the State Department.

Rudolf Hess

Informed sources in West Berlin said Friday that Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former deputy, tried to slash his wrists in his cell in Spandau Prison on Monday, but suffered only minor injuries. Allied spokesmen, under the strict rules that govern the imprisonment of the sole surviving war criminal under four-power jurisdiction, declined comment on the incident. It was learned, however, that the 82-year-old Hess was in a state of depression and was seen by a psychiatrist after the suicide attempt. He was said to be well enough Friday to see his son, Wolf Rudiger Hess, who was at Spandau prison for a regular monthly visit. Hess, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1946, cannot be released on compassionate grounds of old age and illness because all four of the allied powers must agree on such a course, and the Soviet Union declines to do so.

Andrei Gromyko

Since he has not been seen in public for at least five weeks, there is speculation in the diplomatic community in Moscow that the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, may be seriously ill. "He's not available and he's out of action," said one Western diplomat. Gromyko, who is 67 years old, has been foreign minister for 20 years. He was last seen in public Jan. 19, when he greeted the Communist Party leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev, on his return from a visit to the city of Tula.

Wheat 'cartel' talks

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Friday that he intends to seek a wheat price-fixing arrangement with Canada that would effectively set a world price on bread grain.

Bergland later discussed the plan with Otto Lang, Canadian minister of transportation, who also is the top official in Canada's wheat marketing program.

Bergland was asked how his plan for U.S.-Canada wheat price-fixing is different from a foreign oil cartel.

"If we can do something about the oil cartel, fine," Bergland said. "I'd be willing to drop these talks with anybody when the oil cartel is dissolved."

"I don't want to get into a knock-down, drag-out pricing war with Canada," Bergland said. "I don't think that's in our interest or theirs."

Oppose Cuba talks

WASHINGTON — A group of seven Cuban exile leaders told Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance Friday that they were unanimously opposed to U.S. negotiations with the Cuban government of Premier Fidel Castro.

Hostages released

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — An unemployed construction worker released a pregnant teen-ager and her 18-month-old son Friday after holding them hostage for more than 12 hours. Police said the gunman had killed a man and threatened to shoot his hostages. Leroy Cotton, 30, surrendered quietly and was led from the building in handcuffs. Police listed no motive for the killing, and knew of no connection linking Cotton, the dead man and the hostages.

Mass transit funds

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams announced Friday that enough money was available for the nation's mass transit funding program to last through 1979. He said that he needed time to work out the details of a future five-year authorization plan for 1980 and beyond, and would submit it to Congress no later than May 15, 1978. A Senate subcommittee has been conducting hearings on a new $11.4 billion five-year transit funding bill on the assumption that existing funds were virtually exhausted.

Berlin Wall tariff boosted

BERLIN — Communist East Berlin said Friday it will charge Western drivers 10 marks — about $4.15 — for taking their cars through the Berlin Wall and onto its streets.

The new charge will be in addition to fees already levied for taking Western vehicles deeper into East Germany. It was the second recent move by East Germany to curb quick trips from West Berlin into East Berlin.

Western drivers have customarily been charged 10 to 50 marks — $4.15 to $21 — for driving varying distances into the interior of East Germany, but East Berlin's streets themselves have been free.

At the start of 1977, East Germany started requiring foreigners to obtain visas and pay a $2 fee each time they crossed into East Berlin. They also said visitors would have to return to the West by midnight of the day they entered, instead of being allowed to visit for 24 hours.

Talks on Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus — U.S. envoy Clark Clifford crossed the fortified line dividing Greek and Turkish Nicosia Friday and said after talking to Turkish Cypriot leaders he felt a peace settlement "can be arranged in 1977." Clifford said both sides should present "detailed, constructive" proposals on territorial division and the form of a new central government for the island, divided since a Turkish invasion in 1974.

Israeli party policy

TEL AVIV — The Israeli Labor Party's four-day national convention closed here Friday after adopting an election platform softening the party's stand regarding peace with Jordan. The party, which has been the dominant element in all Israeli governments, for the first time specifically endorsed returning some occupied territories to the Jordanians in a peace settlement.

Rightists indicted

MADRID — A court indicted Spain's best-known ultrarightist and three Italian neofascists Friday on terrorism charges in a government crackdown on right-wing violence.

The indictment of Sanchez Covisa, alleged head of a group of right-wing toughs calling themselves "Guerrillas of Christ the King," was considered a landmark for Spain's reform-minded government. It was the first known prosecution of a follower of Gen. Francisco Franco since Franco's insurgent forces won the Spanish civil war in 1939.

Carter at his press conference Tuesday had strongly condemned Amin, saying, "In Uganda the actions there have disgusted the entire civilized world."

He said he supported the British in asking the U.N. to "go into Uganda to assess the horrible murders that apparently are taking place in that country — the persecution of those who have aroused the ire of Mr. Amin."

Some officials believe that Amin may be seeking to respond to Carter by his pressure on the Americans.

The United States is "doing everything it can" to assure the safety of the Americans in Uganda, Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, said.

San Joaquin Valley farmers, many of whom were expecting only 20 per cent as much water as they got last year, were promised the lion's share of the MWD water.

The MWD water will more than double the supply to some farmers. The Kern County Water Agency, for example, was expecting only 173,000 acre-feet from the state canal this year.

Grand Prix 'solution' forecast

By LARRY LARUE
Staff Writer

A court order delaying preparations for the Long Beach Grand Prix until Wednesday — at least — has not yet endangered the race itself, Chris Pook said Friday.

And, said Pook, president of the Long Beach Grand Prix Association, his organization is "working to see if some resolution can be reached" with the State Coastal Commission, which sought and received a Superior Court restraining order this week to stop construction of bleachers and other temporary work.

That order, handed down Thursday by Los Angeles Judge Charles Phillips, was mandated by law when it was learned that the coastal commission permit allowing Grand Prix construction had been appealed by a group opposing the race.

The appeal, by the Long Beach Area Citizens Involved, is scheduled to be heard March 15 before the State Coastal Commission. But Pook, the city of Long Beach and the coastal commission will all be represented in Superior Court Wednesday in a 9 a.m. hearing to determine whether the order halting work will remain in effect until the March 15 meeting.

At Wednesday's hearing the judge will rule whether a preliminary injunction should be granted against further work readying the course until the appeal is heard. Robert Keeler, the deputy state attorney general on the case, maintained Thursday that coastal commission enabling legislation allows the judge no alternative but to halt work until the appeal is resolved.

Pook said it was "inappropriate to comment" on the status of the race — scheduled in Long Beach April 3 — should the restraining order stand until the 15th.

Deputy City Attorney Ken Williams, however, had said earlier such a delay could "kill the race." Pook said Friday he had no ill feelings toward the citizens group which had appealed the regional coastal commission permit — but that "we're extremely upset about the paperwork bureaucracy of the state, which has penalized us."

Pook explained that on Nov. 19 last year the city, on behalf of the race, filed a permit application stressing the necessity to a speedy process because of the obvious deadlines of preparing for the April 3 race.

INSTEAD, however, the permit request was not heard until this month. The regional commission granted the association and city of Long Beach a permit to stage the Grand Prix, but it was appealed.

"Our contention is that the matter should have been resolved — one way or the other — months ago. If we're not going to have a race, we should have known about it long before now," Pook said.

The commission's court action, aside from stopping construction, requests that the city pay a penalty of $10,000 for allowing preparatory work to continue this month and an additional fine of $5,000 per day for each day the work went on.

CITY Councilman Wallace Edgerton entered the legal melee as "a third party, a liaison," and said he hoped a reasonable decision could be made in the best interests of the city.

Pook, too, remained "guardedly optimistic," adding that "it's presumptuous of me to suppose what the court may do Wednesday."

$500,000 boys want what's left

By GREG THOMPSON

WACO, Tex. (AP) — When the two teen-age boys left their Texas home they had only the clothes on their backs, two ounces of marijuana and two suitcases — stuffed with nearly $500,000 in cash.

Thus equipped for a trip to Chicago, they launched a two-day spending spree that ended in the Waco jail drunk tank, where a prostitute offered to marry them. The Alice, Tex., school sophomores, Dean Bridges, 15, and Percy Garcia, 16, say they dug up the cash from a hiding place on Bridges' father's ranch and found that with $500,000 you can:

—Pay a bellboy $3,000 to buy a 1977 Thunderbird for $8,000 in cash and drive it off a Dallas showroom floor.

—Give $100 gifts to winos and $20 tips to waiters.

—Stay at a downtown Dallas hotel and go on shopping sprees to buy cameras, clothes and stereo equipment.

The remaining money, in $20, $50 and $100 bills, now sits in a Waco bank while a grand jury investigates its source. The car, with less than 500 miles on it, is gathering dust in the McLennan County garage.

Bridges' father, James Hiroms (Bridges uses his stepfather's name), a welder and racehorse owner, went to jail in Alice on Thursday rather than testify about the origin of the money, which officers believe is related to drug smuggling.

It's a boy! First Grandpa gets 7-pound namesake

CHIP AND CARON Carter, shown in this recent White House photograph, became first-time parents Friday night when she gave birth to James Earl Carter IV. All involved are reportedly doing fine.

Anita Bryant

Spokesman for homosexual rights groups in Miami denied Anita Bryant's charge that pressure from gay activists caused her to lose a chance to launch a television series. Miss Bryant, a leader of the current campaign to have Dade County's recently-adopted homosexual rights ordinance revoked, said that "the blacklisting of Anita Bryant has begun."

But Bob Kunst, the homosexuals' spokesman, saw things a different way. "She wants to cause gays to lose their jobs and she complains because she lost a job," he said. "The lady is a hypocrite. She took the chance of people, mainly straight people, disagreeing with her when she began her campaign. She's the one who decided to begin the witchhunt."

Blood donor

President Carter rolled up his left sleeve on Friday and became one of five million Americans who will give blood this year to the American Red Cross.

He not only gave presidential blood, but it was also a type — A-negative — that flows through the veins of only six per cent of all Americans.

Red-Cross officials said it was the first time within memory — or perhaps ever — that a President has donated blood.

Reporters were not allowed to see the presidential needle-sticking but were allowed to watch for a few minutes while the blood flowed into a bottle. "Fellas," Carter shouted to the reporters, "go downstairs and get in line." There were no takers.

'Stomper' held

The man arrested as Atlanta's "foot-stomper" used to be the "foot-stomper" of Nashville, Tenn., authorities say.

Atlanta police filed 12 charges of simple battery against George Mitchell on Friday, but aggravated assault charges may be brought because some victims suffered severe injuries, including broken toes.

Mitchell was arrested Thursday by officer G.K. Tyler, who said he saw Mitchell stare into a woman's eyes and then crash the heel of his platform shoe onto her foot. Atlanta police said at least 20 women have reported similar attacks.

Nashville police said Mitchell was arrested several times for similar offenses.

President Carter became a grandfather for the second time when daughter-in-law Caron Carter gave birth Friday night to a seven-pound boy who the family said would be named James Earl Carter IV.

The father, Chip Carter, 26, was in the delivery room at Bethesda Naval Medical Center in suburban Maryland to watch the birth. He described it as "probably the best experience of my life — including Dad winning the presidency."

President and Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy, 9, also were at the hospital. They had flown by helicopter from the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., less than an hour before.

The mother is 25 years old.

Carter emerged smiling from the hospital elevator after visiting the new mother and went back to Camp David by helicopter after a brief visit.

"It's a beautiful baby," Mrs. Carter reported with a smile, saying the birth of a second grandchild was "exciting."

The President described the infant as "perfect" and said, "We're very proud."

Carter said Chip and Caron both were doing well. "I'm glad to see that Chip survived," the President joked.

Officials said the new mother and young James IV were expected to be discharged from the hospital on Monday. Caron's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Griffin of Hawkinsville, Ga., were visiting in Ocala, Fla., when she was taken to the hospital, and they arranged to fly to Washington today.

No execution

The U.S. Supreme Court on Friday postponed the execution of a condemned Georgia murderer less than 24 hours before he was scheduled to die in the electric chair.

The high court told Georgia officials to call off the planned execution this morning of Wilburn W. Dobbs pending his formal appeal.

Dobbs was sentenced to death in 1974 for the Dec. 14, 1973 shotgun murder of William Austin, a rural storekeeper.

In granting a request by Dobbs' attorneys to allow them time to file a formal appeal of the convict's sentencing, the court imposed a March 8 deadline for the appeal.

If the court votes not to review the appeal, the execution postponement will be lifted.

Marxist mayor

The Communist mayor of Florence, Italy, said Friday he was delighted with the invitation he received to visit Detroit and hopes no obstacles will be posed by the U.S. government. The case tests President Carter's criticism of entry restrictions on foreign visitors "who disagree with us politically."

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young extended an invitation for Mayor Elio Gabbuggiani of Florence to participate in the dedication of Detroit's $337-million riverfront Renaissance Center.

Currently, Communists or those belonging to Communist-affiliated organizations are barred entry into the United States without a special waiver from the attorney general.

This is Young's second attempt to play host to the Florence mayor. The first, in October, was reportedly blocked by the State Department.

Rudolf Hess

Informed sources in West Berlin said Friday that Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former deputy, tried to slash his wrists in his cell in Spandau Prison on Monday, but suffered only minor injuries. Allied spokesmen, under the strict rules that govern the imprisonment of the sole surviving war criminal under four-power jurisdiction, declined comment on the incident. It was learned, however, that the 82-year-old Hess was in a state of depression and was seen by a psychiatrist after the suicide attempt. He was said to be well enough Friday to see his son, Wolf Rudiger Hess, who was at Spandau prison for a regular monthly visit. Hess, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1946, cannot be released on compassionate grounds of old age and illness because all four of the allied powers must agree on such a course, and the Soviet Union declines to do so.

Hunt alleges plot

Convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt said in Boston Friday that he believed the White House "Plumbers" once plotted to assassinate the head of the Panama government.

Hunt, who was released from prison Wednesday, said the Central Intelligence Agency was unhappy with Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's head of government, because he allegedly allowed illegal drugs to move through his country.

Hunt did not say when the alleged plot occurred, which members of the Plumbers were involved or how far the plans had progressed.

Back on earth

Cosmonauts Yuri Glazkov and Viktor Gorbakto touched softly back down to earth Friday after 19 days in space during which they carried out photography and scientific observations.

Moscow television reported that the cosmonauts made a gentle, on-target landing in northern Kazakhstan, amid cyclones and huge drifts of snow.

The Tass news agency said the cosmonauts were in good condition after the mission aboard the orbiting space lab Salyut 5.

Andrei Gromyko

Since he has not been seen in public for at least five weeks, there is speculation in the diplomatic community in Moscow that the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, may be seriously ill. "He's not available and he's out of action," said one Western diplomat. Gromyko, who is 67 years old, has been foreign minister for 20 years. He was last seen in public Jan. 19, when he greeted the Communist Party leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev, on his return from a visit to the city of Tula.

the WORLD TODAY
Wheat 'cartel' talks

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Friday that he intends to seek a wheat price-fixing arrangement with Canada that would effectively set a world price on bread grain.

Bergland later discussed the plan with Otto Lang, Canadian minister of transportation, who also is the top official in Canada's wheat marketing program.

Bergland was asked how his plan for U.S.-Canada wheat price-fixing is different from a foreign oil cartel.

"If we can do something about the oil cartel, fine," Bergland said. "I'd be willing to drop these talks with anybody when the oil cartel is dissolved."

"I don't want to get into a knock-down, dragout pricing war with Canada," Bergland said. "I don't think that's in our interest or theirs."

Oppose Cuba talks

WASHINGTON — A group of seven Cuban exile leaders told Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance Friday that they were unanimously opposed to U.S. negotiations with the Cuban government of Premier Fidel Castro.

Hostages released

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — An unemployed worker released a pregnant teen-ager and her 18-month-old son Friday after holding them hostage for more than 12 hours. Police said the gunman had killed a man and threatened to shoot his hostages. Leroy Cotton, 30, surrendered quietly and was led from the building in handcuffs. Police listed no motive for the killing, and knew of no connection linking Cotton, the dead man and the hostages.

Berlin Wall tariff boosted

BERLIN — Communist East Berlin said Friday it will charge Western drivers 10 marks — about $4.15 — for taking their cars through the Berlin Wall and onto its streets.

The new charge will be in addition to fees already levied for taking Western vehicles deeper into East Germany. It was the second recent move by East Berlin to curb quick trips from West Germany into East Berlin.

Western drivers have customarily been charged 10 to 50 marks — $4.15 to $21 — for driving varying distances into the interior of East Germany, but East Berlin's streets themselves have been free.

At the start of 1977, East Germany started requiring foreigners to obtain visas and pay a $2 fee each time they crossed into East Berlin. They also said visitors would have to return to the West by midnight of the day they entered, instead of being allowed to visit for 24 hours.

Talks on Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus — U.S. envoy Clark Clifford crossed the fortified line dividing Greek and Turkish Nicosia Friday and said after talking to Turkish Cypriot leaders he felt a peace settlement "can be arranged in 1977." Clifford said both sides should present "detailed, constructive" proposals on territorial division and the form of a new government for the island, divided since a Turkish invasion in 1974.

Israeli party policy

TEL AVIV — The Israeli Labor Party's four-day national convention closed here Friday after adopting an election platform softening the party's stand regarding peace with Jordan. The party, which has been the dominant element in all Israeli governments, for the first time specifically endorsed returning some occupied territories to the Jordanians in a peace settlement.

Rightists indicted

MADRID — A court indicted Spain's best-known ultrarightist and three Italian neo-fascists Friday on terrorism charges in a government crackdown on right-wing violence.

The indictment of Sanchez Covisa, alleged head of a group of right-wing toughs calling themselves "Guerrillas of Christ the King," was considered a landmark for Spain's reform-minded government. It was the first known prosecution of a follower of Gen. Francisco Franco since Franco's insurgent forces won the Spanish civil war in 1939.

McCulloch dies at 65

Robert P. McCulloch, president of McCulloch Oil Co., died of an apparent heart attack Friday. He was 65.

McCulloch, the man who brought the London Bridge and brought it to Lake Havasu, in Arizona, was found dead in his Bel Air home.

The McCulloch business empire was built on McCulloch Corp., which produces chain saws and two-cycle engines. But it included varied companies, including the publicly held McCulloch Oil Co. The Los Angeles-based company ranged from oil to tools to land development.

Valley parents vow busing boycott

By JENNIFER KERR
Associated Press

Parents from the predominantly white San Fernando Valley warned Los Angeles Board of Education members Friday that forced busing for integration would cause more school boycotts and "white flight" to other districts and private schools.

The warnings came at one of a series of public hearings held by the board on a proposal to meet court orders on school integration.

The Friday morning hearing at Fulton Junior High School in Van Nuys, attended by 600 persons, was scheduled to be the only one in the valley. However, more than 100 persons signed up to speak, almost all adamantly against the proposal, and the board returned in the evening to hear more of the protesters.

After more public hearings next week, the board must decide whether to accept the plan drawn up by the staff of Supt. William J. Johnston. The board plans to submit a plan by March 7 to Superior Court Judge Paul Egly to meet a State Supreme Court order.

The proposal, estimated to cost $30 million, would require fourth, fifth and sixth graders to be bused to special learning centers for racial mixing nine weeks each school year. Similar mixing would be extended to junior and senior high schools later.

Speakers Friday morning criticized the plan for its mandatory busing and urged the board to try voluntary integration first.

"I am seriously questioning the survival of this school system if you insist on a mandatory program without letting us try to work out a voluntary program," said Roberta Weintraub of Sherman Oaks, who is running for the board seat of Dr. Robert Docter, a supporter of the plan.

"I don't want to put my kids in a private school; I can't afford it," said Jerry Joins, "I will not advocate forced busing. I'm the type of person who will stand and fight."

"When you take my child away from me," said Dottie Otero of Van Nuys, "you'd better believe there will be white flight... My children will be in private schools, but I will be in there fighting."

"We will have more boycotts. Our children will not be bused," said Annita Yamasaki of Canterbury. "We will not send them to school."

Officer slain, stepson held

A Los Angeles police officer was found shot to death Friday, buried in his backyard. His 14-year-old stepson was arrested in connection with the slaying.

Officer Edward T. Bullis, 26, a 3½-year veteran, was found by a fellow officer who went to the Bullis home in Acton after receiving a call from Bullis' wife about 2:45 p.m.

An 11-year-old stepdaughter witnessed the slaying and told deputies Bullis was shot with his own 30.06 rifle early Thursday. No motive was given. The stepson was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Embezzlement biz

I have noticed in the last five years or so that both banks I deal with have a personnel turnover I'd estimate to be better than 100 per cent annually. This sort of thing raises doubts in my mind as to the confidentiality of bank records. Could Action Line determine whether the rate of embezzlement has increased significantly in the last few years? J.H.M., Long Beach.

The trend for this crime is up. FBI statistics, from the bureau's Uniform Crime Reports section in Washington, D.C., show that there were 12,200 arrests nationwide for embezzlement from all businesses in 1975, well above the 7,674 figure for 1965. In interpreting these statistics, you should taken into consideration that embezzlements occur in many businesses and that there were many more savings institutions and more people working in them in 1975 than there were 10 years earlier. "There are approximately 60,000 financial institutions and branches now, and the number is growing every day," one FBI agent told Action Line. Statewide FBI figures for the last half of 1975 and for 1976 show that California contributed about 10 per cent of the national embezzlement totals. The FBI nationwide crime statistics are collected from about 13,500 police agencies which cover about 96 per cent of the country.

We are considering an early summer vacation trip to Mayan country — Yucatan and Guatemala. Has Guatemala recovered from the earthquake sufficiently to permit tourism? R.S.P., Long Beach.

Yes. Hotels have been rebuilt, towns and villages reconstructed and roads cleared. "There is no inconvenience to tourists at all," according to a spokeswoman for the consulate of Guatemala in Los Angeles. "We began working on the hotels immediately after the earthquake." Recent Guatemala visitors whom Action Line checked with confirmed that Guatemala is ready for tourists. One told us U.S. citizens are especially welcome because of the U.S. aid given after the Feb. 4, 1976, earthquake. The massive quake killed some 23,000 persons, injured 76,000 and left more than a million — one-sixth of Guatemala's population — homeless. You can write the consulate at 412 W. Sixth St., Room 311, Los Angeles, Calif. 90014, for brochures. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Didn't quit

A few months ago I paid the Schick Center for the Control of Smoking $450 for their stop-smoking program. Their program didn't work so I completed it again. I'm still smoking. Their guarantee says, "You will quit smoking in five days or your money back." so I asked for a refund. They refused, and I would like your help getting my money back. D.B., Long Beach.

You aren't entitled to a refund, but you can go through the program again at no extra charge, according to Micky London, Schick Center spokesman in Century City. To get a refund, London said, a person must request it in writing at the end of the final session of the five-day aversion conditioning program. The person must certify in writing that he is still smoking and must smoke and inhale a complete cigarette in the presence of a Schick representative. Those who take up smoking again after completion of the program can repeat it at no charge as often as they like within one year from the date of the original enrollment, London said.

Allowance

I am working for Los Angeles County under Title I of the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). I am having trouble finding out if my wages for 1976 are taxable and if I have to file state and federal income tax for 1976. No taxes are withheld from my checks. M.L.G., South Gate.

Under Title I of CETA you receive a training allowance, not wages, said a spokesman for the Long Beach office of manpower affairs, and the allowance is not taxable. If you were being paid a taxable wage, he said, the appropriate taxes would have been withheld from your check. You do need to file a W-4E form with the Internal Revenue Service showing that the money you were paid in 1976 is tax exempt. The CETA program is designed to create additional jobs for unemployed or under-employed persons. Title I of the program provides both classroom and on-the-job training for unskilled workers.

Ninth Sansinena blast victim dies

A 45-year-old Italian crewman, severely burned Dec. 17 when the Liberian-registered oil tanker Sansinena blew up in Los Angeles Harbor, died in a Genoa, Italy, hospital Friday.

Rocco di Majo became the ninth fatality of the tanker blast, which killed seven crewmen and a security guard instantly.

Brown, Riles heal wounds on schools

By BOB EGELKO

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown and State Schools Supt. Wilson Riles have joined forces behind Brown's five-year, $3.7-billion school finance plan. A news conference indicated a healing of the wounds since Brown's veto of Riles' high school reform bill last year. Brown indicated he now supports the reforms.

The high school proposal is contained almost intact in Brown's school finance bill, along with an expansion of Riles' Early Childhood Education program to the first eight grades.

The high school proposal, known as RISE for Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education, would establish parent councils at each school to help run programs that are supposed to be based on the different education and job needs of each student. Schools would get $65 per student to run the program.

Reforms accepted in finance bill

Brown vetoed it last year, saying it was too expensive, that there was no evidence it would work, and that "reform" often proved an illusion.

But at Friday's news conference, the Democratic governor referred to the proposal as part of an overall school reform package that will "provide the kind of education that I think will be second to none in this country."

Brown and Riles both expressed confidence that the overall finance bill would satisfy a State Supreme Court order to substantially equalize the money-raising abilities of California's school districts.

The court, in its Serrano decision, ruled that California's school finance system based on local property taxes discriminated against districts with little taxable wealth.

The plan doesn't fully comply with the court's standards of no more than a $100 difference between revenues of districts with the same tax rate, but Brown suggested the standard wasn't binding and should be adjusted for inflation.

Past court decisions, he told reporters, have required the state to do only "what is reasonable and feasible." The court was not aiming at mathematical exactitude.

Brown said his proposal would allow districts with 86 per cent of the state's students to raise amounts within $200 of each other at the same tax rate in the plan's last year, 1981-82. Aides said only 40 to 50 per cent fall in that range now.

In 1981-82, the state would spend $1.2 billion more on schools than its present $3-billion budget.

Spending would be equalized by forcing districts with high taxable wealth to share some of their property tax revenue with low-wealth districts. It is expected to meet resistance from districts like San Francisco, which have great property wealth but many poor residents.

Under the plan, the top 15 per cent of districts in wealth would have to contribute to a state pool which would provide money for poorer districts. However, the amount they would have to share has been reduced from an earlier form of the proposal.

Also removed from the earlier version were controversial proposals that, in effect, would have eliminated the politically popular Mentally Gifted Minors program, increased teacher contributions to their pension program, and required teachers to take extra training for pay raises.

"This is as close as we think we can come within the political boundaries of the state," said Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, who will introduce Brown's bill in several weeks.

Asked whether his two State Supreme Court nominees, Rose Bird and Wiley Manuel, agreed with the proposal, Brown said, "I am confident they have a very realistic grasp of what is appropriate and what is possible."

The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, has been working on an alternate proposal that is expected to give schools a relatively free hand in using state funds, rather than tying them to the programs in Brown's measure.

Santa Ana chief gets 2 posts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Police Chief Raymond Davis of Santa Ana was appointed chairman of the State Council on Criminal Justice Friday by Gov. Brown.

The Democratic governor also named Davis, a Republican, as his representative at the National Conference on Statewide Crime Prevention Programs in Louisville, Ky., March 8-10.

Brown recently spent several hours one night riding with Santa Ana police to observe the department's "Community Oriented Police" program, which is designed to involve the public in crime fighting.

Top court 'Catch 22' hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court is denying the constitutional rights of many citizens by refusing to hear important cases, the newly elected head of the ACLU contends.

"What the Burger court is doing is not simply rejecting civil liberties cases on the merits," said Norman Dorsen. "It is achieving the same result by coming in another direction. Litigants can't raise their points when they can't even get a hearing."

Warren Burger is Chief Justice of the United States.

Dorsen, a New York

University law professor, cited as an example the case of a group of poor people who claimed they were denied service from a hospital that got special tax breaks but refused to treat indigent patients. Dorsen said the high court decided the poor did not have standing to contest the suit because they were not patients at the hospital.

Dorsen, who called it a "Catch-22 situation," said Thursday the 270,000-member ACLU is placing greater reliance on legislation because of the court's conservative stance.

Carter urged to pick drought aide

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—Thirty-one California members of Congress have written President Carter, asking him to appoint a federal coordinator to be in charge of all federal drought-relief programs in the state.

The letter was proposed by Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Vallejo. The congressman acted in behalf of Gov. Brown, who sent his executive secretary, Gray Davis, to Washington a week ago to make the same plea.

McCulloch dies at 65

Robert P. McCulloch, president of McCulloch Oil Co., died of an apparent heart attack Friday. He was 65.

McCulloch, the man who bought the London Bridge and brought it to Lake Havasu, in Arizona, was found dead in his bed at home.

The McCulloch business empire was built on McCulloch Corp., which produces chain saws and two-cycle engines. But it included varied companies, including the publicly held McCulloch Oil Co. The Los Angeles-based company ranged from oil to tools to land development.

Valley parents vow busing boycott

By JENNIFER KERR
Associated Press

Parents from the predominantly white San Fernando Valley warned Los Angeles Board of Education members Friday that forced busing for integration would cause more school boycotts and "white flight" to other districts and private schools.

The warnings came at one of a series of public hearings held by the board on a proposal to meet court orders on school integration.

The Friday morning hearing at Fulton Junior High School in Van Nuys, attended by 600 persons, was scheduled to be the only one in the valley. However, more than 100 persons signed up to speak, almost all adamantly against the proposal, and the board returned in the evening to hear more of the protesters.

After more public hearings next week, the board must decide whether to accept the plan drawn up by the staff of Supt. William J. Johnston. The board plans to submit a plan by March 7 to Superior Court Judge Paul Egly to meet a State Supreme Court order.

The proposal, estimated to cost $30 million, would require fourth, fifth and sixth graders to be bused to special learning centers for racial mixing nine weeks each school year. Similar mixing would be extended to junior and senior high schools later.

Speakers Friday morning criticized the plan for its mandatory busing and urged the board to try voluntary integration first.

"I am seriously questioning the survival of this school system if you insist on a mandatory program without letting us try to work out a voluntary program," said Roberta Weintraub of Sherman Oaks, who is running for the board seat of Dr. Robert Docter, a supporter of the plan.

"I don't want to put my kids in a private school; I can't afford it," said Jerry Joins. "I will not advocate forced busing. I'm the type of person who will stand and fight."

"When you take my child away from me," said Dottie Otero of Van Nuys, "you'd better believe there will be white flight ... My children will be in private schools, but I will be in there fighting."

"We will have more boycotts. Our children will not be bused," said Annita Yamasaki of Canterbury. "We will not send them to school."

Officer slain; stepson held

A Los Angeles police officer was found shot to death Friday, buried in his backyard. His 14-year-old stepson was arrested in connection with the slaying.

Officer Edward T. Bullis, 26, a 3½-year veteran, was found by a fellow officer who went to the Bullis home in Acton after receiving a call from Bullis' wife about 2:45 p.m.

An 11-year-old stepdaughter witnessed the slaying and told deputies Bullis was shot with his own 30.06 rifle early Thursday. No motive was given. The stepson was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Embezzlement biz

I have noticed in the last five years or so that both banks I deal with have a personnel turnover I'd estimate to be better than 100 per cent annually. This sort of thing raises doubts in my mind as to the confidentiality of bank records. Could Action Line determine whether the rate of embezzlement has increased significantly in the last few years? J.H.M., Long Beach.

The trend for this crime is up. FBI statistics, from the bureau's Uniform Crime Reports section in Washington, D.C., show that there were 12,200 arrests nationwide for embezzlement from all businesses in 1975, well above the 7,674 figure for 1965. In interpreting these statistics, you should take into consideration that embezzlements occur in many businesses and that there were many more savings institutions and more people working in them in 1975 than there were 10 years earlier. "There are approximately 60,000 financial institutions and branches now, and the number is growing every day," one FBI agent told Action Line. Statewide FBI figures for the last half of 1975 and for 1976 show that California contributed about 10 per cent of the national embezzlement totals. The FBI nationwide crime statistics are collected from about 13,500 police agencies which cover about 96 per cent of the country.

We are considering an early summer vacation trip to Mayan country — Yucatan and Guatemala. Has Guatemala recovered from the earthquake sufficiently to permit tourism? R.S.P., Long Beach.

Yes. Hotels have been rebuilt, towns and villages reconstructed and roads cleared. "There is no inconvenience to tourists at all," according to a spokeswoman for the consulate of Guatemala in Los Angeles. "We began working on the hotels immediately after the earthquake." Recent Guatemala visitors whom Action Line checked with confirmed that Guatemala is ready for tourists. One told us U.S. citizens are especially welcome because of the U.S. aid given after the Feb. 4, 1976, earthquake. The massive quake killed some 23,000 persons, injured 76,000 and left more than a million — one-sixth of Guatemala's population — homeless. You can write the consulate at 412 W. Sixth St., Room 311, Los Angeles, Calif. 90014, for brochures. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

A few months ago I paid the Schick Center for the Control of Smoking $450 for their stop-smoking program. Their program didn't work so I completed it again. I'm still smoking. Their guarantee says, "You will quit smoking in five days or your money back," so I asked for a refund. They refused, and I would like your help getting my money back. D.B., Long Beach.

You aren't entitled to a refund, but you can go through the program again at no extra charge, according to Micky London, Schick Center spokesman in Century City. To get a refund, London said, a person must request it in writing at the end of the final session of the five-day aversion conditioning program. The person must certify in writing that he is still smoking and must smoke and inhale a complete cigarette in the presence of a Schick representative. Those who take up smoking again after completion of the program can repeat it at no charge as often as they like within one year from the date of the original enrollment, London said.

Allowance

I am working for Los Angeles County under Title I of the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). I am having trouble finding out if my wages for 1976 are taxable and if I have to file state and federal income tax for 1976. No taxes are withheld from my checks. M.L.G., South Gate.

Under Title I of CETA you receive a training allowance, not wages, said a spokesman for the Long Beach office of manpower affairs, and the allowance is not taxable. If you were being paid a taxable wage, he said, the appropriate taxes would have been withheld from your check. You do need to file a W-4E form with the Internal Revenue Service showing that the money you were paid in 1976 is tax exempt. The CETA program is designed to create additional jobs for unemployed or underemployed persons. Title I of the program provides both classroom and on-the-job training for unskilled workers.

Ninth Sansinena blast victim dies

A 45-year-old Italian crewman, severely burned Dec. 17 when the Liberian-registered oil tanker Sansinena blew up in Los Angeles Harbor, died in a Genoa, Italy, hospital Friday.

Rocco di Majo became the ninth fatality of the tanker blast, which killed seven crewmen and a security guard instantly.

Brown, Riles heal wounds on schools

By BOB EGELKO

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown and State Schools Supt. Wilson Riles have joined forces behind Brown's five-year, $3.7-billion school finance plan. A news conference indicated a healing of the wounds since Brown's veto of Riles' high school reform bill last year. Brown indicated he now supports the reforms.

The high school proposal is contained almost intact in Brown's school finance bill, along with an expansion of Riles' Early Childhood Education program to the first eight grades.

The high school proposal, known as RISE for Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education, would establish parent councils at each school to help run programs that are supposed to be based on the different education and job needs of each student. Schools would get $65 per student to run the program.

Reforms accepted in finance bill

Brown vetoed it last year, saying it was too expensive, that there was no evidence it would work, and that "reform" often proved an illusion.

But at Friday's news conference, the Democratic governor referred to the proposal as part of an overall school reform package that will "provide the kind of education that I think will be second to none in this country."

Brown and Riles both expressed confidence that the overall finance bill would satisfy a State Supreme Court order to substantially equalize the money-raising abilities of California's school districts.

The court, in its Serrano decision, ruled that California's school finance system based on local property taxes discriminated against districts with little taxable wealth.

The plan doesn't fully comply with the court's standards of no more than a $100 difference between revenues of districts with the same tax rate, but Brown suggested the standard wasn't binding and should be adjusted for inflation.

Past court decisions, he told reporters, have required the state to do only "what is reasonable and feasible." The court was not aiming at mathematical exactitude.

Brown said his proposal would allow districts with 85 per cent of the state's students to raise amounts within $200 of each other at the same tax rate in the plan's last year, 1981-82. Aides said only 40 to 50 per cent fall in that range now.

In 1981-82, the state would spend $1.2 billion more on schools than its present $3-billion budget.

Spending would be equalized by forcing districts with high taxable wealth to share some of their property tax revenue with low-wealth districts. It is expected to meet resistance from districts like San Francisco, which have great property wealth but many poor residents.

Under the plan, the top 15 per cent of districts in wealth would have to contribute to a state pool which would provide money for poorer districts. However, the amount they would have to share has been reduced from an earlier form of the proposal.

Also removed from the earlier version were controversial proposals that, in effect, would have eliminated the politically popular Mentally Gifted Minors program, increased teacher contributions to their pension program, and required teachers to take extra training for pay raises.

"This is as close as we think we can come within the political boundaries of the state," said Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, who will introduce Brown's bill in several weeks.

Asked whether his two State Supreme Court nominees, Rose Bird and Wiley Manuel, agreed with the proposal, Brown said, "I am confident they have a very realistic grasp of what is appropriate and what is possible."

The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, has been working on an alternate proposal that is expected to give schools a relatively free hand in using state funds, rather than tying them to the programs in Brown's measure.

Cabinet millionaires still not singled out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, who promised to publicly disclose the financial affairs of top appointees, made public Friday net worth statements of 15 Cabinet-level officeholders that seemed to conceal almost as much as they revealed.

The accountings of the assets and liabilities of the 11 Cabinet members and four Cabinet-level advisers omitted precise figures in almost all cases. In their place were letter symbols covering broad ranges of dollar amounts. For example, a letter "E" meant that an individual reported at least $100,000 of income, assets, stockholdings or whatever. Thus there was no way to single out the millionaires in the Cabinet.

WHITE HOUSE Press Secretary Jody Powell defended the code system by saying that "revelations of exact amounts tend to place families in jeopardy," presumably from kidnappers. Powell also contended such codes have been found acceptable by some congressional committees and bar associations.

Of the 15 jobholders whose financial affairs were partially disclosed, only Andrew Young, the new ambassador to the United Nations, was deemed free of any potential conflict of interest. The other 14 had to take a variety of steps, ranging from divestiture of stocks to leasing a farm for a fixed fee or placing holdings in blind trust to meet Carter's well-publicized ethics guidelines.

That a number of Cabinet members are well-heeled comes as no surprise, of course, but both Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Director Thomas Lance of the Office of Management and Budget reported they had more than $100,000 in cash lying around at the end of last year. Lance also was listed as owning undisclosed amounts of stock in more than 130 corporations while having less than $5,000 invested in U. S. savings bonds.

On the minus side, Lance was shown to owe five banks more than $100,000 each.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, generally regarded as one of the wealthier Cabinet members, showed sizable stockholdings plus interests in oil and gas drilling ventures. But he was put down for owning just two automobiles — a 1975 Honda and a 1973 Ford Pinto.

Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland, who owns a 567-acre farm in Minnesota that he has leased, was revealed to have done better as a House member from that state than as a farmer. His 1976 farm income totaled $18,270 — compared with a congressional salary of $44,600.

THE TWO WOMEN in the Cabinet, Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps and Patricia Roberts Harris, the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, were shown to have received more income last year as corporation directors than from any other source. Mrs. Kreps earned $30,106 as a Duke University vice president and professor and $61,150 as a director of blue-chip corporations.

Mrs. Harris' principal source of income in 1976 was directors' fees of $40,535.

Besides Blumenthal, Cabinet-level investors in oil and gas drilling and real estate ventures, often used as tax shelters, included Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Joseph Califano, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Califano's 1976 income from a Washington law firm was listed as $505,000 — about double what Vance drew from a Wall Street law firm.

LABOR SECRETARY Ray Marshall's largest holding was listed as a Texas ranch, valued at more than $100,000. Many of the others were credited with homes in the same coded category.

The accountings, such as they were, indicated Carter's top appointees of modest means include Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams and chairman Charles Schultze of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Besides supplying the coded net worth statements, Carter made public a listing of "outside affiliations" of the 15 officeholders along with letters to him in which they promised not to capitalize on their government experience for financial gain until at least two years after they leave their posts.

Labor hears Russ dissident

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Soviet dissident Vladimir Bukovsky, meeting Friday with America's labor leaders, urged the unions to question U.S. corporate investment in the Soviet Union to insure that profit is not made at the expense of human rights.

Bukovsky said capital investment "calculated on the exploitation of cheap labor" in Russia harms the interest of workers both in the Soviet Union and Western countries.

Reading in halting English at a meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, the exiled Russian also praised President Carter's stand for human rights. Bukovsky is scheduled to meet with Carter next week.

AFL-CIO president George Meany said later at a news conference with Bukovsky that he was "delighted" with Carter's stand. He promised labor's strong support.

Meany, a hard-line anti-Communist, said there is no reason the United States cannot do business with the Soviets without abandoning its values on human freedom.

"The idea that we might improve their conditions (the Soviet people's) by being nice ... is completely ridiculous," Meany said. "It's like saying that you can improve the conditions of the inmates of a jail by drinking champagne with the jailers."

After Bukovsky's talk, the labor chiefs adopted a call for continued funding of the Air Force's new B1 bomber.

Advisory committee trims set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter ordered Cabinet members and other agency heads Friday to review the budgets of all advisory committees to determine which have outlived their usefulness.

The White House press office said that, in 1976, $53.8 million was spent on 1,156 advisory committees. In a memorandum sent to each of the executive departments and agencies, Carter said he was "ordering a government-wide, zero-base review of all advisory committees."

HE SAID those without specific statutory orders should be abolished except for those "for which there is a compelling need, which will have truly balanced membership and which conduct their business as openly as possible, consistent with the law and their mandate."

Under a "zero-base" review, each expenditure on a budget must be reviewed and justified, including expenditures of previous years that will be

Wright seeks assassinations panel truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic Leader Jim Wright said Friday he has told the chairman and chief investigator of the Select Assassinations Committee to agree to a shotgun-wedding truce if they hope to save the committee.

But the committee's public information officer said that chief investigator Richard A. Sprague had not agreed to the compromise ordered by Wright.

Wright said in an interview that he told Sprague to work with Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez' new staff director and to cut the staff as Gonzalez earlier ordered. In return, he said, Gonzalez was told he must quit his attempts to fire Sprague.

continued in a new budget, as well as new expenditures. He gave the agencies and department heads until April 15 to complete their reviews and submit them to the Office of Management and Budget. Carter also urged them to confer with Congress "about abolishing any advisory committees created by statute" which they do not think meet standards for continued existence. He said he hoped the result would be a sharp reduction in the number of advisory committees and that no such panels would be originated unless they are essential.

FBI called in on Arab insurance fraud Prof charged in dope-making

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The FBI is checking reports that money bilked from U.S. insurance companies in phony accidents, fires and auto thefts is being funneled to the Palestine Liberation Organization by Arab students, officials said Friday.

Meanwhile, a denial of any connection has been issued in New York by Hasan A. Abdel Rahman, deputy permanent observer of the PLO at the United Nations.

He said the PLO "completely rejects those allegations which are aimed at slandering the PLO... and categorically denies any connection whatsoever with such alleged frauds and those who may have committed them."

Two weeks ago, the California Highway Patrol announced that 180 persons of Middle Eastern heritage were involved in a ring of insurance frauds around the country that has bilked companies out of millions of dollars.

Richard White, FBI special agent in charge of the Sacramento region, refused comment on the case.

One Lebanese national, Tarek Othman, was arrested in Sacramento in December and has been arraigned on a charge that he lied about having his driver's license suspended in Michigan when he applied for a license in California.

Another person, Mohammed Siam, was arrested last Sunday in Long Beach on insurance fraud and perjury charges.

Lt. Glenn Sewell, heading the investigation for the CHP, said more arrests were expected by next week.

He said reports that money was funneled to the PLO stemmed from comments made by an insurance company. "We have information that money is leaving the country. The FBI is working on it," Sewell said in an interview.

He said there was no evidence that the money, which he estimates in the millions of dollars, has gone to any group such as the PLO.

Earlier, Sewell said the Arabs in the United States on student visas generally live a frugal existence, stretching $50 to last a week.

Since the announcement two weeks ago, Sewell said his office has been receiving numerous calls from insurance companies "from all over. It's hard to put a handle on how big it is," he said.

He said faked injuries from bogus accidents also have led to state-paid disability insurance claims, but there were no figures on how much.

Meanwhile, in Westport, Conn., the Insurance Crime Prevention Institute reports that its agents have been investigating fraudulent claims since 1971 and "recent press reports of a nationwide insurance fraud ring composed of Arab nationals and others appear to be well-founded."

James Ahern, director of the non-profit trade association, said he could not confirm an insurance company official's reported assertion of a PLO link. He did say, however, that such a cash flow is "certainly a possibility."

Ahern also said insurance fraud by groups of foreign nationals was nothing new. He said his institute has taken part in cases involving Nigerians in Washington, Chicago and Detroit and, more recently, a probe of the so-called Hungarian Mafia in Los Angeles.

The institute could not provide statistics on claims found fraudulent and the dollars involved.

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — A chemistry professor at Cal State Bakersfield was arrested Friday on charges that he manufactured and sold large amounts of phenylcyclidine, a narcotic called "angel dust," police reported.

Police Capt. James Ware said Luther Dickson, 28, had been manufacturing the drug in the college chemistry lab.

U.S. team going to Viet to find out about 1,900 MIAs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will send a high-level commission to Vietnam in mid-March to discuss the possibility of obtaining a full accounting of the more than 1,900 Americans still unaccounted for in that country, the State Department announced Friday.

Spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said the United States also hopes to send a similar mission to Laos, where the fate of some 560 Americans is still unknown.

Brown said the five-member presidential commission will be headed by United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock and that other commission members will be announced later.

He said a parallel objective of the Hanoi mission will be to discuss with Vietnamese authorities matters affecting mutual relations as part of a long-range U.S. goal of establishing normal relations.

Of the 2,550 Americans missing in Southeast Asia, all but about 800 have been declared dead for legal purposes. A House special committee reported that there is little hope that the 800 persons listed as missing in action are still alive.

About 80 Americans are unaccounted for in Cambodia but Brown said there has been no attempt to contact Cambodian authorities because the prospect for co-operation with them is "not encouraging."

"In seeking an accounting we will make clear that we are concerned about all Americans lost in Southeast Asia, our servicemen and civilians, those still listed as missing as well as the larger number who have been presumed dead with no accounting being provided," Brown said.

"The fact that a man has been declared dead for legal purposes does not affect our determination to seek information about him and to arrange for the return of his remains if they can be recovered."

State Department officials said the Vietnamese set no preconditions in agreeing to receive the U.S. commission. Agreement was reached following an exchange of letters between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Vietnamese Minister of Foreign Affairs Nguyen Duy Trinh.

During the election campaign, President Carter said that one of the most "embarrassing failures" of the Ford administration was its inability to obtain a full accounting of Americans missing in Southeast Asia. He promised, if elected, to send a delegation to Hanoi to see if progress could be made.

THE PAPER described Scarlett as sharing "a common characteristic with her sister Chiang Ching in that she was a restorationist zealot and conspirator" who wished "to turn back the wheel of history."

It said Chiang Ching wanted to turn back Chinese history to feudal society so that she could "ascend the throne as an empress."

The paper described Scarlett as "an old hand in embarking on intrigues and conspiracies," but said "Chiang Ching's double dealing tactics were even more superior and aggressive."

IT continued: "Scarlett also had something more similar to Chiang Ching than the other sisters," the empresses of the past. "This was her fanaticism."

Arrogant and conceited, she ran factories herself and for the sake of making profit she hired convicts so that she could drive and mistreat them at will.

"She felt that she was good in everything, capable of doing anything, and afraid of nothing... She openly said: 'There is only one thing which cannot be done without a man — to give birth to children.'"

'Plug' specialist plants free ads in films, TV

By ROBERT LINDSEY
New York Times Service

In a new movie called "The Late Show," actors and actresses spend considerable time drinking Pepsi-Cola. A truck advertising the No. 2 cola appears on the screen regularly.

Pepsi isn't there by accident. The appearances represent a calculated effort by the Pepsi-Cola people to help make the public forget No. 1, Coca-Cola. And, if viewers look carefully, they will also see brief appearances in the movie by Beringer Wines, Sharp Electronics, Wilson Sporting Goods and Botany 500 suits.

THEY INDICATE one way American businesses attempt to manipulate the movies. And they represent success for a man named Larry Dorn, one of Hollywood's product pluggers.

Dorn, a 55-year-old former New Yorker, is one of about 50 free-lance specialists in a growing business that strives to get free plugs on television and in the movies. Most spend their time trying to give away merchandise as prizes on television's 18 nighttime and 12 daytime quiz shows.

Some, like Dorn, toil not only trying to give away television sets, furniture, clothing and other merchandise on these shows, but also trying to place "product identification" props in television dramas and movies — and, on occasion, to keep things that embarrass a business off the screen. Dorn said he was once hired by AMF Corp. to persuade the producer of a film to drop a scene in which illicit drug dealings were taking place in a bowling alley. At the time, AMF (which makes automatic pinsetting equipment) was trying to upgrade the image of bowling alleys to attract more families.

"In this scene, they were going to transmit some drugs in the hole in a bowling ball. I managed to kill it," Dorn said.

DURING the making of another picture, "Airport," he was retained by Pan American World Airways and joined with representatives of other airlines to mute as much as possible the portions of the film that might deter people from flying and to minimize instructions in the film on how to make a bomb. The bomb was part of the movie's story.

Another time, Dorn said, he persuaded a director to cancel plans to use a Pepsi-Cola bottle "as a weapon" in a picture.

When television series were regularly featuring crashes of police helicopters several years ago, Hughes Aircraft, which at the time was attempting to sell a lot of helicopters to police departments around the country, sent an emissary to the TV industry in an effort to cut down the crash rate.

Some companies, such as PepsiCo, which makes Pepsi-Cola, keep Dorn on a retainer basis. Others hire him on a spot basis. The going rate for getting a prop or advertising sign

Comedian Kamen dies

Associated Press

Comedian Milt Kamen, a frequent guest on television talk shows, died at his Los Angeles home Thursday, family spokesmen said Friday. He was 55.

The cause of death has not been determined. A coroner's spokesman said an autopsy would be performed today, but it appeared Kamen died of natural causes.

Kamen, born in New York City, was a regular guest on "The Merv Griffin Show," where he was noted for his comic movie reviews. Most recently he reviewed "King Kong."

He also appeared on "The Mike Douglas Show" and the "Tonight" show.

He was a guest star on the TV series "Quincy" and last year was in the movie "W.C. Fields and Me."

Earlier in his career he was on "Your Show of Shows" with Sid Caesar and was in several of the Jerry Lewis-Dean Martin movies. Surviving are his widow, Margot; three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Peace Mausoleum Chapel.

FBI called in on Arab insurance fraud Prof charged in dope-making

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The FBI is checking reports that money bilked from U.S. insurance companies in phony accidents, fires and auto thefts is being funneled to the Palestine Liberation Organization by Arab students, officials said Friday.

Meanwhile, a denial of any connection has been issued in New York by Hasan A. Abdel Rahman, deputy permanent observer of the PLO at the United Nations.

He said the PLO "completely rejects those allegations which are aimed at slandering the PLO... and categorically denies any connection whatsoever with such alleged frauds and those who may have committed them."

Two weeks ago, the California Highway Patrol announced that 180 persons of Middle Eastern heritage were involved in a ring of insurance frauds around the country that has bilked companies out of millions of dollars.

Richard White, FBI special agent in charge of the Sacramento region, refused comment on the case.

One Lebanese national, Tarek Othman, was arrested in Sacramento in December and has been arraigned on a charge that he lied about having his driver's license suspended in Michigan when he applied for a license in California.

Another person, Mohammed Siam, was arrested last Sunday in Long Beach on insurance fraud and perjury charges.

Lt. Glenn Sewell, heading the investigation for the CHP, said more arrests were expected by next week.

He said reports that money was funneled to the PLO stemmed from comments made by an insurance company. "We have information that money is leaving the country. The FBI is working on it," Sewell said in an interview.

He said there was no evidence that the money, which he estimates in the millions of dollars, has gone to any group such as the PLO.

Earlier, Sewell said the Arabs in the United States on student visas generally live a frugal existence, stretching $50 to last a week.

Since the announcement two weeks ago, Sewell said his office has been receiving numerous calls from insurance companies "from all over. It's hard to put a handle on how big it is," he said.

He said faked injuries from bogus accidents also have led to state-paid disability insurance claims, but there were no figures on how much.

Meanwhile, in Westport, Conn., the Insurance Crime Prevention Institute reports that its agents have been investigating fraudulent claims since 1971 and "recent press reports of a nationwide insurance fraud ring composed of Arab nationals and others appear to be well-founded."

James Ahern, director of the non-profit trade association, said he could not confirm an insurance company official's reported assertion of a PLO link. He did say, however, that such a cash flow is "certainly a possibility."

Ahern also said insurance fraud by groups of foreign nationals was nothing new. He said his institute has taken part in cases involving Nigerians in Washington, Chicago and Detroit and, more recently, a probe of the so-called Hungarian Mafia in Los Angeles.

The institute could not provide statistics on claims found fraudulent and the dollars involved.

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — A chemistry professor at Cal State Bakersfield was arrested Friday on charges that he manufactured and sold large amounts of phenylcyclidine, a narcotic called "angel dust," police reported.

Police Capt. James Ware said Luther Dickson, 28, had been manufacturing the drug in the college chemistry lab.

U.S. team going to Viet to find out about 1,900 MIAs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will send a high-level commission to Vietnam in mid-March to discuss the possibility of obtaining a full accounting of the more than 1,900 Americans still unaccounted for in that country, the State Department announced Friday.

Spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said the United States also hopes to send a similar mission to Laos, where the fate of some 560 Americans is still unknown.

Brown said the five-member presidential commission will be headed by United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock and that other commission members will be announced later.

He said a parallel objective of the Hanoi mission will be to discuss with Vietnamese authorities matters affecting mutual relations as part of a long-range U.S. goal of establishing normal relations.

Of the 2,550 Americans missing in Southeast Asia, all but about 800 have been declared dead for legal purposes. A House special committee reported that there is little hope that the 800 persons listed as missing in action are still alive.

About 80 Americans are unaccounted for in Cambodia but Brown said there has been no attempt to contact Cambodian authorities because the prospect for co-operation with them is "not encouraging."

"In seeking an accounting we will make clear that we are concerned about all Americans lost in Southeast Asia, our servicemen and civilians, those still listed as missing as well as the larger number who have been presumed dead with no accounting being provided," Brown said.

"The fact that a man has been declared dead for legal purposes does not affect our determination to seek information about him and to arrange for the return of his remains if they can be recovered."

State Department officials said the Vietnamese set no preconditions in agreeing to receive the U.S. commission. Agreement was reached following an exchange of letters between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Vietnamese Minister of Foreign Affairs Nguyen Duy Trinh.

During the election campaign, President Carter said that one of the most "embarrassing failures" of the Ford administration was its inability to obtain a full accounting of Americans missing in Southeast Asia. He promised, if elected, to send a delegation to Hanoi to see if progress could be made.

As fanatic as 'foreign sister' Defamed Mao widow depicted as 'Scarlett'

CHIANG
TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's widow, Chiang Ching, was an admirer of "Gone with the Wind," and her critics now say that like the American novel's heroine, Scarlett O'Hara, she was fanatic, arrogant and conceited.

The Peking intellectual daily, Kwang-ming Jih-pao, made this judgment in an article entitled "Chiang Ching and her 'Foreign Sister,'" received in translation here Friday.

A one-time Shanghai movie actress, Chiang Ching, 62, is now under arrest, accused along with three leading Communist radicals of plotting to overthrow China's new party chairman, Hua Kuo-feng.

"This foreign sister is not a real person," writes critic Feng Fei, "but the heroine of an American fashionable novel in the 1930s. This novel is called 'Gone with the Wind.' The author of the novel, Margaret Mitchell, paints a tragic picture of the American Civil War for the liberation of Negroes."

"With deep lamentation she portrays the sad and dismal ruin of the big landlords of the South. This novel not only is reactionary in thought but also has nothing salient in art. However, Chiang Ching viewed this novel with sympathy and in a talk in 1972 she lavished praise on it again and again. Why? Because she discovered in this novel a person with similar taste in the heroine Scarlett O'Hara."

Pop singer and song writer Stevie Wonder and his secretary, Mary Cummings, arrive in New York Friday after a tour of Nigeria. Wonder won four top Grammy awards recently.

Comedian Kamen dies

Comedian Milt Kamen, a frequent guest on television talk shows, died at his Los Angeles home Thursday, family spokesman said Friday. He was 55.

The cause of death has not been determined. A coroner's spokesman said an autopsy would be performed today, but it appeared Kamen died of natural causes.

Kamen, born in New York City, was a regular guest on "The Merv Griffin Show," where he was noted for his comic movie reviews. Most recently he reviewed "King Kong."

He also appeared on "The Mike Douglas Show" and the "Tonight" show.

He was a guest star on the TV series "Quincy" and last year was in the movie "W.C. Fields and Me."

Earlier in his career he was on "Your Show Must Show" with Sid Caesar, and was in several of the Jerry Lewis-Dean Martin movies. Surviving are his widow, Margot; three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Peace Mausoleum Chapel.

THE PAPER described

Scarlett as sharing "a common characteristic with her sister Chiang Ching in that she was a restorationist zealot and conspirator" who wished "to turn back the wheel of history."

It said Chiang Ching wanted to turn back Chinese history to feudal society so that she could "ascend the throne as an empress."

The paper described Scarlett as "an old hand in embarking on intrigues and conspiracies," but said "Chiang Ching's double dealing tactics were even more superior and aggressive."

IT continued: "Scarlett also had something more similar to Chiang Ching than the other sisters, the empresses of the past. This was her fanaticism."

Arrogant and conceited, she ran factories herself and for the sake of making profit she hired convicts so that she could drive and mistreat them at will.

"She felt that she was good in everything, capable of doing anything, and afraid of nothing... She openly said: 'There is only one thing which cannot be done without a man — to give birth to children.'"

'Plug' specialist plants free ads in films, TV

By ROBERT LINDSEY
New York Times Service

In a new movie called "The Late Show," actors and actresses spend considerable time drinking Pepsi-Cola. A truck advertising the No. 2 cola appears on the screen regularly.

Pepsi isn't there by accident. The appearances represent a calculated effort by the Pepsi-Cola people to help make the public forget No. 1, Coca-Cola. And, if viewers look carefully, they will also see brief appearances in the movie by Beringer Wines, Sharp Electronics, Wilson Sporting Goods and Botany 500 suits.

THEY INDICATE one way American businesses attempt to manipulate the movies. And they represent success for a man named Larry Dorn, one of Hollywood's product pluggers.

Dorn, a 55-year-old former New Yorker, is one of about 50 free-lance specialists in a growing business that strives to get free plugs on television and in the movies. Most spend their time trying to give away merchandise as prizes on television's 18 nighttime and 12 daytime quiz shows.

Some, like Dorn, toil not only trying to give away television sets, furniture, clothing and other merchandise on these shows, but also trying to place "product identification" props in television dramas and movies — and, on occasion, to keep things that embarrass a business off the screen.

Dorn said he was once hired by AMF Corp. to persuade the producer of a film to drop a scene in which illicit drug dealings were taking place in a bowling alley. At the time, AMF (which makes automatic pinsetting equipment) was trying to upgrade the image of bowling alleys to attract more families.

"In this scene, they were going to transmit some drugs in the hole in a bowling ball. I managed to kill it," Dorn said.

DURING the making of another picture, "Airport," he was retained by Pan American World Airways and joined with representatives of other airlines to mute as much as possible the portions of the film that might deter people from flying and to minimize instructions in the film on how to make a bomb. The bomb was part of the movie's story.

Another time, Dorn said, he persuaded a director to cancel plans to use a Pepsi-Cola bottle "as a weapon" in a picture.

When television series were regularly featuring crashes of police helicopters several years ago, Hughes Aircraft, which at the time was attempting to sell a lot of helicopters to police departments around the country, sent an emissary to the TV industry in an effort to cut down the crash rate.

Some companies, such as Pepsi-Cola, keep Dorn on a retainer basis. Others hire him on a spot basis. The going rate for getting a prop of advertising sign planted in a movie scene is $1,000 to $5,000, he says, depending on the prominence of the plug and the importance of the movie.

Dorn said: "When I talk to a client, I always say, 'No play, no pay.' If I don't deliver, we don't charge anything."

He explained that he manages to get props in the right places by being friends with studio prop managers and production people, by keeping up to date on what pictures are being made in search of some that would benefit from free use of his clients' products, and by responding to producers' requests for certain products.

NEVER, he insists, is it necessary to pay someone to get a product placed prominently in a movie, despite periodic rumors in Hollywood that money does change hands in exchange for such favors.

He estimates that "three out of five" direct product plugs in a movie are planned. But things do not always work out right. "Sometimes I'll work two months lining up something, getting a product in a film, and then it ends up on the cutting room floor," Dorn said.

"Nobody keeps that kind of money around here for groceries," said one officer, explaining that Alice is at the crossroads of north-bound marijuana pipelines from Mexico.

Bridges' attorneys have filed a formal claim for the cash, and Garcia's attorneys say they might claim it. The Internal Revenue Service has filed a $300,000 lien.

"I want to drive that car out of the garage," Bridges said as he brushed dust from the blue auto. "I've got a good lawyer. I think I've got a good chance to get it."

The slender, shy Bridges said in an interview with the Associated Press that he had known for five months that something valuable — maybe money — was buried on his father's barren, dusty ranch near Alice in a quail pen, guarded by two Doberman pinschers and Satan, a vicious German shepherd attack dog.

"I seen somebody bury it there," Bridges said. "I looked out my window from my room one night at dusk and watched him."

Bridges said that after a fight with his father Jan. 29 he decided to get whatever was buried there and "get as far away from Alice as we could."

Bridges said he easily pacified the dogs and dug for the money with Garcia, a former high school football player, and another teenager, John Rose.

"We were going crazy throwing up dirt until Percy threw his pick down there and hit something," said Bridges. "We were jumping around and yelling: 'You hit it! You hit it! We struck it rich!'"

The money was in $10,000 packets in a red ice chest. Garcia said a piece of notebook paper with "500,000" scrawled on it was the first thing he saw when he opened the chest.

"My first thought was to get a car and go as far away from Texas as we could," added Bridges.

"All I could say was 'Wow!'" said Garcia. "I just kept saying it." The cash wouldn't fit into one big suitcase. "It was so heavy the handle broke and the suitcase fell in the mud," said Bridges.

The youths gave Rose $4,000, stuffed their jeans with handfuls of bills and lugged the two suitcases of cash to the bus station.

'Mafia'

relate to the death of the South Pasadena woman, Ellen Anne Delia, 35, who with her husband operated the "Get Going" halfway house for ex-convicts in East Los Angeles, largest Mexican-American "barrio" in the United States.

Mrs. Delia had complained that their project, which got $50,000 in state and federal funds the past eight months and is getting $30,000 more under a current contract, was being squeezed out by a coalition representing several other community projects in competition for public funding.

Investigators also said there were "common bonds" in the slaying of a friend of Mrs. Delia, Robert Lewis, on Jan. 15.

Mrs. Delia planned to meet with an official of the State Health and Welfare Agency, but the person who knows most about the case, Dr. Xavier Menas, is not talking to the press. His calls are referred to Agency Secretary Mario Obledo, who calls the case "sensitive" and "serious," but declines comment.

Guthrie said there have been complaints of Mexican Mafia activity in East Los Angeles, but he said most were unsupported.

This gang is active "in the prisons and on the streets," Guthrie said. He said he has heard "some outfits in the coalition are ripping off money. We don't have any information that Get Going is involved, but it's wide open down there. That doesn't mean it (the Mexican Mafia) is doing it, but it sure is a possibility."

Sacramento police homicide Sgt. Ray Bryers said of the possibility that ex-con gang activity was involved: "It's been rumored. We've heard rumors."

Bryers said his detectives visited Los Angeles and found a lot of frightened people "for various reasons."

Bridges had crammed his father's pistol in his underwear.

THE TEEN-AGERS nearly lost the money twice, they said.

In San Antonio, they left the suitcases on the bus during a stop. "We were drunk. We just got off the bus and left the $500,000 on it," said Bridges. The suitcases were still there when they re-boarded.

After arriving at a Dallas hotel, Bridges and Garcia filled their pockets with about $6,000 each and left for a shopping trip. They shoved the money-filled suitcases under their bed and left about $2 in change on a table.

"When we got back, we found out the maid had stole the change," said Bridges. "There was half a million dollars in cash under the bed."

At a Dallas bar, Bridges offered $1,000 to Gilbert Bailey, a wiry-haired Brazilian bellhop who spoke with a thick accent, as a fee to buy them a car. Neither boy had a driver's license.

After the youths counted out $10,000 in $100 bills at the dealerships, the three backed the $8,800 car off the showroom floor.

Bailey, who kept the extra $2,000, was later detained by customs officials in Miami, where he was waving handfuls of bills.

The teen-agers had set out for Chicago because "it looked like as far away from Alice as you could go." But they made a wrong turn and ended up in Waco, 100 miles south of Dallas.

"We had smoked some joints and drunk some beer, and that was when we got lost," said Bridges. He was driving when a rookie Waco patrolman stopped the youths for running a red light, about 36 hours after they had left Alice.

They stayed in jail four days after police found the gun and marijuana. They were very popular with other inmates, Bridges said.

"ONE OF THE whores in the next cell even offered to marry us if we would buy her a car," he said.

Bridges has since been cleared of the weapons possession charge, but Garcia was declared delinquent on the marijuana charge. Disposition of his case has been transferred to Alice.

Some persons reportedly have police protection. Mrs. Delia's husband, Michael, has been shot at and threatened, police say. Two persons arrested last Saturday at his home turned out to be ex-cons from the Delia halfway house who had his permission to use his car. One was booked for investigating of carrying a gun while on parole.

A state audit of community projects is under way — with police protection.

The coalition, called the East Los Angeles Coalition, represents all groups in setting priorities for public funding of such projects as the Get Going halfway house.

"We're talking about competition for the money doled out" by state and local government, Guthrie said.

He reiterated he had no proof that this was leading to fraud and violence, but "it's the only discussion I've had."

About $1 million a year in federal and state funds go annually to 27 halfway houses in the state, he said. These are facilities in neighborhoods for recently released convicts to adjust while seeking work or to receive treatments for drug or alcohol habits.

Guthrie described the Get Going operation directed by Michael Delia as "frank and open." He said parole agents who refer ex-cons to Get Going describe it as one of the better-run halfway houses in the state.

No violence had been associated with it in the past, Guthrie said.

He also said that the Los Angeles police commander's comment about 20 deaths being linked "doesn't ring a bell here. It sounds like they went back and looked for all killings that were drug-related or Mafia, or other gang activity, and added them up."

Uganda

Clark, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Africa, said the U.S. government "is working quietly" through West German diplomats to make certain no harm comes to the Americans.

Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. called Amin's action in detaining Americans "irresponsible and socially and politically unacceptable."

Baker told newsmen that it is incumbent on members of Congress, especially Republicans, to give the President wide discretion in how to handle this difficult and delicate problem.

The White House made available a U.N. statement which said Secretary General Kurt Waldheim had discussed the Ugandan situation with Carter earlier in the day.

The U.N. statement added:

"The President described the current situation, but there was no detailed discussion of the conditions and situation of U.S. citizens in Uganda. The secretary general did indicate that if circumstances warranted and he could be helpful, then he would be willing to do his utmost."

Amin wired Carter Friday that the United States should consider its own human rights crimes before "modelling" in Ugandan affairs.

He ordered lists drawn up of Americans and their property, "including chickens, goats, pigs and other animals."

A Uganda spokesman reached from Washington, however, said there was no reason for Americans to be alarmed and they would be free to leave after the meeting.

Amin sent Carter a lengthy telegram charging that American crimes "range from racial discrimination and the bombing of Vietnam to the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, the dropping of atomic weapons on Japan and the killings of world leaders by the Central Intelligence Agency," Radio Uganda said.

The Ugandan leader said reports from neighboring Kenya told of 5,000 American Marines poised to rescue the Americans, but he said no such mission was possible because "the Americans in Uganda are happy and scattered all over the country."

"In any case," Amin said, "Uganda has the strength to crush any invaders."

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said he had "no comment" when asked if military rescue planes were being readied. He said "it was safe to assume the President would take 'whatever steps are necessary and proper to assure the Americans' safety."

Powell later called a special news briefing to deny rumors that 5,000 Marines were poised to invade Uganda. He said the Navy task force operating near Africa was on "routine, publicly announced maneuvers."

Powell said the force left Kenya, Uganda's neighbor to the east, long before Amin's action. He said it consists of the Enterprise, cruisers Truxton and Long Beach and submarine Tautog and 200 fewer than 200 Marines aboard.

The U.S. Embassy in Nairobi, Kenya, said the task force left the Kenyan port of Mombasa on Wednesday after a courtesy visit that began Saturday.

Asked if the force might have changed course as a result of Friday's events, Powell said he would not comment on "speculative orders."

Amin's unexpected action came two days after he charged that the United States, Britain and Israel had plotted to overthrow him in a coup he crushed last week.

"I ask you to pass my greetings on to all Americans, both black and white," Amin said at the end of his telegram. "I hope to visit you in the White House in the near future."

MOST Americans in Uganda are missionaries from outside the capital city of Kampala. Only about 10 Americans work in Kampala itself, most for Ugandan Airways.

West Germany, which has handled U.S. matters in Uganda since the United States closed its embassy in 1973, said it had told its ambassador to help the trapped Americans "within the framework of the given possibilities."

At the embassy itself, a spokesman said many Americans had called for advice and were being told to "be very quiet and not to be afraid."

"I've advised all Americans who've contacted me to stay at home overnight and not to provoke the army," the West German spokesman said.

Some critical estimates contend 50,000 to 60,000 people have been killed in Uganda since Amin took over in a coup in 1971.

Americans in Uganda had been advised to leave after the embassy was closed in 1973. Earlier that year, Amin had angered Washington by holding 112 Peace Corps workers captive for 56 hours in a plane at Entebbe Airport, accusing them of being Israeli spies.

Carter tried to hold up story on Hussein cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Describing Jordan's King Hussein as "our most reliable source" of information in the Middle East, President Carter told congressional leaders he had sought to discourage the Washington Post from disclosing CIA payments to Hussein, congressional sources said Friday.

In his account to the congressional leaders on Tuesday, Carter confirmed the CIA payments to Hussein, something he has declined to do publicly. It remained unclear when Carter first learned of the payments, which he ordered canceled after the Post began its inquiry.

BUT A SENATE source said that former CIA Director George Bush had told the Senate Intelligence Committee about the arrangement some time ago, and had encountered no opposition there.

At the meeting with congressional leaders of both parties, Carter was quoted as saying he had looked into the arrangement with Hussein and found "nothing whatever wrong with it."

A House member present at the leadership meeting said Carter had reported that money covertly channeled through Hussein had gone for effective intelligence gathering work and for efforts to reduce tensions in the Middle East, but that the payments obviously could not be disclosed. Before they were disclosed, they were stopped.

THE ACCOUNT of Carter's effort to at least postpone disclosure, and of his defense of the payments, came from a memorandum dictated by a congressional leader for his own files after the Tuesday meeting.

It quoted Carter as saying that he had asked Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Post, and reporter Bob Woodward, to come to the White House after he learned of the forthcoming story.

Another source said Carter did not explicitly ask them to kill the story or to postpone publication, saying he could not request that it be withheld but obviously would prefer it that way.

The source said Carter also asked for 24 hours' notice if the story was to be published, but a White House official said the Post volunteered to provide that notice after Carter outlined the sensitive nature of the Hussein matter.

On the evening of Feb. 16, hours after the White House meeting, the Post advised Carter it would publish the Hussein story on Friday, Feb. 18.

At his news conference on Thursday, Carter said he would not comment directly on any specific CIA activity. He also said he had begun a review of CIA activities, including "the more controversial revelations that have been published in the last few days ..."

"I have not found anything illegal or improper," Carter said then.

That statement was in response to a question about the propriety of payments to Hussein and other foreign leaders by the CIA.

A White House official said Carter had not, directly or indirectly, asked the Post not to publish the story or to delay it. This source said Carter did point out the potential impact of such a story, at the time of a top-level U.S. mission to Jordan.

The story was published hours before Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance landed in Jordan on Feb. 18 as part of his Middle East tour. The Post reported that the CIA had made payments totaling millions of dollars to Hussein over the past 20 years. It said Hussein was paid approximately $750,000 last year.

The Post also said Carter had learned of the payments earlier that week and had ordered them stopped.

The congressional source said Carter had told Senate and House leaders that, without confirming or denying the accuracy of their planned story, he had told Woodward and Bradlee that publication while Vance was in Jordan could set back efforts for peace in the Middle East. Carter told the congressional leaders that as a result of the story, the meetings Vance held with Hussein became mere formalities.

"I thought it was irresponsible," Carter was quoted as telling the congressional leaders.

The congressional source said Carter spoke of Hussein's value both for information and as a force for moderation in the Middle East.

Carter told the leadership meeting that he was told by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., that the Post was at work on a story about CIA payments to Hussein. That led to Carter's request that Woodward and Bradlee come to the White House.

Inouye authorizes FBI 'to spy on' colleagues

New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee has authorized the FBI to monitor selectively and watch the contacts of members and staff of the committee, Senate sources said Friday.

The committee chairman, Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, acknowledged in a closed committee meeting Wednesday that he had ordered the monitoring, several senators said.

IT COULD not be learned immediately whether any monitoring actually took place, but Inouye is known to have said that the FBI had been instructed to observe him and other senators at diplomatic receptions and parties to insure that no foreign intelligence operators attempted to make contact. No electronic surveillance of any kind was known to be involved.

The dozen senators who attended the meeting were "stunned" and "disbelieving," one first-hand source said, and at least two members — one of them Sen. Daniel Moynihan, the newly seated New York Democrat — immediately asked to be stricken from the list of those to be watched.

"Nobody could quite sort it out," one senator said.

Late Friday, however, Inouye issued a statement through an Intelligence Committee spokesman denying that any such surveillance had been conducted.

IN THAT statement, Inouye said that he had authorized the FBI and the CIA to "promptly inform the committee of information regarding the activities of foreign intelligence services which are directed at members of the committee and the committee staff."

'A nice fellow who can carry a tune'

By Ellen Edwards
Knight News Service

At 72 Bing Crosby has — time after time — answered the question: "Why do you keep going?" with the same rationale: there are things to be done and he enjoys doing them. His image — after selling 400 million records, making 60 movies, countless television appearances, and hundreds of benefits — easily meshes with the reality: He is easy going, relaxed and completely natural — not at all obsessed with his own ego or even with defining what his image is. He makes you believe that he really did once ask to be remembered as "a pleasant fellow who could carry a tune." (At one point in the course of his tale-telling, he casually mentions a film he "once made," called "Going My Way," neglecting to mention that he won an Oscar for that performance in 1944.)

"We used to make pictures leisurely. When color came in I remember that it would take a technician two days to light a set, and in the meantime, I'd go to the golf course. We were filming in Jasper Park, Alberta, (Canada) at one time, and there was a segment that should have been shot in two weeks but it took us eight. The cameraman — he was very good — wanted everything just right and he had to match the clouds everyday... At that time the studio bosses were really at the mercy of the technicians," and he laughs gently.

Crosby has a way of piercing the past with his eyes and his mind that lets you know that although he doesn't go for slobbering sentimentality, his feeling for the past is deep.

"I'M LOW key," he says. "My father (a book-keeper in a pickle factory) was." He stops. "Missing a three-foot putt sometimes irritates me."

Even when Crosby was at his busiest — beginning with the success of "The Big Broadcast of 1932" — he has always known how to pace himself, often using sports, particularly golf, as an outlet. And that pacing, he says, is something that performers today don't understand.

"They are so wrapped up in work that there is no release for many of them, and it leads to unhappiness and lots of conflict. All my life I have had other things.

"Maybe they get recognition too quickly. It came to me gradually, working in vaudeville, then in a Chinese cafe — gradually, gradually. It took from about 1924 to 1931 before I got a (weekly) salary out of three figures.

"FREDDIE Prinze, for example," he says leaning back with a distant look in his eyes, "was destined to be superstar. I wonder if he just didn't get overwhelmed by the pressure of it all and just went bananas. What a waste. He could sing, dance, had a perfect sense of comic timing — maybe some times things just come too quickly."

EQUALLY apparent is his concern for his children — the three teenagers in his "second family." The first family is now grown — four sons from his first marriage to Dixie Lee, who died in 1962.

Crosby says he has no fear for his own life, professionally or personally — even, though he underwent the removal of a part of an abscessed lung several years ago. But he does fear for his children.

"I would like to live long enough to see them through their 20s," he says. "I'd like to know where they're going and that they're going to be good citizens.... You never know — five minutes after they're out the door everything can go wrong."

In the meantime, the three often travel and perform with him and wife Kathryn, and Crosby says the fact that he is less busy now than with the first batch makes a difference.

As for himself, he says he would have serious doubts about starting out today as a singer.

"I'D PROBABLY try to be a shrewd, and that would be a mistake. I never made a decision about what I was going to do," he says, smiling tentatively and adjusting the white golf hat he wears indoors on his balding head.

"I just let people tell me what to do, but I made sure that they were people with good track records. When I picked a lawyer I picked the head of the biggest firm in Los Angeles; when I had a great director — like (Frank) Capra, I did exactly what he told me to do.... Today I'd probably try and make all the decisions myself, thinking I knew all the answers, but the competition is tough — look at Barry Manilow, and Streisand — who is really incomparable in what she does — and Neil Diamond. Crosby did some work in television under Bing Crosby Productions, which included "Hogan's Heroes" and "Ben Casey," but he says he gave it up because of the frustration of working for the commercial success, which caused what he felt were some of his best productions to go off the air. And he says he finds it frustrating to see his films edited for television. As for those Minute Maid commercials with which he is inextricably associated, he says he would be concerned for damage to an image if he was worried about maintaining one. "If I was doing anything serious or important, I would worry. But I am not.... And the kids love to see themselves on television."

For those fans of the "On The Road to..." films with the Hope-Crosby team, Crosby says there may still be another one in the works, if they can find the right script to fit "our ages, infirmities and inabilities."

IN THE early years Crosby led a rougher life than now, and admits there was a time when he drank too heavily.

"I never missed a show, but there were some shows which maybe I should have skipped," he said, nodding his head and recalling the one time he has had any real fear of being on stage.

"I was at the race meeting in Saratoga with some turf writers, and journalists have a reputation of being a rather hard-drinking bunch. These men were exhibiting the image rather extravagantly this night....

"Gay Lombardo was playing, and we were dancing and drinking and singing when the management came over and said that they had just gotten the news that Will Rogers and Wiley Post had been killed in Alaska. NBC radio, which had a live hook-up to Lombardo's orchestra, wanted to do a tribute.

"THEY asked me to sing Will Rogers' favorite song, which was 'Home on the Range.'

"Well, I didn't know if I could make it to the stage, and I knew that I couldn't remember the words — although I thought it was some thing about home, home or buffalo.

"I really had flop sweat that night," he says, recalling that the words came to him line by line just in time. "It could have been a catastrophe," he says.

"I was sober when I finished." He smiles. Pauses. "Cold sober."

"Nobody keeps that kind of money around here for groceries," said one officer, explaining that Alice is at the crossroads of north-bound marijuana pipelines from Mexico.

Bridges' attorneys have filed a formal claim for the cash, and Garcia's attorneys say they might claim it. The Internal Revenue Service has filed a $300,000 lien.

"I want to drive that car out of the garage," Bridges said as he brushed dust from the blue auto. "I've got a good lawyer. I think I've got a good chance to get it."

The slender, shy Bridges said in an interview with the Associated Press that he had known for five months that something valuable — maybe money — was buried on his father's barren, dusty ranch near Alice in a quail pen, guarded by two Doberman pinschers and Satan, a vicious German shepherd attack dog.

"I seen somebody bury it there," Bridges said. "I looked out my window from my room one night at dusk and watched him."

Bridges said that after a fight with his father Jan. 29 he decided to get whatever was buried there and "get as far away from Alice as we could."

Bridges said he easily pacified the dogs and dug for the money with Garcia, a former high school football player, and another teenager, John Rose.

"We were going crazy throwing up dirt until Percy threw his pick down there and hit something," said Bridges. "We were jumping around and yelling: 'You hit it! You hit it! We struck it rich!'"

The money was in $10,000 packets in a red ice chest. Garcia said a piece of notebook paper with "500,000" scrawled on it was the first thing he saw when he opened the chest.

"My first thought was to get a car and go as far away from Texas as we could," added Bridges.

"All I could say was 'Wow!'" said Garcia. "I just kept saying it."

The cash wouldn't fit into one big suitcase. "It was so heavy the handle broke and the suitcase fell in the mud," said Bridges.

The youths gave Rose $4,000, stuffed their jeans with handfuls of bills and juggled the two suitcases of cash to the bus station.

relate to the death of the South Pasadena woman, Ellen Anne Delia, 35, who with her husband operated the "Get Going" halfway house for ex-convicts in East Los Angeles, largest Mexican-American "barrio" in the United States.

Mrs. Delia had complained that their project, which got $50,000 in state and federal funds the past eight months and is getting $30,000 more under a current contract, was being squeezed out by a coalition representing several other community projects in competition for public funding.

Investigators also said there were "common bonds" in the slaying of a friend of Mrs. Delia, Robert Lewis, on Jan. 15.

Mrs. Delia planned to meet with an official of the State Health and Welfare Agency, but the person who knows most about the case, Dr. Xavier Menas, is not talking to the press. His calls are referred to Agency Secretary Mario Obledo, who calls the case "sensitive" and "serious," but declines comment.

Guthrie said there have been complaints of Mexican Mafia activity in East Los Angeles, but he said most were unsupported.

This gang is active "in the prisons and on the streets," Guthrie said. He said he has heard "some outfits in the coalition are ripping off money. We don't have any information that Get Going is involved, but it's wide open down there. That doesn't mean it (the Mexican Mafia) is doing it, but it sure is a possibility."

Sacramento police homicide Sgt. Ray Bryers said of the possibility that ex-con gang activity was involved: "It's been rumored. We've heard rumors."

Bryers said his detectives visited Los Angeles and found a lot of frightened people "for various reasons."

Some persons reportedly have police protection. Mrs. Delia's husband, Michael, has been shot at and threatened, police say. Two persons arrested last Saturday at his home turned out to be ex-cons from the Delia halfway house who had his permission to use his car. One was booked for investigating of carrying a gun while on parole.

A state audit of community projects is under way — with police protection.

The coalition, called the East Los Angeles Coalition, represents all groups in setting priorities for public funding of such projects as the Get Going halfway house.

"We're talking about competition for the money doled out" by state and local government, Guthrie said.

He reiterated he had no proof that this was leading to fraud and violence, but "it's the only discussion I've had."

About $1 million a year in federal and state funds go annually to 27 halfway houses in the state, he said. These are facilities in neighborhoods for recently released convicts to adjust while seeking work or to receive treatments for drug or alcohol habits.

Guthrie described the Get Going operation directed by Michael Delia as "frank and open." He said parole agents who refer ex-cons to Get Going describe it as one of the better-run halfway houses in the state.

No violence had been associated with it in the past, Guthrie said.

He also said that the Los Angeles police commander's comment about 20 deaths being linked "doesn't ring a bell here. It sounds like they went back and looked for all killings that were drug-related or Mafia, or other gang activity, and added them up."

Clark, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Africa, said the U.S. government "is working quietly" through West German diplomats to make certain no harm comes to the Americans.

Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. called Amin's action in detaining Americans "irresponsible and socially and politically unacceptable."

Baker told newsmen that it is incumbent on members of Congress, especially Republicans, "to give the President wide discretion in how to handle this difficult and delicate problem."

The White House made available a U.N. statement which said Secretary General Kurt Waldheim had discussed the Ugandan situation with Carter earlier in the day.

The U.N. statement added:

"The President described the current situation, but there was no detailed discussion of the conditions and situation of U.S. citizens in Uganda. The secretary general did indicate that if circumstances warranted and he could be helpful, then he would be willing to do his utmost."

Amin wired Carter Friday that the United States should consider its own human rights crimes before "meddling" in Ugandan affairs.

He ordered lists drawn up of Americans and their property, "including chickens, goats, pigs and other animals."

A Uganda spokesman reached from Washington, however, said there was no reason for Americans to be alarmed and they would be free to leave after the meeting.

Amin sent Carter a lengthy telegram charging that American crimes "range from racial discrimination and the bombing of Vietnam to the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, the dropping of atomic weapons on Japan and the killings of world leaders by the Central Intelligence Agency," Radio Uganda said.

The Uganda leader said reports from neighboring Kenya told of 5,000 American Marines poised to rescue the Americans, but he said no such mission was possible, because "the Americans in Uganda are happy and scattered all over the country."

"In any case," Amin said, "Uganda has the strength to crush any invaders."

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said he had "no comment" when asked if military rescue planes were being readied. He said it was safe to assume the President would take "whatever steps are necessary and proper to assure the Americans' safety."

Powell later called a special news briefing to deny rumors that 5,000 Marines were poised to invade Uganda. He said the Navy task force operating near Africa was on "routine, publicly announced maneuvers."

Powell said the force left Kenya, Uganda's neighbor to the east, long before Amin's action. He said it consists of the Enterprise, cruisers Truxton and Long Beach and submarine Tautog and has fewer than 200 Marines aboard.

The U.S. Embassy in Nairobi, Kenya, said the task force left the Kenyan port of Mombasa on Wednesday after a courtesy visit that began Saturday.

Asked if the force might have changed course as a result of Friday's events, Powell said he would not comment on "operational orders."

Amin's unexpected action came two days after he charged that the United States, Britain and Israel had plotted to overthrow him in a coup he crushed last week.

"I ask you to pass my greetings on to all Americans, both black and white," Amin said at the end of his telegram. "I hope to visit you in the White House in the near future."

MOST Americans in Uganda are missionaries from outside the capital city of Kampala. Only about 10 Americans work in Kampala itself, most for Ugandan Airways.

West Germany, which has handled U.S. matters in Uganda since the United States closed its embassy in 1973, said it had told its ambassador to help the trapped Americans "within the framework of the given possibilities."

At the embassy itself, a spokesman said many Americans had called for advice and were being told to "be very quiet and not to be afraid."

"I've advised all Americans who've contacted me to stay at home overnight and not to provoke the army," the West German spokesman said.

Some critical estimates contend 50,000 to 60,000 people have been killed in Uganda since Amin took over in a coup in 1971.

Americans in Uganda had been advised to leave after the embassy was closed in 1973. Earlier that year, Amin had angered Washington by holding 112 Peace Corps workers captive for 56 hours in a plane at Entebbe Airport, accusing them of being Israeli spies.

Carter tried to hold up story on Hussein cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Describing Jordan's King Hussein as "our most reliable source" of information in the Middle East, President Carter told congressional leaders he had sought to discourage the Washington Post from disclosing CIA payments to Hussein, congressional sources said Friday.

In his account to the congressional leaders on Tuesday, Carter confirmed the CIA payments to Hussein, something he has declined to do publicly. It remained unclear when Carter first learned of the payments, which he ordered canceled after the Post began its inquiry.

BUT A SENATE source said that former CIA Director George Bush had told the Senate Intelligence Committee about the arrangement some time ago, and had encountered no opposition there.

At the meeting with congressional leaders of both parties, Carter was quoted as saying he had looked into the arrangement with Hussein and found "nothing whatever wrong with it."

A House member present at the leadership meeting said Carter had reported that money covertly channeled through Hussein had gone for effective intelligence gathering work and for efforts to reduce tensions in the Middle East, but that the payments obviously could not be disclosed. Before they were disclosed, they were stopped.

THE ACCOUNT of Carter's effort to at least postpone disclosure, and of his defense of the payments, came from a memorandum dictated by a congressional leader for his own files after the Tuesday meeting.

It quoted Carter as saying that he had asked Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Post, and reporter Bob Woodward, to come to the White House after he learned of the forthcoming story.

Another source said Carter did not explicitly ask them to kill the story or to postpone publication, saying he could not request that it be withheld but obviously would prefer it that way.

The source said Carter also asked for 24 hours' notice if the story was to be published, but a White House official said the Post volunteered to provide that notice after Carter outlined the sensitive nature of the Hussein matter.

On the evening of Feb. 16, hours after the White House meeting, the Post advised Carter it would publish the Hussein story on Friday, Feb. 18.

At his news conference on Thursday, Carter said he would not comment directly on any specific CIA activity. He also said he had begun a review of CIA activities, including "the more controversial revelations that have been publicized in the last few days ..."

"I have not found anything illegal or improper," Carter said then.

That statement was in response to a question about the propriety of payments to Hussein and other foreign leaders by the CIA.

A White House official said Carter had not, directly or indirectly, asked the Post not to publish the story or to delay it. This source said Carter did point out the potential impact of such a story, at the time of a top-level U.S. mission to Jordan.

The story was published hours before Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance landed in Jordan on Feb. 18 as part of his Middle East tour. The Post reported that the CIA had made payments totaling millions of dollars to Hussein over the past 20 years. It said Hussein was paid approximately $750,000 last year.

The Post also said Carter had learned of the payments earlier that week and had ordered them stopped.

The congressional source said Carter had told Senate and House leaders that, without confirming or denying the accuracy of their planned story, he had told Woodward and Bradlee that publication while Vance was in Jordan could set back efforts for peace in the Middle East. Carter told the congressional leaders that as a result of the story the meetings Vance held with Hussein became mere formalities.

"I thought it was irresponsible," Carter was quoted as telling the congressional leaders.

The congressional source said Carter spoke of Hussein's value both for information and as a force for moderation in the Middle East.

Carter told the leadership meeting that he was told by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., that the Post was at work on a story about CIA payments to Hussein. That led to Carter's request that Woodward and Bradlee come to the White House.

Inouye authorizes FBI 'to spy on' colleagues

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee has authorized the FBI to monitor selectively and watch the contacts of members and staff of the committee, Senate sources said Friday.

The committee chairman, Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, acknowledged in a closed committee meeting Wednesday that he had ordered the monitoring, several senators said.

IT COULD not be learned immediately whether any monitoring actually took place, but Inouye is known to have said that the FBI had been instructed to observe him and other senators at diplomatic receptions and parties to insure that no foreign intelligence operators attempted to make contact. No electronic surveillance of any kind was known to be involved.

The dozen senators who attended the meeting were "stunned" and "disbelieving," one first-hand source said, and at least two members — one of them Sen. Daniel Moynihan, the newly seated New York Democrat — immediately asked to be stricken from the list of those to be watched.

"Nobody could quite sort it out," one senator said.

Late Friday, however, Inouye issued a statement through an Intelligence Committee spokesman denying that any such surveillance had been conducted.

IN THAT statement, Inouye said that he had authorized the FBI and the CIA to "promptly inform the committee of information regarding the activities of foreign intelligence services which are directed at members of the committee and the committee staff."

Stones leads AAU high jump boycott

DWIGHT STONES
Principles uncompromised

NEW YORK (AP)—Filbert Bayi outdueled Niall O'Shaughnessy in the mile. Francie Larrieu Lutz and Tommy Haynes each won two events and Jane Frederick and Rosalyn Bryant were among four individual world record breakers Friday night at the AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships.

The meet was marred by a controversy in the men's high jump, in which three of the world's top competitors—Dwight Stones, Tom Woods and Bill Jankunis—withdrew.

Bayi overtook O'Shaughnessy in the final strides, winning in 3:59.3.

Mrs. Lutz, of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, registered a remarkable long distance double, winning the two-mile in a meet record 9:58.2 and the mile in 4:43.1.

Haynes, a lieutenant and assistant track coach at West Point, became only the second athlete in AAU history to win both the long jump and triple jump in the same year. He leaped 55-2 1/4 to win the triple jump for the third consecutive year and 28-3/4 to win the long jump.

Three of the world indoor records were broken by women.

The versatile Miss Frederick, who earlier had finished second in the shot put and sixth in the high jump, clipped one-tenth of a second off the 60-yard high hurdles mark with a time of 7.3 seconds.

Miss Bryant, the swift sprinter from Los Angeles, set her fourth indoor record this season, taking the 220 in 23.4.

The flap in the high jump developed when Mel Embree and Ed Kern, both of the newly formed Atlantic Coast Club of Cambridge, Mass., were refused permission by the AAU Games Committee to compete because of late entries.

Earlier, the high jumpers had voted 9-2 to boycott the event but when the competition finally got underway, after a long delay, only three decided not to jump.

"Out of the nine guys who said they would boycott, only three stuck to our guns," said the disgruntled Stones, the world indoor and outdoor record holder. "I will not compromise my principles. I couldn't find, if I started jumping, that anything positive would have been gained."

"There were three guys with guts, six without them," said Tom Jennings, Woods' coach at the Pacific Coast Club.

Of the six high jumpers who competed, the winner was Paul Underwood of the Tobias Striders, with a leap of 7-2.

L.B. preps sweep CIF playoff bows

By DAVID FERRELL
Staff Writer

Before even a second had elapsed, St. Anthony High had a lead over its opening-round opponent in the CIF 4-A playoffs Friday night.

It was even easier after the clock started.

Redlands, which gave its hosts a technical foul shot by dunking in warm-ups, could do little to slow St. Anthony's fast break as the Saints rolled to an easy 66-53 win.

Led by guards Lance Dietrich and Cormac Carney, the Angelus League co-champs jumped to a 20-6 first-quarter lead and maintained it easily, while Redlands struggled to get the ball up court against a ball-hawking defense.

St. Anthony (9-1 in league, 19-5 over-all) forced five successive Redlands turnovers in the early minutes and passed well enough to get all starters into double figures.

Dietrich, who sank the technical foul shot called on Redlands center Steve Johnson, and Carney finished with 15 points apiece to

Millikan guns down Muir, 74-72

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Millikan High had to muster everything in its offensive arsenal Friday night before finally being able to put away Muir, 74-72, in a first-round CIF 4-A playoff game.

If possible, the difference between the two teams was even closer than the final score indicates.

A rebound and subsequent 14-foot jumper by Sherman Johnson of a missed free throw with 31 seconds to play gave the host Rams their winning points.

Johnson's shot came after a single free throw by Richard Oglesby had earned Millikan its first standoff with the Pasadena school since early in the fourth quarter.

The Rams had entered the final eight-minute period with a 61-55 lead only to see Muir hit four successive shots from outside 15 feet and pull ahead, 63-61.

The Mustangs eventually built up a five-point lead, 70-65, with only 3:50 to play before cooling off, then eventually faltering down the stretch.

Millikan again shot well, but earned this victory, one that coach Bill Odell termed his toughest of the season, through its hustle on defense in the final three minutes.

Richard Boatright, Rich Oglesby, John White and Doug Marty each forced Muir into costly turnovers, the biggest probably being Oglesby's block and jump ball call with Doug Greenway in the final 17 seconds.

Oglesby controlled the tip and Muir didn't get the ball back until

NFL owners, players approve 5-year pact

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The National Football League Players Association and team owners voted Friday to approve a five-year basic labor agreement between the athletes and the teams.

After meeting for seven hours, the board of representatives of the players union voted unanimously to recommend approval of the contract to its membership.

The contract now will be submitted to the NFL rank and file for ratification and also must be approved by Judge Earl Larson, who presided over former player John Mackey's suit against the NFL.

Dick Anderson of the Miami Dolphins, president of the union, and Ed Garvey, executive director of the union, said the new pact was aimed primarily at helping the low and middle ranked players.

"The players are happy at this point," Anderson said. "We dealt with the owners on an equal basis. They wanted something from us—a draft. When we gave them a draft and a system, we were able to get some things from them: a pension, union security, an agency shop, and impartial arbitration of disputes."

THE CONTRACT establishes new guidelines for the draft—which will total 336 choices, or 12 rounds, the NFLMC said.

If the player does not sign, he can be drafted again the next year. If he is drafted again and still does not sign, he becomes a free agent after another year's time and may sign with any NFL club.

The new contract also sets compensation for players playing out their contracts, rather than allowing NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle to arbitrarily set compensation. In all cases, compensation will be a draft choice, never a player or cash.

In addition, when a player plays out his option, he will receive 110 per cent of his previous salary as opposed to 90 per cent.

Poly ousts Loyola, 73-60, going away

By DENNIS BROSTERHOUS

As the final seconds ticked away at the Poly-Loyola playoff opener Friday night, a group of Poly players began chanting in unison, "We're number one."

Although the Jackrabbits are a long way from the title game, they took a step in the right direction by handing Loyola a 73-60 setback at Alhambra High.

Poly dominated the first and last portions of the contest, but the middle was anything but easy. The Rabbits sprinted to a 32-16 advantage midway through the second quarter and appeared on their way to a rout.

But Loyola clawed back to within four, 42-38, early in the third quarter, and Poly coach Ron Palmer decided some changes were in order.

"We started using our stall game at this point," said Palmer. "We figured that they would have to come out and get us since we were in the lead."

The four-corner offense actually created some open lanes for the guards.

The Del Rey League champions made a game of it because of the marksmanship of all-league center Paul Boken. The 6-5 junior scored 23 points, including 10 in the final quarter, to lead all scorers.

Meanwhile, Poly's Manuel

Chaney Lakers' unlikely hero

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

What the Lakers least expected, an offensive rebound basket by a non-shooter, produced a thrilling 104-102 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Friday night before a sellout crowd of 17,505 at the Forum.

Guard Don Chaney was in the right place at the right time, following up a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar miss with one second on the clock. Chaney seldom shoots and really didn't shoot the winning shot.

"I just threw the ball up; I never really had control of it," said the veteran guard who is averaging only six points a game—the exact total he had Friday.

Ironically, Chaney also made another basket with 30 seconds left that he only took because time was running out on the 24-second clock.

The victory was a big one for the Lakers. It snapped a two-game losing streak and enabled them to boost their Pacific Division lead to 1 1/2 games over Portland, which lost to Houston.

Outrebounded badly in four of their last five games, since Kermit Washington was injured, the Lakers won the battle of the boards 47-46 over a Philadelphia team which is bigger and stronger up front.

Abdul-Jabbar was sensational, scoring 39 points and grabbing 17 rebounds. The talented center hit 15 of 26 field goal attempts and everyone in the Forum knew he would be set up for the game-winner.

Triple-teamed, Abdul-Jabbar's jumper bounced off the front rim and Chaney was alert enough to slip past Lloyd Free and be in the perfect position for the rebound.

Free was breaking downcourt at the time, hoping one of his teammates would grab the rebound and feed him with an outlet pass.

"It was a mistake," said coach Gene Shue. "Everyone should have been going to the boards."

Forwards Cazzie Russell and Don Ford contributed heavily to the Lakers' offensive, something they had not done in three previous games against the Atlantic Division leaders.

"I had a score to settle with these guys," said Russell, who poured in 28 points, hitting 14 of 26 shots from the field.

The last time the Long Beach State basketball team had a laugher—a 101-69 rout of San Jose State—it had to survive a heart-stopping final eight seconds to beat Pacific, 63-62, in its next outing.

Coach Dwight Jones does not

On the surface, an outright title appears virtually certain. Pacific, presently playing as well as anyone in the league, has lost only once at home this season.

In Long Beach, the 49ers, 18-7 on the season, will be taking on a Bulldog team that has won only one of 11 PCAA outings.

anticipate such a re-occurrence when his 49ers conclude their regular season against Fresno State tonight at 8 in the Long Beach Arena.

"Our kids are well aware of the significance of the Fresno game and will perform accordingly," Jones said after his troops had punched Hawaii, 110-79, Thursday night.

The Bulldogs have a quartet of big men—Eddie Adams, Willie Fletcher, Ken Barnes and David Wear—that thoroughly impress Jones.

But in the first meeting between the teams, won by Long Beach, 82-75, the 49ers handled the Bulldogs' inside game but were stung by guards Mike Gregory and Doug Streeter.

The significance of tonight's game is well-defined.

A Long Beach State victory would give the 49ers at least a share of an eighth consecutive Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship.

To win the crown outright, the 49ers need an assist from Pacific, which hosts San Diego State tonight. Long Beach and the Aztecs presently have identical 3-3 conference records.

Jones will no doubt spend today worrying about the possibility of the Bulldogs "putting it all together," aware that from such situations upsets are made.

The other seniors include three-year letter winners Ronnie Austin, James Dawson and Glen Gerke; two-year lettermen Johnson, Danny Marques and Tony McGee and one-year performer Lloyd McMillian.

Compton cruises at Glendale

Compton High scored a first-round knockout in the CIF basketball playoffs Friday night, flooring host Glendale, 49-36.

The Moore League's No. 2 team was vastly superior to the Foothill League's co-champion. The Tarbabes never trailed and, moreover, were never threatened after half-time.

After etching his team past its ninth successive win, Compton coach Eddie Thomas conceded that he had expected a more turbulent time.

"We came prepared to use a zone defense," said Thomas.

Instead, Compton was able to remain in a man-to-man defense the entire night since Glendale runners Brett Barnett (a seven-foot center) and Tim Fischer (6-6) contributed a combined eight points.

Guard Rubio Malone topped his team with 15 points, followed by Purvis Miller with 12 and Fred Jackson with 10.

Miller, the Moore League's scoring champion, got his baskets when they mattered most, especially a five-footer two seconds before half-time.

Compton, which made a winless exit from the playoffs last season, will try to keep going Tuesday against Santa Ana, which upset Eisenhower, 60-57.

LBCC gasps into 3rd-place finish

By DAVE WIELENGA

Mickey Chislock capped a brilliant second-half performance by sinking three free throws in the final 42 seconds Friday night, enabling Long Beach City College to squirm past visiting El Camino, 92-89, before approximately 500 emotionally drained onlookers.

"That was apropos, wasn't it?" asked Viking coach Bill Fraser with a smile after watching his team conclude a season of hand-wringing thrillers.

The victory, the result of two LBCC comeback efforts, earned the Vikings sole possession of third place in the Metropolitan Conference race with a 9-5 record after three successive trips to the state playoffs. El Camino finished at 7-7.

"I am disappointed that we didn't win the championship," Fraser admitted. "We came so close—one or two points at the right time would have won it for us. But we tried."

Long Beach looked anything but competitive in the early going. Its cold shooting and weak rebounding permitted El Camino to pull away to a 33-20 lead with 7:46 to play in the first half.

Center Ken Scott threw in a pair of baskets for LBCC. Then, trailing 37-24 with five minutes to go, the Vikings suddenly went on a 14-2 tear to pull within one, 39-38, with 2:40 to play. Long Beach finally took its first lead of the game on a Danny Chislock layup

Stones leads AAU high jump boycott

NEW YORK (AP)—Filbert Bayi outdueled Niall O'Shaughnessy in the mile, Frankie Larrieu Lutz and Tommy Haynes each won two events and Jane Frederick and Rosalyn Bryant were among four individual world record breakers Friday night at the AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships.

The meet was marred by a controversy in the men's high jump, in which three of the world's top competitors—Dwight Stones, Tom Woods and Bill Jankunis—withdrew.

Bayi overtook O'Shaughnessy in the final strides, winning in 3:59.3.

Mrs. Lutz, of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, registered a remarkable long distance double, winning the two-mile in a meet record 9:58.2 and the mile in 4:43.1.

Haynes, a lieutenant and assistant track coach at West Point, became only the second athlete in AAU history to win both the long jump and triple jump in the same year. He leaped 55-3/4 to win the triple jump for the third consecutive year and 26-1/4 to win the long jump.

Three of the world indoor records were broken by women.

The versatile Miss Frederick, who earlier had finished second in the shot put and sixth in the high jump, clipped one-tenth of a second off the 60-yard high hurdles mark with a time of 7.3 seconds.

Miss Bryant, the swift sprinter from Los Angeles, set her fourth indoor record this season, taking the 220 in 23.4.

The flap in the high jump developed when Mel Embree and Ed Kern, both of the newly formed Atlantic Coast Club of Cambridge, Mass., were refused permission by the AAU Games Committee to compete because of late entries.

Earlier, the high jumpers had voted 9-2 to boycott the event but when the competition finally got underway, after a long delay, only three decided not to jump.

"Out of the nine guys who said they would boycott, only three stuck to our guns," said the disgruntled Stones, the world indoor and outdoor record holder. "I will not compromise my principles. I couldn't find, if I started jumping, that anything positive would have been gained."

"There were three guys with guts, six without them," said Tom Jennings, Woods' coach at the Pacific Coast Club.

Of the six high jumpers who competed, the winner was Paul Underwood of the Tobias Striders, with a leap of 7-2.

L.B. preps sweep CIF playoff bows

By DAVID FERRELL
Staff Writer

Before even a second had elapsed, St. Anthony High had a lead over its opening-round opponent in the CIF 4-A playoffs Friday night.

It was even easier after the clock started.

Redlands, which gave its hosts a technical foul shot by dunking in warm-ups, could do little to slow St. Anthony's fast break as the Saints rolled to an easy 66-53 win.

Led by guards Lance Dietrich and Cormac Carney, the Angelus League co-champs jumped to a 20-6

first-quarter lead and maintained it easily, while Redlands struggled to get the ball up court against a ball-hawking defense.

St. Anthony (9-1 in league, 19-5 over-all) forced five successive Redlands turnovers in the early minutes and passed well enough to get all starters into double figures.

Dietrich, who sank the technical foul shot called on Redlands center Steve Johnson, and Carney finished with 15 points apiece to

Millikan guns down Muir, 74-72

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Millikan High had to muster everything in its offensive arsenal Friday night before finally being able to put away Muir, 74-72, in a first-round CIF 4-A playoff game.

If possible, the difference between the two teams was even closer than the final score indicates.

A rebound and subsequent 14-foot jumper by Sherman Johnson of a missed free throw with 31 seconds to play gave the host Rams their winning points.

Johnson's shot came after a single free throw by Richard Oglesby had earned Millikan its first standoff with the Pasadena school since early in the fourth quarter.

The Rams had entered the final eight-minute period with a 61-55 lead only to see Muir hit four successive shots from outside 15 feet and pull ahead, 63-61.

The Mustangs eventually built up a five-point lead, 70-65, with only 3:50 to play before cooling off, then eventually faltering down the stretch.

Millikan again shot well, but earned this victory, one that coach Bill Odell termed his toughest of the season, through its hustle on defense in the final three minutes.

Richard Boatright, Rich Oglesby, John White and Doug Marty each forced Muir into costly turnovers, the biggest probably being Oglesby's block and jump ball call with Doug Greenway in the final 17 seconds.

Oglesby controlled the tip and Muir didn't get the ball back until

NFL owners, players approve 5-year pact

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The National Football League Players Association and team owners voted Friday to approve a five-year basic labor agreement between the athletes and the teams.

After meeting for seven hours, the board of representatives of the players union voted unanimously to recommend approval of the contract to its membership.

The contract now will be submitted to the NFL rank and file for ratification and also must be approved by Judge Earl Larson, who presided over former player John Mackey's suit against the NFL.

Dick Anderson of the Miami Dolphins, president of the union, and Ed Garvey, executive director of the union, said the new pact was aimed primarily at helping the low and middle ranked players.

"The players are happy at this point," Anderson said. "We dealt with the owners on an equal basis. They wanted something from us—a draft. When we gave them a draft and a system, we were able to get some things from them: a pension, union security, an agency shop, and impartial arbitration of disputes."

THE CONTRACT establishes new guidelines for the draft—which will total 336 choices, or 12 rounds, the NFLMC said.

If the player does not sign, he can be drafted again the next year. If he is drafted again and still does not sign, he becomes a free agent after another year's time and may sign with any NFL club.

The new contract also sets compensation for players playing out their contracts, rather than allowing NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle to arbitrarily set compensation. In all cases, compensation will be a draft choice, never a player or cash.

In addition, when a player plays out his option, he will receive 110 per cent of his previous salary as opposed to 90 per cent.

Poly ousts Loyola, 73-60, going away

By DENNIS BROSTERHOUS
Staff Writer

As the final seconds ticked away at the Poly-Loyola playoff opener Friday night, a group of Poly players began chanting in unison, "We're number one."

Although the Jackrabbits are a long way from the title game, they took a step in the right direction by handing Loyola a 73-60 setback at Alhambra High.

Poly dominated the first and last portions of the contest, but the middle was anything but easy. The Rabbits sprinted to a 32-16 advantage midway through the second quarter and appeared on their way to a rout.

But Loyola clawed back to within four, 42-38, early in the third quarter, and Poly coach Ron Palmer decided some changes were in order.

"We started using our stall game at this point," said Palmer. "We figured that they would have to come out and get us since we were in the lead."

The four-corner offense actually created some open lanes for the guards.

The Del Rey League champions made a game of it because of the marksmanship of all-league center Paul Boken. The 6-5 junior scored 23 points, including 10 in the final quarter, to lead all scorers.

Meanwhile, Poly's Manuel

Chaney Lakers' unlikely hero

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

What the Lakers least expected, an offensive rebound basket by a non-shooter, produced a thrilling 104-102 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Friday night before a sellout crowd of 17,505 at the Forum.

Guard Don Chaney was in the right place at the right time, following up a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar miss with one second on the clock. Chaney seldom shoots and really didn't shoot the winning shot.

"I just threw the ball up; I never really had control of it," said the veteran guard who is averaging only six points a game—the exact total he had Friday.

Ironically, Chaney also made another basket with 30 seconds left that he only took because time was running out on the 24-second clock.

The victory was a big one for the Lakers. It snapped a two-game losing streak and enabled them to boost their Pacific Division lead to 1 1/2 games over Portland, which lost to Houston.

Outrebounded badly in four of their last five games, since Kermit Washington was injured, the Lakers won the battle of the boards 47-46 over a Philadelphia team which is bigger and stronger up front.

Abdul-Jabbar was sensational, scoring 39 points and grabbing 17 rebounds. The talented center hit 15 of 26 field goal attempts and every one in the Forum knew he would be set up for the game-winner.

Triple-teamed, Abdul-Jabbar's jumper bounced off the front rim and Chaney was alert enough to slip past Lloyd Free and be in the perfect position for the rebound.

Free was breaking downtown at the time, hoping one of his teammates would grab the rebound and feed him with an outlet pass.

"It was a mistake," said coach Gene Shue. "Everyone should have been going to the boards."

Forwards Cazzie Russell and Don Ford contributed heavily to the Lakers' offensive, something they had not done in three previous games against the Atlantic Division leaders.

"I had a score to settle with these guys," said Russell, who poured in 28 points, hitting 14 of 26 shots from the field.

The last time the Long Beach State basketball team had a laugher—a 101-69 rout of San Jose State—it had to survive a heart-stopping final eight seconds to beat Pacific, 63-62, in its next outing. Coach Dwight Jones does not

On the surface, an outright title appears virtually certain. Pacific, presently playing as well as anyone in the league, has lost only once at home this season.

In Long Beach, the 49ers, 18-7 on the season, will be taking on a Bulldogs team that has won only one of 11 PCAA outings.

night, including four-year letterman Dale Dillon. The 49ers are 78-25 during Dillon's four seasons.

The other seniors include three-year letter winners Ronnie Austin, James Dawson and Glen Gerke; two-year lettermen Johnson, Danny Marques and Tony McGee and one-year performer Lloyd McMillian.

Dillon, Johnson and McMillian will start tonight along with 6-8 freshman Michael Wiley and 6-8 junior Clarence Ruffen.

The 49er junior varsity, coached by Rickie Thomas, concludes its season tonight with a 5:45 prelight against the Intra-mural All-Stars. Thomas' charges have won 12 of their last 14 games.

Tonight's varsity encounter will be broadcast on KKOP-FM (93.5) and KFOX-AM (1290) with Dave Greene and Eddie Alexander calling the action.

49ers bid for loop cage title

anticipate such a re-occurrence when his 49ers conclude their regular season against Fresno State tonight at 8 in the Long Beach Arena. "Our kids are well aware of the significance of the Fresno game and will perform accordingly," Jones said after his troops had punched Hawaii, 110-70, Thursday night.

The significance of tonight's game is well-defined.

A Long Beach State victory would give the 49ers at least a share of an eighth consecutive Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship.

To win the crown outright, the 49ers need an assist from Pacific, which hosts San Diego State tonight. Long Beach and the Aztecs presently have identical 8-3 conference records.

Co-captain Richard Johnson admits the 49ers will be openly rooting for Pacific.

"We hope Pacific wins," declares Johnson. "We want the championship straight up. That's how it's been in the past, and that's how we want it now."

and hope to make it a half-dozen against UCLA in Pauley Pavilion tonight (8 o'clock).

To point out Cal's transformation, take a look at senior forward Ray Murry. A lumpy, 6-5, 235-pounder, who shot well (.514), scored a little (7.6 points a game) and rebounded even less (4.9) as a junior, Murry is leading his team in shooting (.475) and scoring (16.5) and runnerup in rebounding (7.6).

Compton, which made a winless exit from the playoffs last season, will try to keep going Tuesday against Santa Ana, which upset Eisenhower, 60-57.

Compton High scored a first-round knockout in the CIF basketball playoffs Friday night, flooring host Glendale, 49-36.

The Moore League's No. 2 team was vastly superior to the Foothill League's co-champion. The Tarabes never trailed and, moreover, were never threatened after halftime.

After etching his team post its ninth successive win, Compton coach Eddie Thomas conceded that he had expected a more turbulent time.

"We came prepared to use a zone defense," said Thomas.

Instead, Compton was able to remain in a man-to-man defense the entire night since Glendale gunners Brett Barnett (a seven-foot center) and Tim Fischer (6-8) contributed a combined eight points.

Guard Rubio Malone topped his team with 15 points, followed by Purvis Miller with 12 and Fred Jackson with 10.

Miller, the Moore League's scoring champion, got his baskets when they mattered most, especially a five-footer two seconds before halftime.

Nicklaus fires 66, grabs 4-stroke Inverrary lead

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, who has played Inverrary Golf and Country Club as if he owns it, knocked six more strokes off par Friday to take a commanding lead halfway through the $250,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic.

Nicklaus, who has never finished worse than sixth in five previous tournaments at Inverrary and won the Tournament Players Championship on the course last year, had eight birdies and two bogeys in his round of 66 Friday.

His 36-hole total is 136, eight-under-par.

At 140, four under par, were defending Masters champion Ray Floyd, who had 68; Jerry McGee, who shot a 66, and Don Pooley, who won only $2,200 in 19 tournaments last year, 69.

First-round leader Gary Player had a one-over 73 to stand at 141 along with Jim Simons, Bobby Walzel, Sam Farlow, Danny Edwards, Fuzzy Zoeller and 1974 NCAA champion Curtis Strange, who got into the tournament on a sponsor's exemption.

"I didn't expect to be four shots in the lead starting out today," said Nicklaus, who had played in only two of seven previous PGA events.

"I would not say my swing or my game is anywhere near where I want it," said Nicklaus. "It sounds funny, but it's still not. I got away with the bad shots I hit."

Nicklaus has won $126,532 in his five previous tournaments at Inverrary, averaging 69.3 in 20 rounds of golf. He never has had higher than a 74 on the 7,127-yard layout.

Nicklaus had 28 putts in his round, including a six-foot eagle try on 15 which lipped the cup.

The surprise of the day was Pooley, who lost his playing card last year and had to regain it in the fall. He won $700 at Phoenix earlier this year but missed the cut at Tucson, Los Angeles and in Hawaii.

Pooley, who survived Monday's qualifying round to get into the tournament, never has shot two better PGA rounds than his 71-69 here.

"This is a strange position for me," the 25-year-old Phoenix resident said. "I'm usually on the bottom of the list. I'll probably be a little nervous today."

Dodgers sign Hooton, Downing; three unsigned

Dodger pitchers Burt Hooton and Al Downing have signed contracts, a team spokesman said Friday, leaving only three players on the roster unsigned.

The three who haven't come to terms are pitcher Tommy John and outfielders John Hale and Glenn Burke.

Most of the Dodgers will fly to Vero Beach, Fla., Monday, where the team will open spring drills the following day.

Bonds, Grich ail, miss Angel drills

HOLTVILLE (AP)—Outfielder Bobby Bonds remained confined to his room by illness, and muscle spasms in his back forced shortstop Bobby Grich to miss the Angels' fourth day of spring training Friday.

Dr. Jules Rasinski diagnosed Bonds' ailment, which has kept him out of action for two days, as bronchitis. He said the outfielder probably would be able to return to action Sunday.

Grich was expected to perform today when manager Norm Sherry greeted the full squad for the first time. The Angels expect to have 49 players in camp.

Sherry has had nine of his infielders and outfielders working out with the pitchers and catchers since camp opened Tuesday. He said he thought the pitchers finally caught up with the hitters Friday.

"Gary Ross was throwing the ball by the hitters and Mike Cuellar looked good," said the manager. "Nolan Ryan was throwing easy."

Gary Player of South Africa creates a geyser blasting out of water in Inverrary play Friday. Player slipped to one-over-par 73, five strokes behind Jack Nicklaus.

Kings on road; seek spot in NHL playoffs

DETROIT (Special)—Battling to lock up a playoff position, the Kings open their last extended trip of the season tonight against the Detroit Red Wings.

Coach Bob Pulford's skaters are unbeaten in four encounters with the Red Wings (3-0-1). The Kings continue their rigorous five-game, six-night venture Sunday when they meet Buffalo in a match to be televised. Three of the five games are against division rivals.

However, the Kings will be without winger Dave Schultz for at least two games following Thursday night's bench-clearing free-for-all in which the club's enforcer drew a double game misconduct penalty.

Kings general manager Jake Milford talked with NHL president Clarence Campbell Friday as well as Scotty Morrison, supervisor of NHL officials, concerning the brawl which had five separate fights going on at one time.

"Our main contention is Vancouver left the bench first," Milford said, "and secondly, that Glenn Goulding was not our first player to come off the bench."

"Morrison asked us to send the videotapes of the game to him in Toronto so the league can decide on player suspensions and fines. Right now we don't know if Schultz will be suspended two or three games," Milford said.

Umpires ready to call spring strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball umpires have been told not to report to spring training until a general contract has been reached, a top baseball official said Friday.

Both the National and American league umpires received word from their respective leagues Friday, he said.

The umpires, whose contract ran out after the 1976 season, are looking for a long-term contract with an increase in pay and had said previously they would not report to the spring training camps without at least the basis for an agreement.

"Unless some kind of tentative agreement is reached or, at the very least, the basis for an agreement is established with the next few weeks," NL umpire Billy Williams, secretary of Major League Umpires' Association said recently.

The 26 major league clubs began spring training this week and exhibition games are scheduled in two weeks.

With the American League adding two more teams, Seattle and Toronto, Lee MacPhail, the AL president, has suggested his league use three-man crews rather than the normal four-man crews. The umpires association is opposed to the proposal.

The umpires are seeking:

- An increase in the minimum starting salary from $15,500 to $21,500; $1,500 increments thereafter through the ninth year and $3,000 increments from the 10th year to the 20th.
- Raising fees for spring training games from the present $25 per game to $100; spring training per diem from $49 a day to $64.50.
- Establishment of a $250,000 pool in place of individual payments for World Series, All-Star games and league playoff games. The $250,000 would be allotted to the umpires association for dispersal as it see fit. At present umpires receive $9,500 for working World Series games, $5,500 for playoffs and $1,250 for the All-Star games.

Ga Hai wins Santa Anita feature

Cautchen directs five more winners

Combined News services

Apprentice jockey Steve Cautchen rode five more winners at Aqueduct Friday, including Indian Bend in the featured $16,000 Penrose Purse.

The 3-year-old daughter of Triple Bend and Indian covered the mile and 70 yards in 1:42.5 and finished 1 1/4 lengths ahead of Equal Honor. One Night Affair was another three lengths behind.

His other winners were Joanne's Fling ($4) in the first race; Master Pruner ($3.40) in the third; Frank Grey ($5) in the fourth; and Oil Crisis ($8.60) in the sixth.

The 16-year-old Cautchen now has 121 winners in 47 racing days at the Big A and is certain to smash one more riding record—Chris McCarron's mark of 123 winners in 59 days at Laurel three years ago. Cautchen has 129 winners overall.

the other eight coming in four days at Santa Anita.

He might have had a sixth winner Friday, but a spill ruined his chance. In the seventh race, his mount, Franglais, the odds-on favorite, stumbled and fell coming out of the gate. Cautchen was catapulted over the horse's head and to the track. He and Franglais were unhurt.

GA HAI returned following a 10-month layoff to capture Santa Anita Park's Los Angeles County Fair Purse and hand previously unbeaten Barrera his first loss.

Handled by Donald Pierce, Ga Hai posted a neck victory over a "heavy" track in 1:12 1/4. Big Destiny, away from racing for eight months, finished second with Barrera, tiring in the late stages, finished third. Ga Hai returned $22 to those of the 18,000 who backed him.

Today, Katonka, returning from an injury sustained in the spring, makes her seasonal debut against Winter Solstice and eight others in the $46,000 Monrovia Handicap at about 6 1/2 furlongs on the turf course.

After finishing third in an overnight handicap at Belmont Park, Katonka underwent surgery for a knee injury. Laffit Pincay, with high-f 123 pounds, will direct Katonka.

Three Bits triumphs in L.B. Trot

Three Bits got up in the stretch to outrun Tigresside and Important Reason in the Long Beach Trot Friday night at Los Alamitos Race Course.

Three Bits stayed off a torrid early pace, choosing to stay in the firmer footing of the middle of the track, and then cut loose in the stretch, winning going away.

Important Reason was somewhat forced to take the early lead, but handled it well, establishing a clear lead before tiring in the stretch and finishing third.

With the prospects of the first two-minute mile of the season washed away by rain opening night, the first magic mile of the sixth annual Southern California Racing Association meeting may well fall to the six outstanding pacers that will take to the track for tonight's $10,000 Silkwood Pace.

Charles O. Finley, volatile owner of the Oakland A's, has sent commissioner Bowie Kuhn a list of conditions for his attendance at a hearing into the sale of pitcher Paul Lindblad.

Unless the conditions—mainly calling for detailed accounts of alleged misdeeds—are met, Finley's lengthy telegram says, the hearing will be a "sham" and will serve no purpose except as "a personal inquisition."

Kuhn called the hearing after Finley announced last Saturday that he had sold the 35-year-old relief hurler to the Texas Rangers for $400,000.

Kuhn had announced the day before that he wanted to be advised before any clubs sold top stars. He blocked the sale, as he had done last June 18 when Finley tried to sell three Oakland superstars for $3.5 million.

Finley is suing Kuhn over that one.

Baseball writers to honor Tommy John

Combined News Services

Tommy John, voted the National League's Comeback Player of the Year in 1976, will be honored by the Los Angeles-Anaheim chapter of Baseball Writers Association of America April 3.

John was lauded by former teammate Mike Marshall, who said, "Tommy John was the comeback player of the year award the instant he walked out to the mound to throw his first pitch of 1976."

The writers voted John the Charles di Giovanni Award as the player most typifying Dodger spirit.

John, who ruptured the ligament in his left elbow and underwent a tendon transplant in 1974, started 11 games for the Dodgers last season.

The idea of blowing up the Olympic Village was discussed several weeks ago by a committee of Quebec politicians and civil servants studying the future of the $85-million facility.

The idea "of blowing it up or otherwise demolishing the building was examined quite seriously" but rejected, said Marcel Bart, press secretary to Quebec sports minister Claude Charron.

"After all, there were a number of people who argued that when you take the cost of getting the Village ready for use and operating it over the years, it would simply not be worth keeping," Mr. Bart said in an interview published Friday.

Crime losses staggering

By JACK HOUSTON
Knight News Service

Shopping centers and the stores they envelop bear a substantial share of the cost of crime. Their complex physical plants and volumes of accessible merchandise make them vulnerable to many security problems.

By one estimate, retailers must pay 28 per cent of the nation's total crime bill. That means, when the financial loss due to crime was $20.3 billion in 1974, approximately $5.8 billion was borne by retailers.

THE INTERNATIONAL Council of Shopping Centers reports that the amount shopping centers and their storekeepers must pay has not been measured, but it is believed substantial enough for centers and merchants to continually reassess their security programs.

"Centers are designed to attract and serve legitimate customers and shoppers, but may attract their share of potential troublemakers, however small that group may be," the council reports.

Security personnel are involved daily in handling traffic jams, minor plant breakdowns and ill customers. Less frequently, they are called upon to render service during a fire, major accidents, public demonstrations, bomb threats, or criminal activity.

Standards applied to shopping center security are quite different from those used with other types of real property, such as warehouses and office buildings, according to the council.

"THIS DIFFERENCE in standards is most clearly shown in the areas of personnel selection, responsibilities, and attitude," it reports.

"Most security personnel, whether they are on-staff or with contract companies, have had some police or military training and essentially are guard-oriented. In the shopping center, however, they cannot act exclusively as guards or surrogate law officers. In their shopping center role, they must service the needs of center management and the retail customers who use the facility.

"They must recognize that the retail business the center does is directly related to the good will it engenders among the public as well as the degree to which the center provides the opportunity for convenient, comfortable, and safe shopping.

The City of Carson pays the Sheriff's Department $25,656 yearly for its foot patrol in the Carson Mall. One officer is assigned full-time and the Mall complements its security with a private force plus closed circuit TV.

Lakewood Shopping Center is in the process of putting in its own force and now relies on the Lakewood Sheriff's Station. Cerritos Mall has its own force, also complemented by Lakewood sheriffs, and is in 24-hour contact with the Lakewood station.

"Maintaining this delicate balance and recognizing the nuances of a people-oriented function are the most important differences that shopping center security personnel face from prior security careers. These differences also place an added burden upon management when selecting and training security personnel and when developing systems and procedures."

THE COUNCIL presents its views on shopping center security in a 31-page booklet titled, "Shopping Center Security — Basic Principles for an Effective Security Program." The booklet deals with security objectives, evaluation of security needs, evaluation of local police and fire protection, security personnel, normal security operations, special procedures, security communications systems, alarms and off-hour security measures, community relations, in-store security and written reports and forms.

Characteristics of a particular shopping center or mall must be considered before an adequate security plan can be devised, according to the council. The size and design of the center are of particular importance. Security will be handled differently — depending upon the number of levels, the number of buildings, the kind of exits and entrances, the types of stores and where they are located and the provision for delivery of merchandise.

The types of customers a center draws also is significant, including age and income group. Centers with high fashion stores establish different security procedures from those with discount operations, the council reports.

Security programs also are designed to meet the pattern of crime in the area. A review of police records will show such trends.

A council survey of 117 shopping centers and malls, both large and small, showed the average size of a full-time security force ranged from one to six. However, some centers with more than 800,000 square feet of leaseable area reported as many as 16 full-time officers.

In addition, the average number of part-time security officers ranged between one and three, with 10 the highest number. Seasonal security personnel swelled the ranks, adding from one to as many as 30 persons.

SECURITY COSTS also varied, according to the survey. It found centers' security budgets ranged from a median low of $3,600 a year, at centers leasing under 100,000 square feet, to a median high of $58,800 a year, at centers with more than 800,000 square feet.

However, some centers spent as little as $2,000 annually on security while others spent as much as $284,000 a year.

Oil, gas bond requirements may go; aid to independents

By DICK HOWLAND
Staff Writer

New state regulations on bond requirements for independent oil and gas producers, which industry leaders say could stop all new drilling, may be withdrawn soon by the state legislature, representatives of the industry were told this week in Long Beach at the Petroleum Club.

Jerome J. O'Brien, chairman of the board of the California Independent Producers Association (CIPA), said an urgency bill to suspend enforcement of the new bonding rules may reach Gov. Brown's desk 10 days after passage by the Senate, which voted in favor of the bill Thursday.

CIPA has a membership of 315 firms throughout California, representing most of the state's 400 active independents. The Los Angeles area division of CIPA was the group meeting.

THE URGENCY bill involves performance bonds posted by oil and gas operators to insure they will meet state standards for abandoning depleted or unproductive wells.

Until Jan. 1, 1977, operators posted bonds of $5,000 per well or a "blanket" bond of $25,000 to cover statewide activities. Under new rules, bonding levels were multiplied five-fold to $25,000 per well, or $250,000 for a blanket bond.

Moreover, the bonds are now required to remain in effect for the life of the well or "virtual perpetuity," according to O'Brien. Prior regulations relieved the drilling company of bond requirements once the well was producing.

It is this "perpetuity" feature in particular which makes bonding firms unwilling to qualify most oil and gas operators, he said.

BONDING companies have reported that only three independent companies in California now qualify for bonds under the current regulations, O'Brien said. He concluded that the eventual result of this situation would be that virtually all drilling by independents would stop and improvements on existing wells would be blocked.

Independent producers supply approximately half the daily domestic crude oil and natural gas production in California, he said. Lang Winckler, a spokesman for CIPA, said the current bonding regulations were passed last year by the legislature on a consent calendar without debate, with assurance from the Division of Oil and Gas that the new regulations had the support of the industry. Industry leaders, however, were unaware of the regulations and did not support them, he said.

Sen. Jon Nejedly, D-Walnut Creek, author of the current bonding regulations, introduced the new measure to block their implementation.

HIS SENATE Bill 293 was passed unanimously Tuesday by the Senate Committee on Natural Resources. Full Senate approval is expected, with hearings in the Assembly due next week.

The emergency measure, O'Brien explained, will open up continued operations by independents, pending anticipated passage of its companion measure, Assembly Bill 556, which comes before the Assembly Energy and Natural Resources Committee on Thursday.

Introduced by Assemblymen Fred Chel, D-Long Beach, and William Thomas, R-Bakersfield, the measure resets bonding limits at $10,000 per well and $100,000 for blanket coverage, eliminating provisions regarding the life of the well.

Winckler said the Long Beach meeting was the first regular one of the Los Angeles area division of CIPA. He said the division will meet in Long Beach Wednesday of every month to consider legislative efforts to resolve problems of independents, market conditions, and activities of other divisions of CIPA.

Baptist College to bar divorced instructors

RIVERSIDE (AP) — California Baptist College says divorced persons need not apply to become instructors because the board of trustees is worried about "moral deterioration."

Alumni, faculty and students protest the policy is "detrimental and damaging" to the Southern Baptist-affiliated school. The 20-member board, which approved the policy two weeks ago, has postponed its application until the board's next meeting in May, officials of the four-year liberal arts college said Thursday.

"But we're not going to back down," said Dr. Andrew Tucker, the board's president. "We may modify the policy somewhat."

"My feeling is that they want to look at refinements or review it," Dr. James Staples, the college president, said in an interview.

The policy would have the administration "refrain from employment of any faculty or administration who were divorced," Academic Dean Stephen Carleton said.

"There is a tendency for moral deterioration to creep into colleges," said Tucker. "We feel the breakdown in the homes in our society now is a sign of moral deterioration."

"The board feels that the faculty should represent as close to an ideal Christian witness as practical," he said. "The Scriptures have definite things to say about divorce."

The ban would not apply to current employees who are already divorced, but would be enforced against those who in the future become divorced or marry a divorced person, Carleton and Tucker said.

The board has not decided if the ban would be used against current faculty members when they seek tenure. Four of the 51 faculty members are divorced and three of those are untenured, Carleton said.

Vandalism in schools costs $600 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The primary task for a growing number of students and teachers is self-preservation rather than education, a Senate subcommittee report on school violence said Friday.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said in releasing the report that an estimated $600 million is spent each year as a result of vandalism in the schools. This is more money than was spent for textbooks in 1972, he said, and enough to hire 50,000 more teachers.

"Even more shocking, however, is the 70,000 serious physical assaults on teachers and the literally hundreds of thousands of assaults on students perpetrated in our schools annually," he said.

BAYH spoke at a conference sponsored by the National Education Association on violence in the schools.

The report is a summation of three years of hearings and is based on a nationwide survey of 757 school systems.

An NEA study of crimes in schools said the number of assaults increased 58 per cent in the years 1970-1974, while sex offenses were up 62 per cent, drug-related crimes rose 81 per cent and robbery was up 117 per cent.

Bayh said his subcommittee had found problems of school violence in small towns and affluent suburbs as well as large cities.

"IT IS also time to stop pointing accusatory fingers at our educational system as being solely responsible for these problems," he said. "Our schools are only one facet of a society that has seen juvenile crime increase by 245 per cent over the last decade."

Among the recommendations of the report were:

—Alternative schools to provide special emotional and educational attention for frustrated and resentful students.

—Optional education programs to help cut truancy rates.

—Alternatives to suspension from school for lesser rule violations such as truancy or smoking. Bayh mentioned such alternatives as cool-off rooms, behavior contracts and additional counseling strategies.

—Prevention of overcrowding in the classroom.

Escape from guilt

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A puzzled patient asked his psychiatrist, "If there is no such thing as guilt, then why do I feel so miserable?"

In the Judeo-Christian view, human beings chronically fall short of their best potentialities, and to honestly deal with the fact, should admit it, regret it, ask amends and seek to do better.

That's the keynote of Christianity — always another chance.

It's also what Lent is about, a 40-day season of penitence, meditation and sensitizing of conscience which began Wednesday — called "Ash Wednesday."

"Remember man, that thou art dust, and to dust thou shalt return," the minister says as he imposes ashes in the sign of a cross on the foreheads of worshippers in Roman Catholic, Episcopal and some Lutheran churches. It symbolizes that human beings are sinners.

that they do foul up to varying degrees, that they are guilty, that they need to acknowledge it and be sorry for it to accept a loving God's forgiveness for it.

This is a continually restorative process of Christianity, but it gets extra emphasis during Lent, the period leading to Easter, and it calls for special disciplines for reconditioning the psyche.

"We all need times of quiet, penitence and reflection as a restorative from the destructions of the world," says the Rev. Frederick Rapp of St. Stephen's Church, Port Washington, N.Y. "It answers deep needs of the human spirit."

But he emphasizes that the traditional practices of Lent, such as the imposition of ashes, meditation and fasting, are not the objective themselves, but only the means to it.

"People often confuse the means with the ends," he says. "Discipline is never an end in itself." Noting, for example, that an athlete trains for a race or game, not for the training itself, the Rev. Mr. Rapp adds:

"So it is with spiritual discipline — to bring our lives closer to God and make us more aware of his care and influence in human life."

It's a habit Jesus followed. From the New Testament accounts, he wasn't an ascetic and he enjoyed celebrations and feasts, but he often quit the crowds and went off alone to meditate and keep himself tuned to God.

Lent itself commemorates the 40 days he spent in the wilderness in self-searching and decision before he began his ministry.

Although various types of meditation have become a vogue in this country, often of the lately imported Eastern varieties, such as Yoga or Transcendental Meditation, the practices always have been a standard feature of Christianity.

Jesus offered considerable guidance about it, such as warning against making a big display of it to court attention, or being dismal-faced and morose about it.

"And in praying do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do; for they think that they will be heard for their many words." Vocabulary and syntax don't matter, he made clear in Matthew 6.

"When you pray," he said, "go into your room and shut the door and pray to your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you."

You also don't need to worry about analyzing the psychological complexities of your problem, either, he pointed out. "Your Father knows what you need before you ask him."

L.A. school employees' racial count protested

Associated Press

A plethora of federal and state laws require the Los Angeles Unified School District to count its employees' white, black, brown and beige heads.

But a Jewish group charged Friday that the latest tabulating effort, a complicated six-page memorandum, was a "trend toward arbitrary and artificial racial and ethnic criteria, akin to Nazi Germany's Nuremberg laws, which will inevitably lead to disparate treatment of school personnel on the basis of race and ethnicity."

Harry J. Keaton, president of the Pacific Southwest Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, criticized a school district memorandum issued this month outlining ways to change "ethnic designation."

The memo, from the office of Associate Supt. Jerry Halverson, said ethnic and sex identification is in response to federal laws and requirements for "staff balance" and the new criteria for such identification were recommended by the U.S. Office for Civil Rights, and the black, Mexican-American, American Indian and Asian-American Education commissions.

The memo lists six ethnic groups: Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, Filipino, American Indian or Alaskan native, black and white. To be classified in one of the groups, the person must verify ancestry back to his grandparents. The person must provide birth certificates and declarations from a school administrator, clergyman, doctor or faculty member.

The district began surveying races and ethnic backgrounds of staff and students in 1966 for the State Education Department.

"We cannot but observe with amazement the blithe invocation of racial theories through the tracing of blood lines and wonder if that information is in any way relevant to the district's conducting of its business — the education of Los Angeles children," said Keaton.

Church demands 'rights of children'

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church is taking up a new field of special concern—the "rights of children." They're increasingly being neglected, says the denomination's program board, at home and by society.

A study report blames their troubles on changes in family patterns resulting in rising cases of child abuse, widespread poverty that hits children hardest, plus failures in the educational, health and courts systems.

The report also faulted the present-day religious system "whose traditional attention to children is being obscured by other preoccupations." Various groups also "have become concerned with value education and deliberately ignore the faith dimension," the report said.

Steps were recommended to the denomination's general assembly this spring for dealing with the problem.

See how the lilies grow; they do not toil, or spin, and yet I tell you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

WHO'S WHO

The Rev. Dr. David S. Young, son of Edwin L. Young of Long Beach, was recently selected for mention in "Who's Who in Religion." Dr. Young has received many academic honors including a grant in mathematics. He is now pastor of Brush Creek Church of the Brethren in Monrovia, Maryland, and is the author of articles on the ministry and marriage counseling.

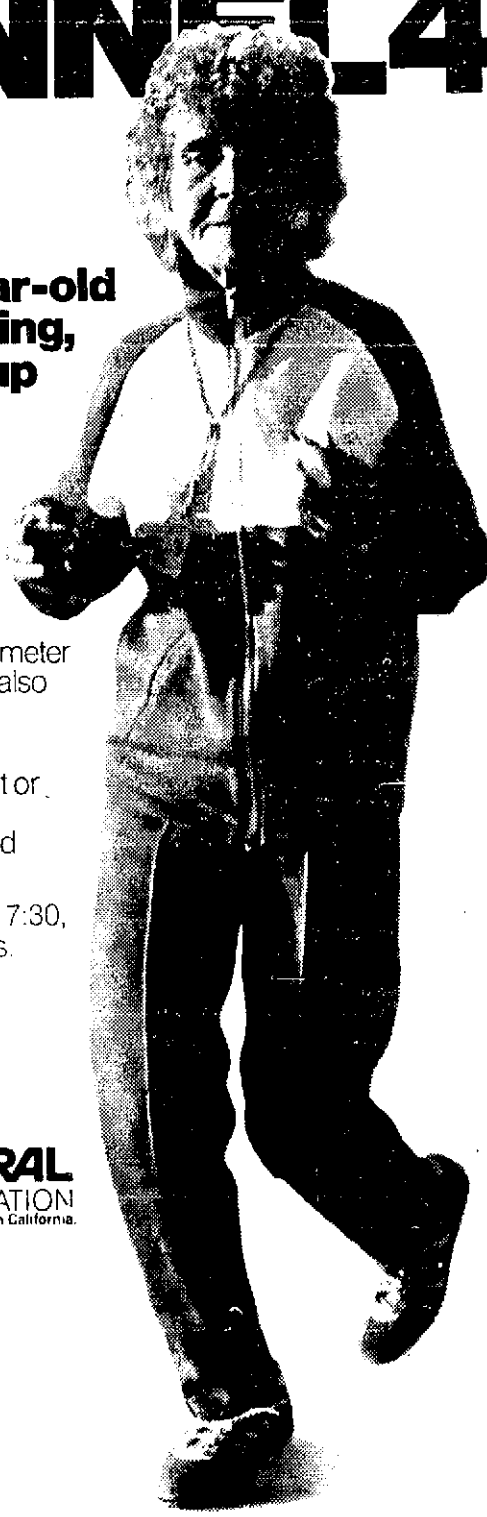

HONORED

Morris Schwed, a leader of the Long Beach Jewish community for many years, will receive the Merit Award of the University of Judaism at a breakfast in his honor at Temple Beth Shalom Sunday, March 13. Dr. Sanford J. Davis and Sydney Winston, say Schwed is being honored for his dedication to Jewish education, the temple and the general community. Dr. David Lieber, president of the university, will be the guest speaker.

Matzo's shipped to Egypt

NEW YORK (AP) — Reform Jews have shipped 2,500 pounds of matzo's to Egypt so the remaining 400 Jews in that country—at Cairo and Alexandria—can celebrate the Passover starting April 2.
Arrangements for the shipment were made by Rabbi Alexander Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, after being informed by the Egyptian Jewish community that their traditional matzo oven had broken down beyond repair.
He had visited the Jews there in 1974, and has kept in touch with their leaders.

'More than Bread' A friendly church with purpose

The church tramp

By MARK CLUTTER
Religion Editor

Last Sunday I attended the worship service at East Side Christian Church, Seventh Street and Obispo Avenue. I felt like a prodigal son who had come home.

The reason was because I grew up in the Christian Church, going to Sunday School, church and Christian Endeavor regularly. Perhaps I had almost too much since my parents were ministers.

Well, East Side Christian is not quite like those countrified churches of my childhood. It is urban and sophisticated. But in a way it is exactly the same. There is that intense devotion to religion — and the rich, outgoing friendliness. It is slightly more formal, more "Episcopalian" — but it is as it has always been, a "People's Church."

The hymns rung bells of memory — "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus," "Great is Thy Faithfulness," "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life."

MR. ECHOLS discussed some of the history. The new congregation decided to build a church, so on Labor Day, 1910, the men pitched in and built it at Eighth Street and Obispo Avenue. It was and perhaps is some kind of record. Churches simply are not built in a day. Newspapers throughout the nation featured the story. The hurried builders did well. The building, long since sold by East Side Christian, is still in use by another religious group.

The church purchased the present site at Seventh and Obispo in 1919. The present sanctuary was dedicated in 1940.

The old timers — there is one charter member still in the church — held their Baptisms in the ocean.

The church's territory is gradually changing. More and more blacks and Spanish-speaking people are moving in. The suggestion that the church should move to another area was strongly rejected. One leader, described as very conservative, said, "If this neighborhood becomes half black, I hope this church will be half black."

East Side Christian has new programs. The interest in senior citizens has been intensified. But there is also more emphasis on youth. Special worship services for young people are in the talking stage.

OUTSIDERS are often confused about the Christian Church. It was founded by an 18th century American theologian, Alexander Campbell. He had a great dream of Christian unity — "Christians only in the Church of Christ only."

"Man does not live by bread alone." The sermon of the Rev. K. Dean Echols was a studied, thought-out explanation of world needs and what can be done about them. Starvation is a basic problem — there are an estimated 800 million hungry children in the world. But the need goes beyond mere bread. People must be taught how to take care of their needs, how to live with each other, how to achieve dignity and purpose.

The church contributes generously to world needs. To a visitor the end of the service is a pleasurable time. People rush up, shake hands, introduce themselves and urge him to come again. Unlike many long established churches, it is not "closed" to strangers. The welcome is strong and real.

But soon the new church split into the Church of Christ, which to this day is ultraconservative and fundamentalist, and the Christian Church. The Christian Church more recently split, forming the Disciples of Christ. East Side belongs to the Disciples. The Disciples tend to be more liberal and more formal.

These remarks are too simplistic. Each congregation is democratic. There is no hierarchy to hand down canon laws. Anyone

Crusade for 'day of rest'

ATLANTA (AP) — The Lord's Day Alliance of the U.S.A. has urged federal and local leaders across the country to take new steps to preserve a weekly day of rest, both for "spiritual and physical renewal" and to "conserve energy" important to the nation's future.

At its annual meeting, the alliance urged President Carter and Congress to avoid using Sunday to transact public business and to enact legislation to protect one day in seven for rest. Religious groups were urged to introduce new studies emphasizing the importance of observing Sunday in "worship, rest and family fellowship."

Baptist College to bar divorced instructors

RIVERSIDE (AP) — California Baptist College says divorced persons need not apply to become instructors because the board of trustees is worried about "moral deterioration."

Alumni, faculty and students protest the policy is "detrimental and damaging" to the Southern Baptist-affiliated school. The 20-member board, which approved the policy two weeks ago, has postponed its application until the board's next meeting in May, officials of the four-year liberal arts college said Thursday.

"But we're not going to back down," said Dr. Andrew Tucker, the board's president. "We may modify the policy somewhat."

"My feeling is that they want to look at refinements or review it," Dr. James Staples, the college president, said in an interview.

The policy would have the administration "refrain from employment of any faculty or

A plethora of federal and state laws require the Los Angeles Unified School District to count its employees' white, black, brown and beige heads.

But a Jewish group charged Friday that the latest tabulating effort, a complicated six-page memorandum, was a "trend toward arbitrary and artificial racial and ethnic criteria, akin to Nazi Germany's Nuremberg laws, which will inevitably lead to disparate treatment of school personnel on the basis of race and ethnicity."

Harry J. Keaton, president of the Pacific Southwest Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, criticized a school district memorandum issued this month outlining ways to change "ethnic designation."

The memo, from the office of Associate Supt. Jerry Halverson, said ethnic and sex identification is in response to federal laws and requirements for "staff balance" and the new criteria for such iden-

Vandalism in schools costs $600 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The primary task for a growing number of students and teachers is self-preservation rather than education, a Senate subcommittee report on school violence said Friday.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said in releasing the report that an estimated $600 million is spent each year as a result of vandalism in the schools. This is more money than was spent for textbooks in 1972, he said, and enough to hire 50,000 more teachers.

"Even more shocking, however, is the 70,000 serious physical assaults on teachers and the literally hundreds of thousands of assaults on students perpetrated in our schools annually," he said.

BAYH spoke at a conference sponsored by the National Education Association on violence in the schools.

The report is a summation of three years of hearings and is based on a nationwide survey of 751 school systems.

An NEA study of crimes in schools said the number of assaults increased 58 per cent in the years 1970-1974, while sex offenses were up 62 per cent, drug-related crimes rose 81 per cent and robbery was up 117 per cent.

Bayh said his subcommittee had found problems of school violence in small towns and affluent suburbs as well as large cities.

"IT IS also time to stop pointing accusatory fingers at our educational system as being solely responsible for these problems," he said. "Our schools are only one facet of a society that has seen juvenile crime increase by 245 per cent over the last decade."

Among the recommendations of the report were:

- Alternative schools to provide special emotional and educational attention for frustrated and resentful students.
- Optional education programs to help cut truancy rates.
- Alternatives to suspension from school for lesser rule violations such as truancy or smoking.
- Bayh mentioned such alternatives as cool-off rooms, behavior contracts and additional counseling strategies.
- Prevention of overcrowding in the classroom.

Escape from guilt Lent offers another chance

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A puzzled patient asked his psychiatrist, "If there is no such thing as guilt, then why do I feel so miserable?"

In the Judeo-Christian view, human beings chronically fall short of their best potentialities, and to honestly deal with the fact, should admit it, regret it, ask amends and seek to do better.

That's the keynote of Christianity — always another chance.

It's also what Lent is about, a 40-day season of penitence, meditation and sensitizing of conscience which began Wednesday — called "Ash Wednesday."

"Remember man, that thou art dust, and to dust thou shalt return," the minister says as he imposes ashes in the sign of a cross on the foreheads of worshippers in Roman Catholic, Episcopal and some Lutheran churches.

It symbolizes that human beings are sinners, that they do foul up to varying degrees, that they are guilty, that they need to acknowledge it and be sorry for it to accept a loving God's forgiveness for it.

This is a continually restorative process of Christianity, but it gets extra emphasis during Lent, the period leading to Easter, and it calls for special disciplines for reconditioning the psyche.

"We all need times of quiet, penitence and reflection as a restorative from the destructions of the world," says the Rev. Frederick Rapp of St. Stephen's church, Port Washington, N.Y. "It answers deep needs of the human spirit."

But he emphasizes that the traditional practices of Lent, such as the imposition of ashes, meditation and fasting, are not the objective themselves, but only the means to it.

"People often confuse the means with the ends," he says. "Discipline is never an end in itself." Noting, for example, that an athlete trains for a race or game, not for the training itself, the Rev. Mr. Rapp adds:

"So it is with spiritual discipline — to bring our lives closer to God and make us more aware of his care and influence in human life."

It's a habit Jesus followed. From the New Testament accounts, he wasn't an ascetic and he enjoyed celebrations and feasts, but he often quit the crowds and went off alone to meditate and keep himself tuned to God.

Lent itself commemorates the 40 days he spent in the wilderness in self-searching and decision before he began his ministry.

Although various types of meditation have become a vogue in this country, often of the lately imported Eastern varieties, such as Yoga or Transcendental Meditation, the practices always have been a standard feature of Christianity.

Jesus offered considerable guidance about it, such as warning against making a big display of it to court attention, or being dismal-faced and morose about it.

"And in praying do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do; for they think that they will be heard for their many words." Vocabulary and syntax don't matter, he made clear in Matthew 6.

"When you pray," he said, "go into your room and shut the door and pray to your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you."

You also don't need to worry about analyzing the psychological complexities of your problem, either, he pointed out. "Your Father knows what you need before you ask him."

Church demands 'rights of children'

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church is taking up a new field of special concern — the "rights of children." They're increasingly being neglected, says the denomination's program board, at home and by society.

A study report blames their troubles on changes in family patterns resulting in rising cases of child abuse, widespread poverty that hits children hardest, plus failures in the educational, health and courts systems.

The report also faulted the present-day religious system "whose traditional attention to children is being obscured by other preoccupations." Various groups also "have become concerned with value education and deliberately ignore the faith dimension," the report said.

Steps were recommended to the denomination's general assembly this spring for dealing with the problem.

See how the lilies grow; they do not toil, or spin, and yet I tell you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Matzohs shipped to Egypt

NEW YORK (AP) — Reform Jews have shipped 2,500 matzohs to Egypt so the remaining 400 Jews in that country — at Cairo and Alexandria — can celebrate the Passover starting April 2.

Arrangements for the shipment were made by Rabbi Alexander Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, after being informed by the Egyptian Jewish community that their traditional matzoh oven had broken down beyond repair.

He had visited the Jews there in 1974, and has kept in touch with their leaders.

'More than Bread'

A friendly church with purpose

The church tramp

By MARK CLUTTER
Religion Editor

Last Sunday I attended the worship service at East Side Christian Church, Seventh Street and Obispo Avenue. I felt like a prodigal son who had come home.

The reason was because I grew up in the Christian Church, going to Sunday School, church and Christian Endeavor regularly. Perhaps I had almost too much since my parents were ministers.

Well, East Side Christian is not quite like those countrified churches of my childhood. It is urban and sophisticated. But in a way it is exactly the same. There is that intense devotion to religion — and the rich, outgoing friendliness. It is slightly more formal, more "Episcopalian" — but it is as it has always been, a "People's Church."

The hymns rung bells of memory — "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus," "Great Is Thy Faithfulness," "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life."

MR. ECHOLS discussed some of the history. The new congregation decided to build a church, so on Labor Day, 1910, the men pitched in and built, it at Eighth Street and Obispo Avenue. It was and perhaps is some kind of record. Churches simply are not built in a day. Newspapers throughout the nation featured the story. The hurried builders did well. The building, long since sold by East Side Christian, is still in use by another religious group.

The church purchased the present site at Seventh and Obispo in 1919. The present sanctuary was dedicated in 1940.

The old timers — there is one charter member still in the church — held their Baptisms in the ocean.

The church's territory is gradually changing. More and more blacks and Spanish-speaking people are moving in. The suggestion that the church should move to another area was strongly rejected. One leader, described as very conservative, said, "If this neighborhood becomes half black, I hope this church will be half black."

East Side Christian has new programs. The interest in senior citizens has been intensified. But there is also more emphasis on youth. Special worship services for young people are in the talking stage.

THE HEART and meaning of the Christian Church is the Lord's Supper, observed every Sunday. In this respect it is parallel to the Catholic, Episcopal and some other churches. But the pastor is not a priest. He presides while elders conduct the sacred memorial. The bread and unfermented wine are distributed to the pews by deacons. This is symbolic of the intensely democratic spirit of this church.

"Man does not live by bread alone," The sermon of the Rev. K. Dean Echols was a studied, thought-out explanation of world needs and what can be done about them. Starvation is a basic problem — there are an estimated 860 million hungry children in the world. But the need goes beyond mere bread. People must be taught how to take care of their needs, how to live with each other, how to achieve the dignity and purpose.

The church contributes generously to world needs. To a visitor the end of the service is a pleasurable time. People rush up, shake hands, introduce themselves and urge him to come again. Unlike many long established churches, it is not "closed" to strangers. The welcome is strong and real.

But soon the new church split into the Church of Christ, which to this day is ultraconservative and fundamentalist, and the Christian Church. The Christian Church more recently split, forming the Disciples of Christ. East Side belongs to the Disciples. The Disciples tend to be more liberal and more formal.

These remarks are too simplistic. Each congregation is democratic. There is no hierarchy to hand down canon laws. Anyone visiting many Campbellite churches would find much variety. But there is a tradition carried on by these democracies. East Side Christian in every much in the tradition. The emphasis is on Christ and the Bible.

Can any of you, for all his fretting, add a cubit's growth to his height? And if you are powerless to do so small a thing, why do you fret about your other needs?

REV. K. DEAN ECHOLS, East Side Christian Church

Crusade for 'day of rest'

ATLANTA (AP) — The Lord's Day Alliance of the U.S.A. has urged federal and local leaders across the country to take new steps to preserve a weekly day of rest, both for "spiritual and physical renewal" and to "conserve energy" important to the nation's future.

At its annual meeting, the alliance urged President Carter and Congress to avoid using Sunday to transact public business and to enact legislation to protect one day in seven for rest. Religious groups were urged to introduce new studies emphasizing the importance of observing Sunday in "worship, rest and family fellowship."

When a man's ways, please the LORD, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. Proverbs 10:7.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Keep your enthusiasm

A friend whose enthusiasm has been reborn told me of a discouraged man driving along a road down South. In his dark depression it seemed that the bottom had dropped out of life. He stopped at a filling station and noticed across the road a sign which read, "Fortunes Told — Know Your Future." He asked the attendant about it and was told that an old woman lived there who made her living by telling fortunes.

"She is quite a character," the attendant said, "and everyone she touches perks up." The tourist said, "Well, I sure need some perking up." He decided he might as well try her, although he really had little faith in fortune tellers. So he left his car at the filling station, went across the road, found the woman and paid his dollar.

"Put out your hand, Honey," he was instructed. He put out his hand and the old woman looked at it intently. "Honey," she told him, "you ain't done livin' yet."

And that was all he got for his money. Feeling cheated, he drove away. But the old woman's words kept going around in his mind. Over and over he heard her voice: "You ain't done livin' yet." Gradually that vital thought penetrated his depression and let in a new hope and enthusiasm.

There are a great many people who glumly think they are through with living. They may not admit it, but you can usually tell by their eyes that the spirit within is dull, lifeless, hopeless, apathetic.

Have you kept your own enthusiasm up? Are you so eager about everything that you hate to go to bed at night for fear you'll miss something? Can you hardly wait for morning so that you can get started again?

That's the way all of us should be. Life ought to be perpetually fascinating. The good Lord didn't make the human spirit to run down; it is we who allow that to happen.

When I say that a human being can have perpetual enthusiasm all his life, I don't mean that we should become like some of those blithe, pollyanna-like, superficial people who live on the false assumption that all is sweetness and light. We need to realize the difficulties, sorrows and problems of human existence.

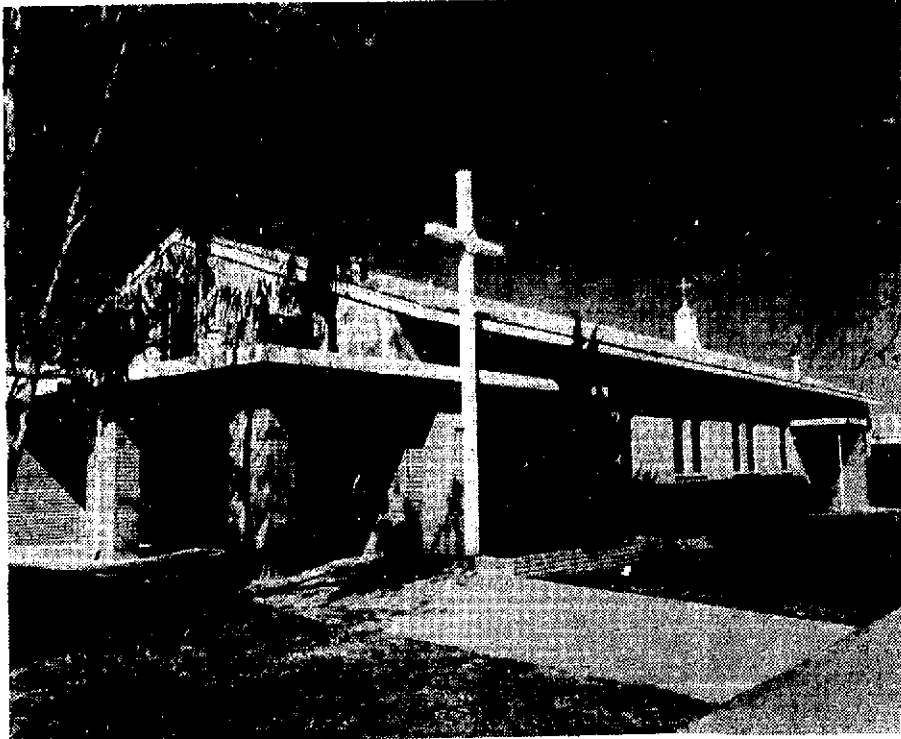

This should encourage in us a deep dedication to helping others. But, at the same time, we should retain an effervescent spirit of dynamic joy and enthusiasm about life and the world.

Of course, there is deterioration in life. There is aging in everything. A spiritual shabbiness tends to come over us as the years roll by unless we are renewed in spirit. But I have noticed that this happens most to those who lose touch with the well springs of their religious faith.

People who retain the fresh thrill of life are those who have turned the pages of that great Book which says: "Behold, I make all things new." In church or synagogue they have kept in close touch with the Creator Who also re-creates. Thus their enthusiasm never declines and life remains perpetually exciting.

Try a simple technique and you will go to sleep at night with a thrill in your heart because of what the day has been. And you will get up in the morning eager for what is coming.

Every morning simply repeat these words: "Behold, I make all things new." Then practice believing that the day will be filled with glorious opportunity.

OUR BEAUTIFUL CHURCHES

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 2283 Palo Verde Ave., is a small but very active neighborhood church. It was built in 1957. Worship services on Sunday are at 9 a.m. Rev. John T. Meether is the pastor.

'Sister churches'

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The Rev. Charles Angell of the ecumenical institute of the Graymoor Friars of the Atonement predicted at a joint Roman Catholic-Episcopal conference here that in his lifetime there will be "free association of the two sister apostolic churches in full communion."

By practice and thought discipline you can wipe thoughts of gloom, depression, tiredness, discouragement and apprehension from your mind. Then, having cleansed your mind, practice thinking the kinds of thoughts you imagine God wants you to think. Saturate your mind with the healthy and creative thoughts of the Scriptures. This practice will gradually recondition your attitudes. As a result you will yourself become new. You will have boundless, glorious enthusiasm every day.

Patriarch

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Catholicos Khoren I has announced he will step down in May as spiritual leader of 800,000 members of the Armenian Orthodox Church in four Middle Eastern countries and the United States.

Khoren I, who is 62, made the announcement Sunday on the Armenian program of Cyprus radio. He cited health reasons for his decision. He has served as patriarch of Cilicia for 14 years. That patriarchate, whose seat was moved from Cilicia, Turkey, to Lebanon after World War I, includes Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Cyprus and the United States.

Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you; as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. John 20:21.

Quaker plea

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Six Quaker leaders who visited Vietnam sent an appeal to President Carter to "launch American government aid to heal the wounds of war." They said U.S. help is the "debt we owe to the Vietnamese people and to our own sense of decency."

New leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops is the Rev. Thomas C. Kelly, formerly an assistant to his predecessor, Bishop James S. Rausch. Bishop Rausch was named by Pope Paul VI last month as bishop of Phoenix, Ariz.

Blessed are the poor in spirit; the kingdom of heaven is theirs.

'Caution'

PITTSBURGH — The United Church of Christ and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) heard here that "caution" is being suggested concerning proposed union talks. They proposed that there be two years of "conversations."

Take my yoke upon yourselves, and learn from me; I am gentle and humble of heart; and you shall find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light. Mt. II: 28-30

So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another. Romans 12:5.

For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God. Acts 20:27.

Violence edited out

Rookies 'disarmed' in reruns

By LES BROWN
New York Times Service

MIAMI BEACH — The reruns of such network series as "Hawaii Five-O" and "The Rookies" are being sold to local stations in heavily edited forms, with most of the more violent sequences deleted. "The Rookies," in fact, has lent itself to such editing that the programs, which had been an hour in length when they played on ABC-TV have been compressed into half hour shows for syndication.

Viacom Enterprises, which distributed those series, arranged for the violent sections of the programs to be cut, to make them acceptable for a television market that has been changed by the industry's "family viewing time" code and by the growing reluctance of advertisers to be associated with programs dealing with gratuitous violence and brutality.

The "family viewing" code, which went into effect last season and is still adhered to by most stations despite its having been ruled illegal in a court test, essentially bars sexually explicit and violence oriented programs from the early evening hours.

Those hours — 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. — have been the principal time periods in which independent stations carried action-adventure network reruns in strip form, that is, on a five-night-a-week basis.

A Viacom executive conceded that the "family viewing" restrictions have substantially curtailed the market potential for "Hawaii Five-O" and "Rookies," even with the deletion of violent scenes, and indicated that both series would have realized millions of dollars more in sales two or three years ago.

Some episodes of those series could not be successfully edited for violence and had to be discarded, he said. Those involved particularly the programs in "Rookies" dealing with the police tactical squad that later formed the basis for the series, "S.W.A.T."

The Viacom official said that around 25 stations have purchased "Hawaii" to date and approximately 15 stations the scaled down version of "Rookies" for presentation next fall.

Most of the sales were made at the annual conference of the National Association of Television Program Executives being held here this week.

Another series likely to undergo surgery for its violence content, he said, is the former CBS detective series, "Cannon." He indicated that it, too, may be altered for syndication to a half hour's length when its reruns go on the market next year.

Certain other companies are opposed to the idea of editing programs after their network runs to make them more acceptable for syndication.

Robin French, an executive of T.A.T. Productions, which distributes the series produced by Norman Lear, said his company was staunchly against what he termed "the laundering of shows" and will not permit deletions of scenes or dialogue from the reruns of "All In The Family," "M*A*S*H" or other shows, for "family viewing" purposes.

"Our shows are not immoral. There is no nudity, obscenity, indecency or violence in them. They are provocative and done in good taste," French said. "They have all passed the test of the industry code and the even more stringent standards of the networks."

POSITIVE THINKING

By Norman Vincent Peale

Keep your enthusiasm

A friend whose enthusiasm have been reborn told me of a discouraged man driving along a road down South. In his dark depression it seemed that the bottom had dropped out of life. He stopped at a filling station and noticed across the road a sign which read, "Fortunes Told—Know Your Future." He asked the attendant about it and was told that an old woman lived there who made her living by telling fortunes.

"She is quite a character," the attendant said, "and everyone she touches perks up." The tourist said, "Well, I sure need some parking up." He decided he might as well try her, although he really had little faith in fortune tellers. So he left his car at the filling station, went across the road, found the woman and paid his dollar.

"Put out your hand, Honey," he was instructed. He put out his hand and the old woman looked at it intently. "Honey," she told him, "you ain't done livin' yet."

And that was all he got for his money. Feeling cheated, he drove away. But the old woman's words kept going around in his mind. Over and over he heard her voice: "You ain't done livin' yet." Gradually that vital thought penetrated his depression and let in a new hope and enthusiasm.

There are a great many people who glumly think they are through with living. They may not admit it, but you can usually tell by their eyes that the spirit within is dull, lifeless, hopeless, apathetic.

Have you kept your own enthusiasm up? Are you so eager about everything that you hate to go to bed at night for fear you'll miss something? Can you hardly wait for morning so that you can get started again?

That's the way all of us should be. Life ought to be perpetually fascinating. The good Lord didn't make the human spirit to run down; it is we who allow that to happen.

When I say that a human being can have perpetual enthusiasm all his life, I don't mean that we should become like some of those blithe, pollyanna-like, superficial people who live on the false assumption that all is sweetness and light. We need to realize the difficulties, sorrows and problems of human existence.

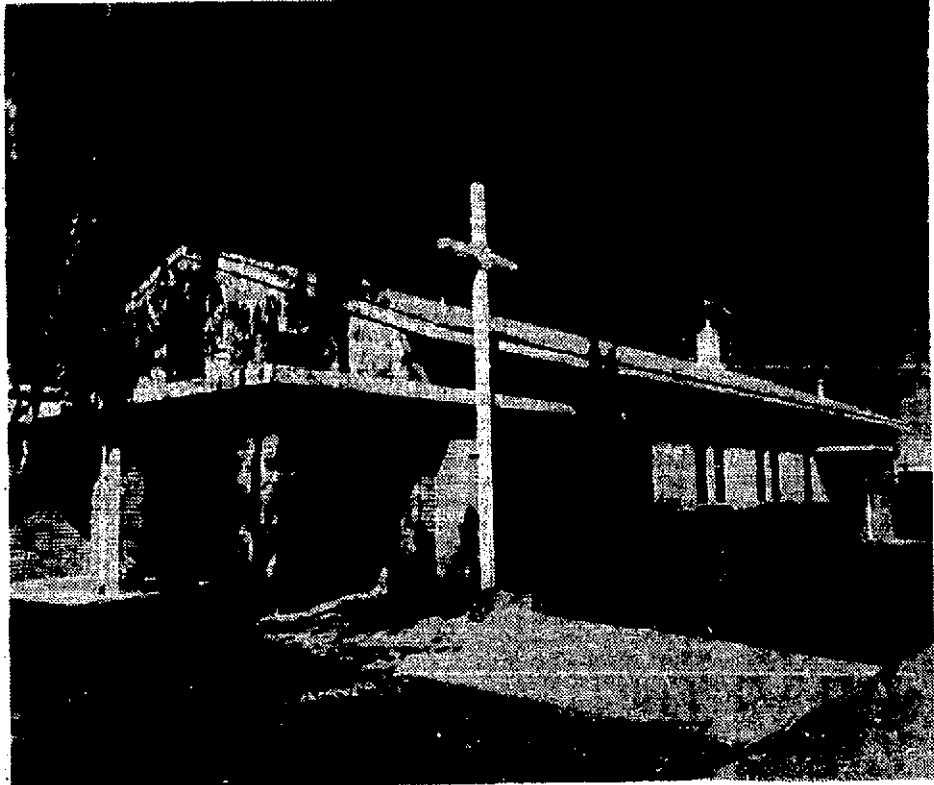

This should encourage in us a deep dedication to helping others. But, at the same time, we should retain an effervescent spirit of dynamic joy and enthusiasm about life and the world.

Of course, there is deterioration in life. There is aging in everything. A spiritual shabbiness tends to come over us as the years roll by unless we are renewed in spirit. But I have noticed that this happens most to those who lose touch with the well springs of their religious faith.

People who retain the fresh thrill of life are those who have turned the pages of that great Book which says: "Behold, I make all things new." In church or synagogue they have kept in close touch with the Creator Who also re-creates. Thus their enthusiasm never declines and life remains perpetually exciting.

Try a simple technique and you will go to sleep at night with a thrill in your heart because of what the day has been. And you will get up in the morning eager for what is coming.

Every morning simply repeat these words: "Behold, I make all things new." Then practice believing that the day will be filled with glorious opportunity.

OUR BEAUTIFUL CHURCHES

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 2283 Palo Verde Ave., is a small but very active neighborhood church. It was built in 1957. Worship services on Sunday are at 9 a.m. Rev. John T. Meether is the pastor.

'Sister churches'

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The Rev. Charles Angell of the ecumenical institute of the Graymoor Friars of the Atonement predicted at a joint Roman Catholic-Episcopal conference here that in his lifetime there will be "free association of the two sister apostolic churches in full communion."

By practice and thought discipline you can wipe thoughts of gloom, depression, tiredness, discouragement and apprehension from your mind. Then, having cleansed your mind, practice thinking the kinds of thoughts you imagine God wants you to think. Saturate your mind with the healthy and creative thoughts of the Scriptures. This practice will gradually recondition your attitudes. As a result you will yourself become new. You will have boundless, glorious enthusiasm every day.

Patriarch

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Catholicos Khoren I has announced he will step down in May as spiritual leader of 800,000 members of the Armenian Orthodox Church in four Middle Eastern countries and the United States.

Khoren I, who is 62, made the announcement Sunday on the Armenian program of Cyprus radio. He cited health reasons for his decision.

He has served as patriarch of Cilicia for 14 years. That patriarchate, whose seat was moved from Cilicia, Turkey, to Lebanon after World War I, includes Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Cyprus and the United States.

Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you; as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. John 20:21.

Quaker plea

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Six Quaker leaders who visited Vietnam sent an appeal to President Carter to "launch American government aid to heal the wounds of war." They said U.S. help is the "debt we owe to the Vietnamese people and to our own sense of decency."

New leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops is the Rev. Thomas C. Kelly, formerly an assistant to his predecessor, Bishop James S. Rausch. Bishop Rausch was named by Pope Paul VI last month as bishop of Phoenix, Ariz.

Blessed are the poor in spirit; the kingdom of heaven is theirs.

'Caution'

PITTSBURGH — The United Church of Christ and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) heard here that "caution" is being suggested concerning proposed union talks. They proposed that there be two years of "conversations."

Take my yoke upon yourselves, and learn from me; I am gentle and humble of heart; and you shall find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light. Mt. II: 28-30

So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another. Romans 12:5.

For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God. Acts 20:27.

Violence edited out

Rookies 'disarmed' in reruns

By LES BROWN
New York Times Service

MIAMI BEACH — The reruns of such network series as "Hawaii Five-O" and "The Rookies" are being sold to local stations in heavily edited forms, with most of the more violent sequences deleted. "The Rookies," in fact, has lent itself to such editing that the programs, which had been an hour in length when they played on ABC-TV have been compressed into half hour shows for syndication.

Viacom Enterprises, which distributed those series, arranged for the violent sections of the programs to be cut, to make them acceptable for a television market that has been changed by the industry's "family viewing time" code and by the growing reluctance of advertisers to be associated with programs dealing with gratuitous violence and brutality.

The "family viewing" code, which went into effect last season and is still adhered to by most stations despite its having been ruled illegal in a court test, essentially bars sexually explicit and violence oriented programs from the early evening hours.

Those hours — 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. — have been the principal time periods in which independent stations carried action-adventure network reruns in strip form, that is, on a five-night-a-week basis.

A Viacom executive conceded that the "family viewing" restrictions have substantially curtailed the market potential for "Hawaii Five-O" and "Rookies," even with the deletion of violent scenes, and indicated that both series would have realized millions of dollars more in sales two or three years ago.

Some episodes of those series could not be successfully edited for violence and had to be discarded, he said. Those involved particularly the programs in "Rookies" dealing with the police tactical squad that later formed the basis for the series, "S.W.A.T."

The Viacom official said that around 25 stations have purchased "Hawaii" to date and approximately 15 stations the scaled down version of "Rookies" for presentation next fall.

Most of the sales were made at the annual conference of the National Association of Television Program Executives being held here this week.

Another series likely to undergo surgery for its violence content, he said, is the former CBS detective series, "Cannon." He indicated that it, too, may be altered for syndication to a half hour's length when its reruns go on the market next year.

Certain other companies are opposed to the idea of editing programs after their network runs to make them more acceptable for syndication.

Robin French, an executive of T.A.T. Productions, which distributes the series produced by Norman Lear, said his company was staunchly against what he termed "the laundering of shows" and will not permit deletions of scenes or dialogue from the reruns of "All in the Family," "M*A*S*H" or other shows, for "family viewing" purposes.

"Our shows are not immoral. There is no nudity, obscenity, indecency or violence in them. They are provocative and done in good taste," French said. "They have all passed the test of the industry code and the even more stringent standards of the networks."

Emergency-plan consolidation set

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

City Manager John Dever scotched a widely circulated rumor Friday that the city's emergency preparedness program would be eliminated as part of his planned reorganization of city government.

Dever said the Department of Emergency Preparedness headed by Evar Peterson, will probably be placed under Fire Department control within a few months, but he said the move may well mean an expanded rather than a reduced preparedness program.

Peterson acknowledged the possibility of a cut in his staff, which consists of three permanent employees and one temporary worker. He said it's too early to tell, however, how many of them will be let go.

He also said his present budget will probably be reduced in the consolidation, but he said "there'll be no cutback in our ability to carry out the city's emergency preparedness program. In fact, there's every indication that the program may be improved through the more efficient use of resources in a larger department," he declared.

PETERSON said the city's emergency preparedness headquarters — an elaborately equipped underground facility at 4040 E. Spring St. — will not be affected by the pending move. Under an agreement with the federal government, the city must use the former Nike site for another 18 years.

Nor will the services of the city's volunteer search and rescue unit be dispensed with, according to Fire Chief Robert Leslie.

"We have a great regard for the search and rescue team and have no intention of letting it go," the chief said. The unit is composed of about 20 youths who volunteer their services during fire and other emergencies.

Leslie said he expects to meet with Peterson next week to discuss the details of the forthcoming merger — one of a number of consolidations that are expected to be made by Dever in his effort to streamline the city's bureaucracy.

According to City Hall sources, the new manager has said he wants to consolidate the 39-odd departments into about 10, which he considers a more manageable figure.

DEVER SAID he'll present his reorganization plan to the City Council in May.

Peterson set up the emergency preparedness program when he came to Long Beach in 1961 from a similar job with the Eisenhower administration.

Since then, he has refined the program, planned and directed mock emergency exercises for the city and generally kept the city's resources in readiness for an emergency.

He had extensive experience on both a federal and state level with emergency relief programs.

Peterson works with a $178,000 annual budget, half of which is supplied by the federal government.

Would ewe believe? A lamb

Minerva the ewe, a member of the Ramona Elementary School zoo in Bellflower, has given birth to a healthy lamb.

Science teacher Elina Beck, who began the zoo several years ago so her city-dwelling students could learn about animals they might otherwise not have a chance to see, said the lamb was born at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"Due to the fact that he was born on George Washington's birthday, we took the liberty of naming him "Little George," she said. "We feel Minerva is a very patriotic sheep, since her other offspring, Daisy, was born Feb. 12, 1976 — Abraham Lincoln's birthday."

Mrs. Beck said Minerva's delivery was photographed and is "a high point" of the school year.

In addition to Minerva and Little George, the zoo includes Denise the Goat, Dumb Dora the white turkey, several rabbits, hamsters, chickens, snakes and other animals.

The SS Catalina is "taxied" by tugboats to a new, temporary berth, traveling uneventfully from Berth 232 to Long Beach Boat Works on Terminal Island. The 53-year-old ship didn't even rev up her engines, but she's in for a renovation during which new owner Hymie Singer says he's willing to pay $3 million to convert her to a restaurant-museum. He said he had no idea, however, just how long that process might take nor where her permanent mooring will be.

Post-storm weather 'perfect' Strawberries ripe for the pickin'

By DICK EMERY

Plump strawberries were being harvested in truckloads Friday within shouting distance of city traffic in the Long Beach area.

The day's warm sunshine and lively breeze dried raindrops clinging to the strawberry plants — and to the berries — saving the season's earliest strawberry crop from rain damage.

So said an expert, William Kotake, partner in the Kotake Brothers farming enterprise in Cerritos.

On a 50-acre berry patch run by the Kotakes, near Alondra and Shoemaker avenues, 60 berry-pickers started filling trays as soon as the sun and breeze had dried the rain.

Kotake said harm comes to strawberries on the fourth day of wetness, after a rain or during a prolonged drizzly spell. The berries mold.

"Because the sun and breeze came next day," he said, "the rain-storm Thursday was beneficial. However, we no longer irrigate strawberries by the old system of flooding."

Instead, modern commercial farms use a system proven successful in Israel, he said, and first tried in California about five years ago.

"It uses only one-third as much water," he said.

Flat plastic tubes with tiny pinholes are laid along the earth between the young berry plants. Clear plastic mulching sheets cover the plants until they are sturdy. Then with propane torches, gardeners cut holes which permit each plant to spread over the plastic surface, instead of over the earth. Berries grow clean.

Through the flat plastic tubes, filtered water is pumped.

"It must be very clean, so that no particles of sand clog the tiny holes in the tube," Kotake said.

"The system was worked out in Israel, where they have a severe water problem in their desert gardens."

"The first crop each season will have the biggest and best berries. Each time a subsequent cluster comes out, the berries will be smaller, and the quality poorer, as the season progresses. By the end of the season, our berries will be going only to the canners," the grower explained.

"Biggest berries run maybe only six to fill a basket. Small berries take many more. It takes 12 baskets to fill a tray."

Picking strawberries is the original "back-achin' labor" in truck farming. The berries grow within an inch or two of ground level. They must be carefully picked so that the vines are not damaged.

Varieties of strawberries cultivated over most of the world are descendants of a wild plant native to the west coast of South America.

My Town

Los Cerritos is horse, fly country

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a "My Town" series reporting what residents of local communities believe is right or wrong in their neighborhoods. The series will continue to appear on Saturdays.

By BERT RESNIK
Assistant Managing Editor

In the western section of the Los Cerritos neighborhood, you can have a backyard barbecue and automatically know who's coming to dinner — a million flies.

They arrive, according to four of 25 respondents to "My Town," courtesy of the horse stables on Golden Avenue, just east of the Los Angeles River flood control channel.

The manure piles there may have provided the flies their main course, but a barbecue serves up dessert for them.

Willard D. Franssen, who described the pesky dinner guests, feels horses should be stabled away from residential areas. There's another reason besides dinner interruptions.

"Responsible dog owners can be seen with a small shovel and paper bag when walking their dogs," wrote Franssen.

"I have yet to see a horse rider carrying a scoop shovel and large shopping bag as they canter through the neighborhood."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Florek, who never have backyard barbecues anymore, also would like to see underground telephone and electrical cables installed and have the city make a public park of the litter-strewn lot at Wardlow Road and Pacific Place.

Mrs. Carl Spath had no complaints.

"We have loved living in Los Cerritos, as it is like a small community," she wrote.

"Everyone is so friendly and takes personal interest and pride in their homes."

The area is bounded by the Long Beach Freeway on the west, the Union Pacific Railroad tracks on the north, Long Beach Boulevard on the east and Wardlow Road on the south.

Unlike Mrs. Spath, even those who wrote in praise of the community had some complaints.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Shively said morning and afternoon rush-hour traffic on Pacific Avenue was turning a lovely residential area into an undesirable one.

Dr. James Holechek suggested that Pacific Avenue should be "cut off" under the San Diego Freeway to prevent it from becoming a thoroughfare. There was another complaint that it was "impossible" to turn left on Wardlow Road from Pacific Avenue. Ann E. Hodges and another respondent suggested installation of a traffic signal at the intersection.

Carolyn White reported that the northeast corner of 35th Street and Linden Avenue was hazardous because of pipes sticking out of the ground and rocks and bottles scattered about.

Walter C. Yaisli wrote that the street sweepers were not coming on the posted day in the 3900 block on Virginia Road.

E. G. Spehar complained about the noise of airplanes, a problem mentioned by several others.

Hughes Junior High School student Ann Waggener wasn't sure why, but Los Cerritos reminded her of Hawaii. Shelton Waggener, 10, didn't like the broken bottles and junk by the railroad tracks, "and it smells bad."

Mrs. Ray Larson was thankful for a neighborhood sentry system that has reduced burglaries, but was irked because the community was "inundated with spot zoning, thanks to a Planning Commission that really doesn't care."

THE SINGLE GIRL moved to the Bixby community from an apartment further north a few months ago.

"Boy, could I tell the difference," wrote M. J. H.

The difference meant not really worrying about forgetting to lock the doors because the neighbors, who get to know each other, look after each other.

The difference was that she could sleep out in her backyard if she felt like it.

"It's that safe," she wrote.

Charles F. Cleary didn't state how long he had lived in Bixby.

He did specify, unlike M. J. H., that he no longer felt safe.

For on Jan. 5 he and his wife returned home to find that it had been ransacked, a "traumatic experience." They have yet to recover from the "sinking feeling" that someone had actually broken into their home.

The locks have been changed now and an expensive burglar alarm system installed.

Cleary, however, wants to know why there aren't more police patrolling the area:

"I suffered a sizable loss of property (jewelry, clothes and appliances), and I can't help but feel that somehow I'm being short-changed when I never see a police car in this area where I live." The Bixby area is bounded by the Union Pacific Railroad tracks, Cherry Avenue, Bixby Road, Orange Avenue and San Antonio Drive.

Eight of 22 respondents to "My Town" disliked the noise from small airplanes.

Dogs and parking were close behind in the complaint columns.

BIXBY KNOLLS is bounded by Long Beach Boulevard, San Antonio Drive, Orange Avenue and Bixby Road.

M. D. Benson would like to see surface and air stations established to measure noise throughout those boundaries.

First, though, decibel standards should be created to define the amount of allowable maximum noise.

Leola Wright is more concerned with getting the traffic signal at Bixby Road and Atlantic Avenue to last longer so she can feel safe from speeders when she's crossing.

Parking problems, particularly on Elm Avenue, were mentioned by several respondents.

Melvin H. Schuck pays $100 a month in property taxes "for the privilege of doing my own painting, decorating, maintenance and yard work."

What worries him is the steady parade of peddlers and solicitors at his door. He wonders if they're "casing my area" for burglaries.

"The officers we have are excellent but we need more," he wrote.

"When are our city leaders going to get their heads down out of the clouds and forget their big dreams for the fabulous city of tomorrow and start using tax dollars to protect the citizens now?"

"Have any of the civic leaders tried to go to a city park on a Sunday afternoon?"

There were 21 "My Town" respondents from the Bixby Knolls area.

FROM California Heights, 14 of 19 "My Town" respondents signed their names, the highest percentage of signatures from any neighborhood.

The area is bounded by Long Beach Boulevard, Bixby Road, Cherry Avenue and Wardlow Road.

D. W. Campbell was complimentary about his friendly neighbors, the big trees which were great for shade "or just looking at," but didn't like the noise from airplanes taking off over 36th Street. Three others were disturbed by noise from small planes.

Kathy Waggoner, who moved into an apartment two years ago, found "the serenity to be an illusion."

In the 28-unit complex, she reported, there have been 11 stolen cars, three burglaries and a strong-arm robbery since she moved there.

Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Monroe want the center areas of 36th Street beautified.

Dorothy Brinkman wrote that street sweepers have been promised for three years for Lime Avenue "but no results yet."

Mrs. Ralph C. Lind feels a stop sign is needed at 37th Street and California Avenue.

L. Walker has lived in the neighborhood for 35 years, still likes it, but is concerned about the drag racing south from the signal at Bixby Road.

Otto Mayfield felt it would be just perfect if people would pick up their litter. C. W. Campbell and three others wanted more police protection. C. Howard Engels said a traffic signal was needed at 36th Street and Atlantic Avenue. Ethel M. Bathke didn't like the speeding on Orange Avenue, and D. R. Bennett and several others complained about dogs.

Wrote M. H. Bush: "After living and working in many foreign countries, we always returned to our choice of a place to enjoy and live — Long Beach."

NEXT SATURDAY: Downtown Long Beach.

In the western section of the Los Cerritos neighborhood, you can have a backyard barbecue and automatically know who's coming to dinner — a million flies.

They arrive, according to four of 25 respondents to "My Town," courtesy of the horse stables on Golden Avenue, just east of the Los Angeles River flood control channel.

The manure piles there may have provided the flies their main course, but a barbecue serves up dessert for them.

Willard D. Franssen, who described the pesky dinner guests, feels horses should be stabled away from residential areas. There's another reason besides dinner interruptions.

"Responsible dog owners can be seen with a small shovel and paper bag when walking their dogs," wrote Franssen.

"I have yet to see a horse rider carrying a scoop shovel and large shopping bag as they canter through the neighborhood."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Florek, who never have backyard barbecues anymore, also would like to see underground telephone and electrical cables installed and have the city make a public park of the litter-strewn lot at Wardlow Road and Pacific Place.

Mrs. Carl Spath had no complaints.

"We have loved living in Los Cerritos, as it is like a small community," she wrote.

"Everyone is so friendly and takes personal interest and pride in their homes."

The area is bounded by the Long Beach Freeway on the west, the Union Pacific Railroad tracks on the north, Long Beach Boulevard on the east and Wardlow Road on the south.

Unlike Mrs. Spath, even those who wrote in praise of the community had some complaints.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Shively said morning and afternoon rush-hour traffic on Pacific Avenue was turning a lovely residential area into an undesirable one.

Dr. James Holechek suggested that Pacific Avenue should be "cut off" under the San Diego Freeway to prevent it from becoming a thoroughfare. There was another complaint that it was "impossible" to turn left on Wardlow Road from Pacific Avenue. Ann E. Hodges and another respondent suggested installation of a traffic signal at the intersection.

HORSES CLOSE TO LOS CERRITOS HOMES BOTHER SOME AREA RESIDENTS

THE SINGLE GIRL moved to the Bixby community from an apartment further north a few months ago.

"Boy, could I tell the difference," wrote M. J. H.

The difference meant not really worrying about forgetting to lock the doors because the neighbors, who get to know each other, look after each other.

The difference was that she could sleep out in her backyard if she felt like it.

"It's that safe," she wrote. Charles F. Cleary didn't state how long he had lived in Bixby.

He did specify, unlike M. J. H., that he no longer felt safe.

For on Jan. 5 he and his wife returned home to find that it had been ransacked, a "traumatic experience." They have yet to recover from the "sinking feeling" that someone had actually broken into their home.

The locks have been changed now and an expensive burglar alarm system installed.

Cleary, however, wants to know why there aren't more police patrolling the area.

"I suffered a sizable loss of property (jewelry, clothes and appliances), and I can't help but feel that somehow I'm being short-

Long Beach, Calif. 90801

The accompanying form, a separate letter or a combination of both may be used to write your answers.

The replies will be available for any interested City Council member or other governmental representatives.

In following weeks, opinions will be sought from residents of other neighborhoods served by this newspaper.

changed when I never see a police car in this area where I live."

The Bixby area is bounded by the Union Pacific Railroad tracks, Cherry Avenue, Bixby Road, Orange Avenue and San Antonio Drive.

Eight of 22 respondents to "My Town" disliked the noise from small airplanes.

BIXBY KNOLLS is bounded by Long Beach Boulevard, San Antonio Drive, Orange Avenue and Bixby Road.

M. D. Benson would like to see surface and air stations established to measure noise throughout those boundaries.

First, though, decibel standards should be created to define the amount of allowable maximum noise.

Leola Wright is more concerned with getting the traffic signal at Bixby Road and Atlantic Avenue to last longer so she can feel safe from speeders when she's crossing.

Parking problems, particularly on Elm Avenue, were mentioned by several respondents.

Melvin H. Schuck pays $100 a month in property taxes "for the privilege of doing my own painting, decorating, maintenance and yard work."

What worries him is the steady parade of peddlers and solicitors at his door. He wonders if they're "casing my area" for burglaries.

"The officers we have are excellent but we need more," he wrote.

"When are our city leaders going to get their heads down out of the clouds and forget their big dreams for the fabulous city of tomorrow and start using tax dollars to protect the citizens now?"

"Have any of the civic leaders tried to go to a city park on a Sunday afternoon?"

There were 21 "My Town" respondents from the Bixby Knolls area.

The area is bounded by Long Beach Boulevard, Bixby Road, Cherry Avenue and Wardlow Road.

D. W. Campbell was complimentary about his friendly neighbors, the big trees which were great for shade "or just looking at," but didn't like the noise from airplanes taking off over 36th Street. Three others were disturbed by noise from small planes.

Kathy Waggoner, who moved into an apartment two years ago, found "the serenity to be an illusion."

In the 28-unit complex, she reported, there have been 11 stolen cars, three burglaries and a strong-arm robbery since she moved there.

Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Monroe want the center areas of 36th Street beautified.

Dorothy Brinkman wrote that street sweepers have been promised for three years for Lime Avenue "but no results yet."

Mrs. Ralph C. Lind feels a stop sign is needed at 37th Street and California Avenue.

L. Walker has lived in the neighborhood for 35 years, still likes it, but is concerned about the drag racing south from the signal at Bixby Road.

Otto Mayfield felt it would be just perfect if people would pick up their litter. C. W. Campbell and three others wanted more police protection. C. Howard Engels said a traffic signal was needed at 36th Street and Atlantic Avenue. Ethel M. Bathke didn't like the speeding on Orange Avenue, and D. R. Bennett and several others complained about dogs.

Wrote M. H. Bush: "After living and working in many foreign countries, we always returned to our choice of a place to enjoy and live — Long Beach."

NEXT SATURDAY: Downtown Long Beach.

LUGGAGE RACK

If you plan to attach a luggage rack to the roof of your car, advises the National Automobile Club, attach it as far forward as possible to help distribute the additional weight on the wheels.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: This is the year you avoid taking the easiest route, learn to balance material gain against other considerations. By being yourself as constructively as you can, your charm attracts all the good companionship needed for comfortable collaboration. Today's natives are likeable, have talent for technical figuring in such fields as electronics. Those born this year inherently are philosophers, may apply this gift in theater and entertainment vocations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A whim of the moment carries you away from expected plans. You'll be glad it did when you find out what you missed or escaped. Update personal records.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Clear your home work area of trivial details, a few serious items. Siesta at noon. Regroup for evening fun. Discuss future plans, accept them in principle.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends are quite capable of getting into interesting mischief without your help. Catch errors in accounts, round up belongings, retrieve items lent out.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Family talks are satisfying. Not many of the extremes will come to pass, more external factors enter. Strengthening emotional ties is most important, within reach.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Those near you are temperamental mainly to get more attention from you. Humor them without waiting for too much fuss. Avoid excess in lending or spending.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What seemed a useless but pleasant diversion appeals to others as something worth following up. Encourage them. Leave business out of it, enjoy their optimism.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some highly paid advisers are out of step with local or individual needs. Others have axes to grind. In the final analysis, you must make up your own mind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Look over your household. See what is required to keep things in working order. Some items inspire revision, the urge to find new homes for outdated objects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): People go off on their adventures without telling you much. Be thankful for a chance to think. Watch for results of past actions to arrive this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Efforts to pursue commercial activity is misguided. Things you need most aren't always obvious. Decide what to do to make daily living more convenient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stay on the surface, take nothing too seriously. Keep moving. Competitions in sports or games run to extremes. Tonight wind up with some happy excitement.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Something said in casual conversation gets you off on a new tack. Pleasures for their own sake are okay, dominate the day, serve as cover for deep thoughts.

February important Feed camellias soon

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

February is an important month for feeding camellias, whether they are just beginning to bloom, or have passed their peak of flowering. The reason we fertilize them at this time is to give the plant food an opportunity to break down in time to give the developing new growth a boost for better and longer growth.

The camellia food should not be scratched in, but lightly chopped into the soil — be sure to water the plant a day or two before feeding.

Gardeners will help shape the plants uniformly — especially the older plants — as flowers are cut for indoor decoration. The most important primary principle in pruning is to always cut just above a leaf, a leafless bud, or down to a crotch where there is a remainder branch or two.

You can cut an overly tall and extra large spreading plant as far back as you wish. As an example, cut back a 10-foot tall plant to three feet above the ground. The cut stubs, half inch or longer, should be painted with a pruning compound.

One strain of camellia, however, the huge flowering Reticulata that Mark Anthony, former superintendent of Descanso Gardens, recommends, should not be severely pruned until its growth to mature size. This variety likes up to half day of sunshine.

THERE ARE several reasons by camellia buds drop before they open or as they start to show petal color. Jules Nuccio of their famous camellia nurseries believes erratic watering during the buds' formation and growth is one of the primary causes. Erratic watering means the plant is watered normally for a time, then allowed to get too dry. It's likely to be overwatered when the gardener realizes what has happened. Then, it's a shock to the buds.

Another possible reason may be due to thrips attacking the base of the calyx attached to the branch. Weather, too, causes havoc. The first third of the camellia blooming season, early last fall, was extremely dry. Then, after a good rainfall, the plants perked up.

CHECK AZALEAS and rhododendrons for moisture content in the planting medium they're growing in. Most of them are grown in a sphagnum peat moss or an azalea peat mix that contains only half peat and half of several kinds of barks, intermixed together.

Peat moss absorbs seven times or more the amount of water that other amendments use, except sphagnum moss which is not used to mix with soil to the plants into.

That is why you should be more concerned with these types of plants during the winter season. Winter rains may not provide enough moisture.

Camellia walk

George Lewis, superintendent of Descanso Gardens, will lead a public walk through the gardens' camellia forest and adjoining areas Sunday starting at 10 a.m. from the gatehouse.

The camellia collection at Descanso is of particular interest because it is one of the largest in the country and contains many of the hundreds of varieties continually being developed by hybridizers, most of them amateur camellia fanciers.

Descanso Gardens is located at 1418 Descanso Drive, La Canada. There is no admission charge.

GARDENING

BIG PLANTS from little seedlings grow

Starting plants from seeds indoors is easy and fun. It gives you a head-start on Mother Nature before the outdoor planting season begins.

In many parts of the country, the outdoor growing season is not long enough to grow some varieties of vegetables from seed (of course, that doesn't apply to Southern California). Slow growers, like, tomatoes, eggplant, celery and peppers, really need an early indoor start (and it is so much more economical to plant from seed than from commercially grown seedlings). For cucumbers, beans, zucchini and corn, starting early means an earlier and larger harvest.

Zinnias, marigolds, and petunias are some of the popular garden annuals that are easy to start indoors. You just set the seedlings in your flower beds after the weather and soil has warmed.

Almost any kind of container can be used for growing seedlings — can, pot, milk carton, shallow box — as long as it is at least four inches deep. Puncture holes in the bottom for proper drainage and the container is ready to be filled with soil.

Sterilized planting mixtures that contain just the right elements for growing seedlings are available in most garden stores. If you prefer to mix and sterilize your own, use equal parts of garden soil, builder's sand and compost or peat. Then put the mixture in the oven at 250 degrees for a half hour. This will kill bacteria to prevent diseases from developing. It will also kill weed seeds.

The soil in your container must now be thoroughly watered and allowed to stand about two hours before the seed is planted.

If you are using more than one variety of seed, sow seeds in rows about 1/4-inch deep and about 2-3 inches apart. When using one kind of seed only, broadcast it over the surface and press into the soil.

Once the seeds have been planted, cover the container with plastic and place it in a warm, sunny window. No further watering should be needed unless the soil surface becomes dry to the touch.

When seedlings appear (germination usually takes one or two weeks) remove the plastic. Water the soil now when necessary, but avoid sprinkling directly on the seedling leaves.

Within a few more weeks, the seedlings should be about two inches tall and ready to transplant into individual pots or larger flats where they should be placed about three inches apart. Continue to water regularly until you are ready to plant your seedlings outdoors.

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — A Bakersfield man's pride at having shot a trophy-size elk resulted indirectly in his conviction of taking the animal illegally.

A Municipal Court jury this week found Michael Gill Stier, 28, guilty of taking a wapiti elk illegally and being illegally in possession of a trophy head.

Stier, owner of a recreation vehicle business here, claimed the elk was the sixth biggest ever shot and his feat was publicized in newspapers.

The publicity caused U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service officers to check Stier's claim that he had shot the elk in Colorado. They could find no record of it being killed there nor a record of the dead animal being brought into California.

Stier was charged with violating California Fish and Game laws on the assumption the elk was shot in mountains near here. Judge William Stone scheduled sentencing for March 16.
